Meet and Greet with Senator Bob Huff

Joe Shammas, Candidate for California's 29th Congressional District, Michael Allawos, President of Allawos & Company, California State Senator Bob Huff, Glendora Councilman Gary Boyer and Ghazi Fedail, the owner of Dandana's Restaurant.

GLENDORA - On a relaxing Sunday afternoon in Glendora at Dandana's Mediterranean Restaurant, Michael Allawos President of Allawos & Company, Glendora Councilman Gary Boyer, with facilities and refreshments by Ghazi Fedail, hosted California State Senator Bob Huff. Senator Huff is a candidate for Los Angeles 5th County's district supervisor's seat, filling the void of termed out Supervisor Mike Antonovich.

In front of a lively and inquisitive group Councilman Gary Boyer gave a brief address to support a thought, idea or to about current events in the City of Glendora as well as asking for a report card since being elected almost one year ago to the City Council. There were questions concerning the business climate within the City and the ongoing stress that business owners face on a daily basis. Councilman Boyer wanted to fulfill a promise to visit with as many of the people in Glendora that helped him get elected as possible. "One of the larger challenges with being on the City Council is to convince the other members on the Council simply put an item on the agenda."

Senator Bob Huff gave an impassioned speech about the state of affairs here in California with its many challenges ahead of it. Many questions came from the audience from Governor Brown's high speed train, pending legislation for a $15 minimum wage and what it will do to small business to new water runoff/quality State mandates and the loss of good paying jobs to other States due to State mandates high taxes and labor costs to name a few.

The questions weren't contained to the above showing the growing anxiety over the future of the State and the talk of a pending recession that seems to mirror the mood of the nation.

5th District Supervisor Mike Antonovich has been a staple to the community and it will take an experienced person to fill those massive shoes to represent the constituents in the manner they have become accustom to, Senator Bob Huff is that person.

The primary election will be this June 7th, 2016 where a number of candidates will be selected and will go on to the November 8th, 2016 general election.

Police Chief Dave Faulkner congratulates a number of his police officers.

And Information For El Niño SAN GABRIEL – With El Niño storms just beginning and expected to only get worse this winter, the City of San Gabriel has launched a special webpage to provide residents with important emergency preparedness information. People who live and work in San Gabriel can visit www.sangabrielcity.com/elnino to find tips on how to protect themselves and their property during severe weather. The site also gives residents the tools to event, such as important phone numbers.

The information on the city site has also be distributed throughout the city in a flyer, which has been translated into Chinese and Spanish. The translated flyers are also posted to the webpage.

Residents are also encouraged to sign up to receive alerts and information from the Fire Department through the city's emergency notification system, stay safe during a rainstorm SG Alert. Sign up at www.sangabrielcity.com/

As Southern California faces the most severe rainy season in years, the city aims to keep residents and businesses safe and prevent damage to all city infrastructure. All city departments have worked hard to prepare for El Niño, and now the city is providing residents with the tools and information they need to do the same.

Mesa Glen Care Center Celebrates Valentine's Day

By Jayam Rutnam

GLENDORA - Mesa Glen Care Center celebrated Valentine's Day with a special candlelight dinner. The dining room was adorned with Valentine decorations. Many of the residents came out to the dining room to partake in the special event. They even had a disc jockey, Tony Millot who sang Frank Sinatra and Englebert Humperdink songs. Some of the relatives of the residents came over to visit and wish them a happy Valentine's Day.

Mesa Glen Care Center is a 96 bed skilled nursing facility. They provide individualized attention to residents who require a short term stay to recuperate from traumatizing or acute medical conditions and also those who are in need of a long term or an unknown length of

West Covina Council Moves Forward on Concealed Weapon Permit

By George Ogden

WEST COVINA - West Covina Councilman Mike Spence brought to the table at the City Council Meeting an agenda item allowing residents to have a concealed weapons permit. This is known as CCW (carry concealed weapon). There is a lot of pros and cons in regards to this issue. A number of citizens came forward and spoke at the lectern at the City Council Meetings about carrying a concealed weapon and having a permit to do it.

A number of people who have spoken in support of a CCW included Bill Elliott. He is also known as Wild Bill by some of his friends. At the last city Council meeting, he showed up with an American Flag draped over his shoulders and talked about the Second Amendment right to own firearms and to carry firearms. Elliott, who is well articulated and considered a good speaker as he projects as he speaks, talking on almost any topic, especially CCW. However this time, while he was talking, the American flag slipped from his shoulders and fell to the floor. He quickly picked it up, as a number of people from the audience could be heard expressing their displeasure of seeing the American flag at the floor. You could tell that Elliott himself was disturbed that this happened and later said he was upset about himself for not making sure that the flag would stay in place. When he was finish speaking, he took the flag with him and one young lady commented about him folding the flag prop-

After all the speakers spoke on the topic there was extensive council discussion which included the city attorney. Spence had questions for the city attorney in regards to the language that would be presented in a motion. Mayor James Toma also asked questions and police chief David Faulkner came to the lectern to answer any questions. It stated that the city has not issued any concealed weapons permits since 1978. In most cases in many cities, the police chief is in charge of issuing gun permits, and the Los Angeles County Sheriff if it is within their jurisdiction.

Spence had a number of concerns about restricting citizens from getting a concealed weapons permit. He named a number of local cities along with Sacramento who issue permits. He had concerns that if a citizen wanted to have a firearms permit to protect their family or themselves and they are denied, why would that be the case? He basically said that it is sad that tect yourself or your family simply because of the ZIP Code you live in. The chief responded to some questions and also quoted policy from a book which appeared not to leave very much

Both Councilman Tony Wu and Lloyd Johnson talked about what the policy should be for getting a permit which would include psychological evaluation, background investigation, and certainly the training that would go along with that weapon.

After some further discussion between all councilmembers, it went to a vote. The vote was 3-2 in favor of moving forward to have the city issue firearms permits. Spence, Johnson and Wu voted for this item to move forward. Mayor James Toma, and Councilman Corey Warshaw were the "no" votes. However, later discussion seem to have all members agreeing to the city to follow a strict protocol before issuing a permit. City staff and the city attorney will develop language for this item.

Runner, Huff Introduce Measure to Keep Dangerous Felons Off the Streets

SACRAMENTO - Senator Sharon Runner (R-Antelope Valley) and Senator Bob Huff (R-San Dimas) announced they introduced legislation to close a standing 20 year old warrant for that will apply uniformly to all loophole that allows dangerous sale of marijuana. The Sheriff's law enforcement jurisdictions in felons back on to our streets. Department arranged to have California, preventing the kind Senate Bill 1077 will stop a local law enforcement agency from taking custody of a convicted felon who is scheduled for deportation unless the offender will be prosecuted for a new felony.

erly and he turned around and SB 1077 was introduced in light of the events surrounding Katherine Steinle's death last year and is identical to SB 57 (Runner, Huff) of 2015. Senator Cathleen Galgiani (D-Stockton) is a co-author of SB 1077 giving the measure bi-partisan support.

In July 2015, 32 year-old Kathryn Steinle was walking with her father on Pier 14 in San Francisco when she was shot and killed by Juan Francisco Lopez-Sanchez, a career criminal with seven felony convictions. Three months earlier, the San Francisco Sheriff had requested custody of Lopez-Sanchez, because of an out-Lopez-Sanchez transported to San Francisco at public expense before considering whether the case would actually be tried. He was released when the San Francisco District Attorney declined to prosecute the decades old charge.

"Senseless killings are always difficult to accept, but Katherine Steinle's death is particularly appalling because it was so easily avoidable," said Senator Runner. "The State of California and our local jurisdictions should not be in the business of rescuing convicted felons from the Federal Government. The State Legislature needs to act before more innocent lives are lost."

"It's critically important that dangerous and violent felons held in federal custody should not be set free under any circumstance." said Senator Huff. "Our legislation is a thoughtful and common sense procedure of error in judgment that has already cost innocent lives."

"Public safety needs to continue to be our number one priority," said Senator Galgiani. "I am happy to support common sense legislation that will keep dangerous felons off of our streets until law enforcement can check whether there are outstanding warrants for that individual."

SB 1077 would prevent this situation from happening again by requiring a local law enforcement agency to verify the District Attorney's intent to prosecute before moving an inmate from federal custody, not after. It would apply uniformly to all local jurisdictions in Cali-

Senator Huff Urges Constituents to "Fight the Bite"

Tapes PSA and Dedicates Portion of Senate Website to Fight Zika Threat

SACRAMENTO - Senate a part of the Aedes genus. Aedes Minority Leader Emeritus Bob Huff (R-San Dimas) is urging residents of his Senate District and all Southern Californians to take action to guard against the Zika virus and help eradicate the pest responsible for spreading it. Mosquitos that carry the virus have already established a foothold in Los Angeles County, and spring rains brought about by heavy El Niño rainfall could result in perfect breeding conditions for the pest.

"Fortunately, nobody has been infected with the Zika virus in California yet, but that could change once our weather begins to warm in the spring and insects start breeding in large numbers," said Senator Huff. "It only takes a thimble full of standing water for mosquitos to start breeding. It's imperative that the public take action to protect themselves and their families."

Mosquitoes blamed for transmitting the Zika virus are Aegypti first showed up in Los Angeles County yards decades ago. Aedes Albopictus first gained a foothold in the San Gabriel Valley in 2011, and the San Gabriel Valley Mosquito and Vector Control District reports it has been doubling its territory every year since then. They are impossible to eradicate completely through trapping or spraying methods.

Aedes mosquitoes also carry other tropical diseases such as dengue fever and chikungunya, a viral disease transmitted to humans by infected mosquitoes that causes fever and severe joint pain. They do not carry the West Nile virus.

"According to the information I've received from Vector Control, they can only hope to minimize the population during the breeding months of spring and summer," said Senator Huff. "Truck mounted attacks against the Aedes don't work because the mosquito isn't active during the daytime. Larvacide attacks haven't been successful either because Aedes eggs can live up to a year."

Senator Huff has already taped a public service announcement on the dangers of these mosquitoes and the virus they may carry, which will air soon in homes and businesses served by Charter Communications and Time Warner cable systems. In addition, Senator Huff has dedicated a portion of his Senate website to spread information about the Zika threat, which can be accessed here.

The Centers for Disease Control (CDC) has identified the Zika virus in the tissues of two babies who recently died in Brazil from microcephaly. The CDC is recommending that pregnant women postpone or avoid travel to South America, Central America and Caribbean countries such as Puerto Rico, where the virus is quickly

Assemblywoman Chang Introduces Legislation to Create a State STEM Seal for High School Students

SACRAMENTO – Assemblywoman Ling Ling Chang (R-Diamond Bar) introduced AB 2072, legislation to create a special State Seal to be placed on the diplomas or transcripts of graduating high school seniors with high achievements in the fields of science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM). AB 2072 is intended to not only provide students with motivation for STEM participation but to also provide them a tool with which they can market themselves to employers and universities.

"The number of STEM dependent jobs is growing while the number of STEM graduates fails to keep up," said Chang. "We as a state should be doing courage them to do well. Proginia and Arizona.

viding students with a symbol of their accomplishments can benefit not only their personal drive and their self-esteem but also overall marketability."

In 2011, the legislature approved AB 815 (Brownley) which created the State Seal of Biliteracy. For students that prove to be proficient in more than one language, a skill that is very beneficial for a state as diverse as California, they were able to receive the State Seal of Biliteracy. Beyond everyday communication, those that are bi-lingual provide a direct benefit to employers that interact with a diverse population. AB 2072 is intended to provide California's students with a leg up on the out of state competition not only for seats in CSU or UC STEM programs but even in jobs that they may pursue straight out of high school.

Chang added, "In California there are so many opportunities for graduates to find good paying jobs in the STEM fields for many, it is a ticket to the middle class. The more focused they are on STEM in high school, the more prepared they will be for STEM in college and the job market. ## Assemblymembers Propose Student Privacy Reforms in Wake of Data Dump Ruling

SACRAMENTO — Califor- tal health and medical informania State Assemblymembers Melissa Melendez (R-Lake Elsinore), Lorena Gonzalez (D-San Diego) and Mike Gatto (D-Los Angeles) proposed new student privacy protections to ensure that students' personal information like Social Security Numbers are appropriately protected at the school district level. The legislation is prompted by a recent decision to turn over the records of 10 million California public school students to a private organization. A recent ruling in Morgan Hill Concerned Parents Association, et al. v. California Department of Education compelled the school system to provide sensitive information - including social security numbers, mention – for students dating back to 2008 to a parents group in Santa Clara County. Assembly Bill 2097 would prohibit school districts from gathering social security numbers and other sensitive unnecessary information for students except where required by federal law.

"As a mom, I've seen my kids' schools over the years request social security numbers, medical information, and other private information that they don't need or have a right to," Gonzalez said. "Rather than expecting parents to have the knowledge and capacity to fight to protect their child's privacy, we should get schools out of the business of asking in the first place."

"Our school districts are collecting personal information about our children that is neither legally required nor necessary for their education," Melendez said. "With identity theft at an all-time high, our focus should be on protecting our students, not exposing their personal information unnecessar-

"During an era of omnipresent intrusion in our lives and increasingly frequent data breaches, all levels of government should be taking steps to safeguard our sensitive, personal information—especially where it involves our children," Gatto said.

The authors of AB 2097 also called on California school districts to proactively provide the existing objection form provided by the California Department of Education to parents, and encourage parents to take advantage of the opportunity to lodge their objection to this exposure of personal and private information about their children across the state.

City Seeks Resident Input For 2016-2017 Budget & CIP

SAN GABRIEL – Residents can give input on this year's budget with an online survey for the 2016-2017 Budget and Capital Improvement Program, released by the city.

This is the second year the city has used an opinion survey as a way to incorporate resident input into the budget process. Last year, several residents filled out the survey and their thoughts were included in the staff create each year, so the information presented to the City Council for consideration.

The budget survey is part of the city's new budget process, which was designed two years ago to make the budget more accessible and transparent to the community. The budget and capital improvement program are the most important documents the City Council and city city aims to get as many residents involved as possible.

The online budget survey can be accessed on the city website and will be open to residents until March 17. For more on the budget process, visit the "Budget Central" page on the city website at http:// sangabrielcity.com/?NID=924.

How You Can Help Protect Your Community With everything that is going on, you may wonder how safe you are, your family and your community as well.

We see more and more crime around us, such as petty crimes all the way up to major felonies. With the influx of undesirables into our communities, whether it be the early release of prisoners, undesirable immigrants, and undocumented people (some may call them illegal aliens) and the homeless can negatively affect our community and our safety.

Many of these people don't care about you, your family or your property. This can make them dangerous. Many are opportunists that may commit the recent decision by the West Covina City Council by moving forward carrying a concealed weapon (CCW) permit, one may consider carrying a weapon legally. For some that is not the answer. Still, you can do a lot to make things a lot safer. When it comes to your home, do what you can to burglar proof your home. Join or create a neighborhood watch, the police may be able to help you with this. When you're out and about, be aware of your surroundings and the people around you. I'm not saying "be paranoid", but be responsible. Teach this to your kids as well, such things is not leaving the bicycles out in the front yard unattended. This makes it an opportunity for someone to steal it. Leaving cars running in the driveway. Don't go places where you get intoxicated and flash your money around, you are just asking for trouble. Stay away from verbal altercations with family, friends and especially people you do not know. This can escalate into something physical or worse.

Improve your driving habits.

Don't get yourself into a situation where you become angry or you become a victim of a road rage incident.

One of the most important defenses for you and your family and friends and those in the community is for you to be the eyes and the ears for the police. Don't be afraid to call the police when you feel something is wrong or see that something is out of place. Even if you feel it is not all that important, it just might be. Let the police dispatcher know as much as possible and at the same time be brief and descriptive. For example: If you see a car, people are out of place in your neighborhood, notify the police with a complete description of the car and the people. It is not a good idea to approach these people, let the police do it. If you think you are wasting the time of the police by making these calls, don't think that way. Let the police dispatchers make that decision on the priority and significance of the call. Don't forget, a picture is worth 1000 words. Most of us have cell phones with cameras, use it. If there is a high priority issue and you were able to get pictures of people and/or cars this is a huge help for the police.

Your first line of defense, is calling the police when possible. Don't be afraid to call them.

It is you that can keep yourself, your family along with your community safe.

Woman Who Abandoned Her Baby in the Toilet is Charged by Police

By George Ogden

WEST COVINA - The wellpublicized event of a baby being born in a fast food restaurant and left to die in a toilet, the mother is now being charged by the West Covina Police Depart with Child Abandonment and Attempted Murder. The mother, identified as Mary Grace Trinidad, 38 of West Covina had bail originally set at $2,030,000 to include a $30,000 warrant for her arrest. The bail has since been reduced to $130,000 including the warrant.

This all started on Monday, February 15 when she entered a Subway Restaurant in the 2500 block of S. Azusa Ave. at the corner of Amar and Azusa Avenues just after 8 AM. Trinidad was in the bathroom for about 15 minutes when she calmly exited the bathroom and headed towards the door to leave the restaurant. Both customers and staff noticed blood and one person approached her just before she left and she did not want to have any conversation and kept on going out the door. A short time later, concerns of what had happened in the bathroom brought both customers and staff to check the restroom. They opened the door and found a new born sub-

Trinidad is a familiar face to both the West Covina Police Department and the Industry Sheriff's Department. Since she has been in the area for less than two years, she has been arrested nine times for various felonies and misdemeanors.

This became a topic at the West Covina city Council meeting where the customers, staff, and the 911 operators were given accolades for their lifesaving aid of the baby. Over the last few days, the baby's condition has improved from critical to stable.

Bowing Before The Evangelicals

It has been interesting to observe the way certain candidates have prostrated themselves before Christian evangelicals in a quest for primary votes. Since Iowa was well-stocked with these conservative Christians, several of the political hopefuls went out of their way to hawk their religious credentials. Cruz and Rubio declared just how much they loved Jesus. Trump even waved his floppy Bible as a sign of his devotion.

This display of righteous credentials is not new. In 2000 George W. Bush was asked to name his favorite political philosopher. He responded "Christ." Whereupon he took us into the longest war in our history with its millions of dead and the destruction of nation after nation in the Near East-a catastrophe that continues to plague the world a decade and a half later. One might doubt if Jesus really led him into this bloodbath.

Charles H. Bayer

The more conservative these present candidates seem to be, the more devout they become. And so it is that right-wing politics and deeply conservative religion have come to occupy the same ground.

Consider how, according to these devout Bible-loving politicians, "Christian" America is called upon to act around the world. If we confront an enemy, instead of trying to come to some peaceful agreement or détente, our articulated option is to destroy, kill, carpet bomb, eliminate. If we believed we were in danger, not even water-boarding would be severe enough torture. That might not be what Jesus was about, but right-wing politicians continued to market that perspective, each one with increased belligerency.

When these swords were raised before friendly audiences they were strongly affirmed. Nobody stopped to ask even if this might have been a legitimate political option. When Jesus said, "love your enemies," did he mean that we should kill them? Or was Jesus just politically naive?

If we could manage to twist Jesus into becoming an international warrior consider how in domestic affairs this coalition between conservative religionists and conservative politicians could sing out of the same hymnbook. Here are a few matters they both would agreed to champion.

• Endorse capital punishment. • Support the unrestricted proliferation of firearms. • Cut tax rates for the very

- · Push for regulations which benefit the bankers and their friends and let the marginalized working people remain at their mercy.
- Insure affordable health insurance for those who can afford it, and repeal Obamacare for those who can't.
- Cut programs that support the poor, children and the elderly.
- Keep elections under the control of big money.
- Blur the line between church and state.
- Keep those of certain non-Christian religions from immigrating here.
- Build a fence strong enough to keep out unwanted aliens.
- Reverse all actions in the courts and in Congress guaranteeing "marriage equality."
  - Reverse Roe v Wade.
- Deny climate change and its science, believing it interferes with the economy.

- Continue to rely on carbonbased energy, and defund any development of renewable resources, no matter how this policy endangers the natural world.
- Maintain our right to torture suspected enemies.
- Reject multi-culturalism. Limit voting rights.
- · Declare that the United States is a Christian nation.

All of these issues may constitute legitimate topics for debate, and many honest conservatives may affirm them as flowing from their political perspectives. But here is my question. If the basis for how one views the world comes from Jesus and a Christian understanding of society, how do these self-proclaimed religionists justify their affirmation? Why and how are these conclusions derived from their religious commitment?

Thus while it is perfectly understandable for a great variety of persons to affirm the list, because their fundamental orientation comes from their conservative political allegiances and commitments, how can they be justified from a Christian perspective?

If Jesus' will is that the reign of God might come to earth, and he was the way God had chosen to proclaim that message, would that reign look anything like the way society would be realized given the implementation of the political agenda detailed above? Taking what Jesus said seriously might rather lead Christians to give their allegiance to exactly an opposite agenda.

One might conclude that the many evangelicals who support the items on the above roster do so because they have been attracted to a political perspective, not because their commitment flows from their Christian

Is It Too Late For Me To Sue?

by Ralph E. Shaffer

An unidentified nine-year-old Florida school boy has been warned that he will be declared a Sexual Harassment Offender if he passes another unwanted love note to a girl classmate. In Colorado, Hunter Yelton, a sixyear-old first grader, was suspended and marked for life as an S H Offender after he kissed a girl without her permission. If it isn't too late, I want Beverly F and Doris B permanently listed as S. H. Offenders for repeatedly kissing me in second grade without my consent. If not, I'll sue the school.

What prompts my interest in suing at this late date? Here in Southern California we have had a little epidemic of such belated accusations. Guys and gals in their mid- and late-twenties have claimed that they were sexually harassed on campus over a decade ago when they were middle school or senior high students. Having made the accusations, won't lawsuits against the school districts and criminal charges come next? The Riverside district has already faced such a suit.

Revelations by these young adults followed the massive payouts, in the millions of dollars, agreed to by the Los Angeles Unified School District in connection with numerous complaints of improper sexual contact by teachers dating back over a decade. Some of those payouts occurred even though prosecute the alleged violators.

Two questions: Can I sue the Lynwood School District for failing to protect me from the sexual harassment I was subjected to by Beverly and Doris at Washington Elementary? Should Doris and Beverly be required to register for life as S. H. Offenders?

Does it really matter that all this occurred in 1938? The fact that I still remember the agony and embarrassment I suffered is a clear indication that permanent damage was done to my psyche. Unquestionably my relationship with women was affected by those unwanted kisses.

the district attorney refused to Beverly standing together, whispering and giggling while, as it turned out, they were plotting strategy for planting those unexpected kisses. I was completely unaware of their intentions that first time as Beverly ran up to me on the playground during recess and landed that kiss firmly on my cheek.

> If Lucy's reaction to a Snoopy kiss had been known to us in 1938 I would have shouted "Dog germs!" But Charlie Brown was years away. I simply ran to the outdoor drinking fountain and thoroughly washed my face. Oh, the shame of it all!

At the time I thought Beverly and Doris had a crush on me. I vividly remember Doris and Eventually I realized they were having fun at the expense of a "Goody two-shoes," a teacher's pet whom they thought needed a comeuppance. They sure delivered one.

The teacher must have known. The principal did nothing. The district didn't even have a policy on sexual harassment. I ought to be able to collect a few bucks for the decades of trauma I've suffered as a result. It doesn't have to be a seven figure settlement. I'll accept a more modest amount.

Our Lynwood alumni still hold reunions. A printed list of alums still carries the names of Beverly and Doris. Neither is listed as married. That's sad. They would have made some guys good spouses.

Fortunately, Hunter's offense was eventually downgraded from S. H. Offender to simple "misconduct." That's good news, for he apparently is a kid who some day will be a loving husband and father. I hope the girl he kissed realizes he did it because he likes her and that he's not promiscuous. Maybe fifteen years from now he'll be able to kiss her without it being on national television.

But if she winds up as an unmarried octogenarian, that Colorado school district better be prepared for a costly suit.

The Missing Half of Congress's Job

By Lee H. Hamilton

gress. My stock answer is that no. I don't really miss it, but there are definitely times when I'd like to jump right into a policy debate or be in a position to call congressional hearings.

This is one of those times. Over the last few weeks, several media outlets have reported that U.S. military commanders are suggesting that they need more American troops on the ground in places like Syria, Iraq, Afghanistan and, most recently, Libya. And last month, talking about our efforts to defeat ISIS, Defense Secretary Ash Carter told CNBC, "We're looking for opportunities to do more and there will be boots on the ground and I want to be clear about that.'

This ought to have Congress working overtime to prepare for these requests. It's rare to find a military commander who

Every now and then, I'm face serious security chaldestroy ISIS? lenges, especially in the Middle East. But one can be sympathetic and at the same time skeptical, or at least probing.

> So Congress should be pushing very hard to get answers to some very tough questions. Where are we headed with these proposed troop increases? If they don't work, what's next? What's our exit strategy? What are the prospects for negotiations? We keep saying we're going to support the moderate opposition in Syria: who are they, what do they bring to the table, and how are we recalibrating our approach in the face of Russian airstrikes on behalf of the current regime?

> We insist that we're going to destroy ISIS, but no other country in the international coalition fighting the Islamic State seems willing to put forces on the ground. Are we going to be the only one? And just how does Congress has two key functions in our system of government: legislation and oversight. Most public attention — and certainly most media attention — focuses on policy-making and legislative maneuvering. But Capitol Hill's role in overseeing the executive branch is just as important.

That's because in seeking answers, Congress can force the President and his top advisors to articulate and defend their policies, their objectives, the steps they're taking (or proposing) to implement those objectives, and the impact they expect from their policies. In other words, Congress needs to act on behalf of the American people to ensure that major policy requests are looked at from every angle and fleshed out as thoroughly as possible so that we go into new situations — like putting young American with a clear-headed understanding of why we're taking these steps.

This means that our representatives on Capitol Hill should ask tough questions, demand responsive answers, and insist on a crystal-clear explanation of what the policy is and what alternatives are available. They need to bring in experts from outside the administration to critique the administration's proposals and outline alternatives of their own. They need to press the administration on what resources are needed to obtain its objectives: in this case, how many troops, how much money, what are the risks to American lives and interests?

negotiating of late. It has to be both a partner and a critic, supporting the President when it thinks he's doing something right, criticizing him when it thinks he's wrong, helping the administration craft policy that is in tune with the nation's needs, and putting alternatives forward when it sees a better way.

Simply put, government functions better when Congress pursues robust oversight. It sharpens objectives, improves government performance, makes the bureaucracy more responsive, and curtails wasteful spending.

Sadly, this key responsibility has fallen into disrepair. Really

But if we want to restore the vigor of the Congress, getting it to look into every nook and cranny of government is vital. The military's pursuit of growing troop strength and new strategies in the Middle East would be a good place to start.

November Ballot Vote By Lois M. Shade

Former Mayor of Glendora

We have another new initiative out in circulation for signatures for the November 8th ballot for voters to consider. The acronym, NASCAR, should not only grab the attention of voters but is creating a sense of sheer delight and enjoyment for the creator, John Cox, a Rancho Sante Fe Republican businessman, who moved to served by knowing which special interests support state candidates and state office holders." The public would easily identify those contributors if their names were prominently displayed on the body of the candidate.

NASCAR - Name All Sponsors Candidate Accountability Reform Initiative - very simply requires:

- 1. Candidates for any state elective office shall identify the ten highest campaign contributors in all campaign advertising;
- 2. State elected officials shall wear stickers or badges displaying the names of their ten highest campaign contributors when participating in any public session of the Legislature or any of the Committees.

The initiative, if passed, would add a section to the Political Reform Act of 1974 requiring a candidate's committee to include a disclosure statement identifying the names of persons from whom the committee received the 10 highest cumulative contributions on any advertising or political mail.

When any legislator is providing testimony or participating in any vote in committee or on a subcommittee those elected officials must "display on his or her person, the names of the persons who have the 10 highest cumulative contributions". The Fair Political Practices Commission would be responsible for adopting regulations on how these logos or stickers are to be worn.

Currently shown on the Fair Political Practices website (http://www.fppc.ca.gov/) are the qualified ballot measures and the donors supporting or opposing the measures. Total from top contributors right now is $102,024,522.

This Is A Big Deal After All

We need to get something straight: A quarter point hike is a big deal, and 100bp of rate hikes a year for three years is not gradual. If you don't believe me, listen to the message from financial markets. Indeed, let's take this a step further: Anyone who thinks 25bp is no big deal and 300bp of rate hikes is gradual is trapped in the past. This is the present: Two-year government note yields are negative in every major European economy. Japanese rates are negative. In Canada and the UK, they are less than 50bp. Only Australia has higher shortterm rates than we do, but they are also clearly too high. They cut twice last year despite 3% inflation (it is now under 2%) and GDP growth was just 0.2%. In a world where zero or less is widespread, 0.25% to 0.50% is an elevated interest rate.

The Fed's premise for raising rates appears be a flawed argument based on old economic relationships.

The Fed's phase 1 goal is to normalize interest rates, not to tighten. Normalization comes when the fed funds rate gradually drifts upward at the same pace as the neutral rate. The neutral rate, meanwhile, may rise because credit demand is recovering. But the idea that the neutral rate would rise at a 100bp per year rate never made much sense in today's world.

Still, multiple hikes remain the Fed's central tendency expectation, for now at least.

The market reaction to liftoff was never just about a 25bp hike. It was a reaction to the Fed's conviction that another 3-5 rate hikes per year for the next three years is both reasonable and gradual.

WHAT MIGHT CAUSE THE FED TO BECOME MORE REALISTIC?

Before the Fed changes course, FOMC members first have to see evidence that changes their medium-term inflation forecast. There are some pretty big surprises pushing current inflation lower, like an 18% year to-date drop in crude prices (but it is not likely to influence policy) because it affects this year's inflation, not the forecast three years in the

- 1. Weaker core inflation, which would probably include slower medical or rent inflation.
  - 2. Slower wage growth.

None of these are happening yet, which means the Fed likely will delay rate hikes, but they won't call them off. Not yet, anyway.

EXPERIENCE PAST COULD CAUSE INAPPRO-PRIATE RATE HIKES

You don't get to be Fed President or Fed governor without a track record. In most cases, this means three decades or more of model building. Econometric models, like trading models, always fail eventually.

That's because some of the variables that correlate best with an inflation rate or mortgage default rate or whatever else one is trying to forecast will fade in significance, while other, previously inconsequential factors grow in importance.

Models also can be misleading when extraordinary change occurs. For instance, a 5% drop in oil prices is a useful gauge to the effects of a 10% drop, but previous oil declines didn't prepare economists for what would happen when prices fell

Inflation models give the biggest weight to labor slack and inflation expectations. Other factors that likely should be important, like commodity prices and globalization, had no role in past models because they were not statistically significant in back testing, though they arguably have played a powerful role in determining inflation since the '90s.

Bottom line: The Fed's models predict the neutral interest rate will rise from slightly negative to about 1% this year. Wall Street believes there is good reason to think the models are wrong, but the FOMC does not share this concern. Not yet,

This week, several FOMC members suggested a pause from tightening might be appropriate given recent volatility in the financial markets and weakness in Chinese and other emerging economies. Not even Brainard suggested leaving rates on hold until 2017. By reducing the odds of even one rate hike this year to slightly less than 50-50, traders may have forgotten the reason the Fed decided to engage liftoff in December. It was never because they see an immediate inflation threat, but because they assumed they could raise rates slowly, getting in front of inflation they imagine becoming an issue in 2019. And because they think 3.5% will soon be a reasonable shortterm interest rate, and because they believe 100bp/year is gradual.

As Loretta Mester reminded us Thursday night, the Fed believes the medium term inflation forecast (2018-20) is guiding policy decisions this year. So far, we may be in a slowdown or we may be in a soft patch. Either way, it has not prevented the unemployment rate from falling or wages from rising. Which is to say, the markets have over done it. Fed models still point to 2% inflation by 2019 and even Fed doves expect to raise rates later this year.

Financial - Ask Julia

I recently started a sole-proprietor business. How can I find out what my tax deductions I might be able to take?

Go online to www.irs.gov, search, download, and print: Schedule C and the Instructions for Schedule C. These two pieces are packed with information on what are allowable tax deductions for non-incorporated businesses.

We want to start saving for our 2-year old's college expenses and are having a tough time deciding which way to go. What do you suggest?

More and more states are eliminating their 529 college savings plans. With any of these plans, watch for fees which can eat up a considerable amount of the earnings. Most, if not all, college savings plans require use of the funds at an accredited higher-education facility. What if your child decides to attend a non-accredited religious or trade school? What if your child wants to buy or start a business rather than attend college? Consider an investment that your child could use not only for education, but also for the purchase of her first home, medical emergencies, etc.? Instead, I recommend either an equity-indexed life insurance policy with living benefits, or a fixed-indexed annu-uity-indexed universal life. In my opinion, the best out there is Equity Indexed Universal Life. This is life insurance with an underlying investment. This investment is not in the stock market. You are given the choice annually to allocate part of your premium to a fixed return premium, or to several other avenues with higher potential gains without risking a loss. Some insurance policies have ways for you to get an income stream for as long as you live, or you can arrange for that income to continue to your

Should we put our annuities into the name of our trust?

Beneficiaries receive payout from an annuity outside of a trust faster than they would with an annuity within a trust. The most common reason for establishing a trust is to avoid probate. Because beneficiaries are named within the annuity policy, probate is already avoided. Keep in mind that it can take much longer for a trust to be read and for those instructions to be implemented. Quicker access to funds from annuities and life insurance can enable beneficiaries to pay bills and taxes in a much timelier

I recently took the time to gather all my important, endtime papers into one box. Is there anything else I should do to make it easier on my kids when I pass?

I encourage my clients to take the time to write a letter of instructions. Although this is not a legal document, it can help your family cope during such a difficult time by providing additional information. Besides listing your important papers, include contact information for your lawyers, accountants, clergy, insurance, and investment agents. Write down your wishes for the distribution of personal possessions, jewelry, heirlooms, keepsakes, and instructions for the funeral, prearrangements, music, and funeral home or cemetery.

YOU "AUTO"

By Gene Morill - Certified Automotive Specialists

Auto Insurance And Driverless Cars

We all have to pay our auto insurance premiums and we see the humorous commercials on television, online and hear them on the radio. What will become of auto insurance when selfdriving cars become the normal? Consider these facts:

- Self-driving cars should mean accidents would drop to about 1%.
- The liability should move from the drivers' to the cars' software system or automaker.
- Consumers would still need insurance but more to cover theft and damage from mother

Mercedes, Volvo and Tesla are already working towards crash-avoidance systems. Advisory and research firms are predicting that in twenty to thirty years, personal auto insurance firms will shrink considerably...maybe to half the size they are now. Some insurance companies are thinking about how they would survive should autonomous vehicles become the new normal. One firm says it has collected an amazing amount of data on consumers and would hope to become a "life management" company and offer advice. Hmmm...

Research firms predict that insurance companies will have to learn to make a huge adjustment and make plans to become a lot smaller. Their current cost structures include large buildings, huge marketing/advertisement budgets and massive work force (agents, adjusters, and many more jobs related to insurance), not to mention all those that collect the data they use to target consumers.

It will be interesting to see where all of this is headed. Stay tuned...

Housing Rights Center To Host Free Workshop On Rent Increases, Evictions, Discrimination, Foreclosure And More!

ALHAMBRA – The Housing Rights Center (HRC), and the City of Alhambra, will be hosting a FREE 'Housing Rights Workshop' for Alhambra residents and community members on Tuesday, March 8 from 10am-11am at the Joslyn Center, 210 North Chapel Ave., Alhambra. HRC will present information and resources regarding housing discrimination and landlord-tenant rights and responsibilities.

Topics will include: discrimination against families with children, disability rights, sexual harassment, evictions, repairs, security deposits, rent increases, substandard conditions, and much more!

Title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1968, known as the "Fair Housing Act," provides protection from discrimination in all housing related transactions based on race, color, religion, sex, national origin, familial status and disability. Furthermore, the California Fair Employment and Housing Act provides additional protections against housing discrimination based on marital status, ancestry, sexual orientation, and source of income. The California Unruh Civil Rights Act also provides protection from housing discrimination based on age and protects the right to freedom from violence and intimidation in housing.

For more information, or to RSVP for this FREE workshop, please call Yazmin Guzman at (800) 477-5977 extension 1104. TTY users please call (213) 201-0867. This location is handicap accessible.

HRC is California's largest nonprofit, civil-rights agency dedicated to promoting and securing fair housing. HRC investigates over 1,600 housing discrimination complaints annually and assists over 17,000 individuals with their housingrelated concerns. Individuals who believe they are victims of housing discrimination or who have questions about the fair housing laws or their landlord-tenant rights are encouraged to contact HRC for additional information at 1-800-477-5977 (voice) or 213-201-0867 (TTY). Additional information is also available at www.housingrightscenter.org.

Azusa Holds Annual State of the City, AUSD, APU and Chamber of Commerce

By Jorge V. Rosales

AZUSA - The State of the City, delivered by Joe Rocha, Mayor, City of Azusa (City); with status presentations by Lonnie De La Garza, Chairman of the Board, Azusa Chamber of Commerce (Chamber); Dr. Stuart Strother, Professor of Economics, Azusa Pacific University (APU); and Dr. Linda Kaminski, Superintendent, Azusa Unified School District (AUSD). The ceremony was held at the Azusa Women's Club on Thursday, February 18, 2016. They all addressed efforts and improvement in 2015, as well as projected goals and financial difficulties for the future" with education emphasis on 1) Academics; 2) Arts; 3)

College/Career Readiness, 4)

Partnerships, 5) Schools; and 6)

Student Futures. For each of these themes, she cited samples of innovative programs, such as:

the recently voted approved $92

million bond to modernize and Joe Rocha, Mayor, City of Azusa she presented 50 slides of colleges and universities that had accepted AUSD graduates.

Azusa Mayor Joe Rocha reported that Azusa continued to stay "out of the red" despite the national economic downturn of 2008. He also indicated that as a result of the elimination of all

Redevelopment Agencies in California in December, 2011 the City still continued to struggle to develop its vacant properties.

Mayor Rocha stated that, "Pensions and policy changes to the California Public Employees

Retirement System (CalPERS)

will add instability to our city's general fund. Plus we face policing challenges as a result of

AB 109 and Proposition 47, initiatives which reduce the classification of most 'non-serious drug crimes' from a felony to a misdemeanor, putting more perienced one of the worst years for precipitation in hundreds of years. The underground water level in the San Gabriel Valley hit an all-time low level. The three reservoirs north of Azusa in the San Gabriel Canyon, were just slightly higher than minimum pool levels."

Furthermore he said, "But rather than focus on what we can't do, or blame the economy on what we didn't do, as city leaders, we decided to focus on those things and services that we can do and on doing them well." He went on to cite samples and shares slides of successes and accomplishments by all City Departments and Staff.

Via video, Dr. Jon Wallace, President, APU, opened the presentation with remarks from the APU Arizona campus site. He briefly talked about his health recovery from cancer and made the statement that last year was the largest in enrollments as well as graduations. He apologized for not being able to be personally present in Azusa and proceeded to introduce Dr. Strother who would talk about a community partnership with California Tool and Die, an Azusa business since 1960. Dr. Strother stated that "the theory of multiple intelligences informs us book smarts isn't the only kind of smarts. And so a few years ago, I offered extra credit for setting up a company visit. It's good to get out of the business classroom and actually visit a real life business because students learn, as we say, beyond the books, as they added street smart to their book smarts."

Dr. Strother went on to say that "California Tool and Die produces a multitude of products, but what they really create is jobs. To me, CT&D represents the American entrepreneurial spirit, and I'm of the view that manufacturing is the backbone of the American economy, which remains, without dispute, the greatest economy in the greatest country, in the world. CT&D requested help with what they called a 'business turnaround project.' A number of professors responded to their call, and in the end Dr. Tom Cairns' graduate business class and my undergraduate Microeconomics class answered the call for help. In academia such as project is known as 'service learning' where some worthwhile external project integrates into a traditional college course. In my fall 2015 Microeconomics class 38 students worked on the CT&D project. With coaching from CT&D's owner and me, the students divided themselves into five teams: Marketing, Sales, Accounting, Operations and New Products Development. Our class project is finished, but the turnaround of

Mr. De La Garza began his presentation emphasizing the chamber's mission statement whose goal is to make the city a better place to live, work, and play by serving as a catalyst in the transformation of business and economic climate. Currently the chamber is composed of over 200 businesses and numerous involved citizens. His presentation focused on two things, first to thank all individuals directly and indirectly involved with the Chamber and events that passed or are coming up such as the day at the race track in March and annually awaited Taste of the Town in October 2016 as part of Golden Days. He presented a slide presentation of, activities, ribbon cutting ceremonies in 2015, and events such as the Christmas Food/Toy Drive in December, and other accomplishments throughout the year.

NFL Awards Golden Football to Azusa High for Contribution to Super Bowl History

AZUSA - Azusa High School students gathered in their gym and cheered in celebration of receiving the commemorative Wilson Golden Football, awarded to high schools and communities that contributed to Super Bowl history.

Azusa High was recognized on the Super Bowl High School Honor Roll in honor of native Azusan Billy Kilmer, who quarterbacked for the Washington Redskins at Super Bowl VII in 1978.

"Billy Kilmer worked really hard to ensure that his dreams became a reality, and he didn't accomplish this alone," Principal Ramiro Rubalcaba told Aztecs during a Feb. 2 awards ceremony. "He had the help of his teachers, administrators, coaches, friends and teammates who supported him in achieving his goals."

Kilmer graduated from Citrus Union High School, which has since been closed. He continued to play college football at Citrus Junior College and transferred to UCLA, where he was a contender for the Heisman Trophy. He also played for the San Francisco 49ers and the New Orleans Saints.

"It is such an honor for Azusa High to receive this award," said Athletic Director Sandy Gahring, also an Azusa High alumni. "It brings so much encouragement to our student athletes that a successful, professional athlete grew up in the same streets that they did."

The Super Bowl High School Honor Roll initiative is part of the NFL's Super Bowl 50 outreach program, which links the past 49 Super Bowls with this year's game and honors the high schools and communities that have benefited the game of football.

school or community. Nearly 3,000 players and head coach who graduated from their coaches, and more than 2,000 high schools, will be recognized. "Billy Kilmer is an example of the dedication and determination that each one of our students possesses," Superintendent Dr.

Linda Kaminski said. "We are grateful to the NFL for recognizing the strong history of achievements in our city, as our students today continually reach higher in their academic endeavors as they pursue their passions."

The NFL Foundation will also provide the schools with a new character education curriculum and the opportunity to apply for grants of up to $5,000 to help support and grow their football programs.

"This recognition shows our students that no matter what challenges they may face, if they continually work hard toward their goals, they will achieve whatever they set their minds to," Board President Yolanda Rodriguez-Peña said. "The students of Azusa Unified are talented and it makes me proud to see them recognized for their achievements - both while they're in our schools and long after they've graduated."
