America's Christian Credit Union Helps Raise Funds For Finley's Surgery

At the presentation of the check were Christina Smallwood carrying Finley, surrounded by Fawn Imboden, Alexis Mc Intosh and Nikole Pearce of ACCU, Shannon Lancaster owner of Dance Street West, with her dance students Avery Thiel, Tessa Boyer, Lorelai Dirksen, Tessa and Charlotte Hart.

GLENDORA - America's Christian Credit Union came to the rescue of a little three year old girl, who is afflicted with cerebral palsy, caused by side effects of premature birth. Finley Smallwood was adopted by a Glendora couple who are trying to raise money to help pay for a Selective Dorsal Rhizotomy (SDR involves sectioning (cutting) of some of the sensory nerve fibers that come from the muscles and enter the spinal cord). This operation could enable Finley to walk. The "elective" surgery cost is estimated to be $49,000. With hotel expenses etc. the total cost would be $60,000.

On Wednesday August 3rd

at 10 a.m. while surrounded by youth dancers from Glendora's Dance Street West Studio and over sixty employees from ACCU (wearing red tee shirts), a $1,534 check put Finley's family over its goal of $50,000 to pay for the surgery.

Finley's mother, Christina Smallwood couldn't be more thrilled with the support that her fundraiser started.

"We've been dancing around our house since we got the call that she was approved as a candidate for this surgery. It has restored the excitement in our home, I believe this is God's handy work. It brings us joy to have hope for the future with this procedure. We are grateful", Smallwood said.

America's Christian Credit Union in Glendora heard about Finley's story through a customer and immediately started a collection for her Dare To Duarte Kiwanis Meeting, Mike Antonessi came to share the vision and current focus of the Foothill Unity Center. Believe it or not, the Unity Center was started 36 years ago by Josephine Anderson. She told her priest at Immaculate Conception church that some of the parishioners needed food and the priest gave her a closet and asked her to "step up" - and she did. Turns out many other churches in the area were experiencing the same thing and together they created the

Azusa Unified Principal Fulfills Promise to Students and Scales Mt. Whitney with Green Hair

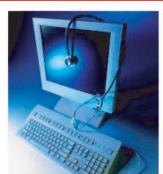

AZUSA - Mountain View Elementary Principal Jenny Le has completed the last stretch of her 260-mile hike along the John Muir Trail, fulfilling a promise she made to students should they improve their state testing scores.

In a deal she made with members of student council, Principal Le said she would climb Mt. Whitney with green hair if they put forth their best efforts with the Smarter Balanced state assessments. The students held up their end of the bargain and improved Mountain View's scores in all areas.

"I wanted to illustrate what can be achieved through hard work and commitment," Principal Le said. "Among all the teachers, support staff and parents involved, I had the easiest task." Principal Le completed the trail in four sections, averaging 12 miles per day and carrying 40 lbs. of gear on her back. Over the course of three summers, she completed the trek all by herself but said the students' courage and energy inspired her to make the final stretch to the top of Mt. Whitney this summer.

"I set my thoughts on how hard they worked and it gave me the strength to keep going. They held up their end of the deal so I knew I had to do the same," Principal Le said.

The Mt. Whitney challenge came into play after teachers shared with students Principal Le's big upcoming summer adventure. When students asked her directly about her hike, she took the opportunity to talk about the importance of setting goals and the perseverance that it takes much like the challenge of taking the Smart Balanced assessments.

Student council members took it a step further and said they would do their best on the tests if she did her best on Mt. Whitney showing school spirit. Since the school color is green, she proudly wore a green wig.

The first day of school throughout Azusa Unified School District is Thursday, Aug. 18.

Chang Introduces Resolution To Highlight Unequal Pay Between Women's And Men's National Soccer Teams

Assemblywoman Chang and Two-Time Gold Medalist Briana Scurry Fight for Equal Pay

SACRAMENTO – As the 2016 Summer Olympics are set to begin, Assemblywoman Ling Ling Chang (R-Diamond Bar) announced the introduction of House Resolution 58, which calls on the US Soccer Federation to end wage disparities between its women and men players. The United States Women's National Soccer Team (USWNT) -- the most successful women's soccer team in the world -- continue to receive unfair compensation despite increased revenue generation and historic victories. Leading members of the women's team have filed a lawsuit against the US Federation and embarked on a campaign to raise awareness for "equal play for equal pay."

"For the US women's team, equal play does not mean equal pay," said Assemblywoman Chang "What kind of message does that send to aspiring, young female soccer players?"

Thank you for your cooperation.

Former women's national soccer team goalkeeper and twotime Olympic gold medalist, Briana Scurry joined the chorus in support of HR 58 and the

"The success of the United States Women's National Soccer Team is undebatable. For quite some time, the argument for unequal compensation has been that the women don't generate as much revenue as their male counterparts. The evidence provided in HR 58 exposes that ideology as fallacious."

The United States Women's National Soccer Team (USWNT) has won three World Cup titles since the Women's World Cup was founded in 1991, as well as four Olympic gold medals. The World Cup final victory in 2015 against Japan was the most watched soccer match in United States television history for women or men. Currently, the USWNT is ranked as the number one female soccer team in the world.

Even with these historic victories, the women's team faces a significant pay disparity relative to their counterparts on the men's national team. Earlier this year, a number of women from the women's team filed a lawsuit with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission charging the U.S. Soccer Federation with wage discrimination. The USWNT players continue to fight for fair compensation and has even alluded to boycotting the Rio Olympic Games in August.

"The women's national team has honored our country with their achievements throughout the years," said Assemblywoman Chang. "Despite surging revenues from the women's team they continue to earn less than their male counterparts."

Scurry -- a World Cup champion -- added, "Gender inequality is one of our most prevalent societal issues, but I have the utmost faith in our nation's ability to achieve equality for all. To accomplish this, our leaders must have the courage to address disparities that are within immediate control. I commend Assemblywoman Chang for having that courage, and fully back this resolution supporting the immediate end of gender pay disparities."

The USWNT are currently in Rio de Janeiro fighting for their fifth Olympic gold medal.

West Covina National Night Out

By George Ogden

WEST COVINA - National Night Out, which is the one night of the year when people all over the country gather to celebrate their successes in the fight against crime, and to promote the relationship between Public Safety and the Community, this took place on Tuesday, August 2. Many neighborhoods throughout the country had some great block parties in support of this event.

In West Covina, The Plaza West Covina, started this event at 5:00 pm to help kick off this National Night Out Celebration. Music, raffles, giveaways and comments by the West Covina City Council and Police Chief Dave Faulkner were all part of the festivities occurring inside the mall at the JCPenney Court.

After this, everyone split up to attended as many parties as they could before the night ended. This brought out some of the best BBQs, recognitions, fun and much more including Congress-

There were so many other great events going on that night and if you didn't break out to attend one, you need to put this on your "to do" list for next year. You will be glad you did.

Education: The Future of Our Country

By Lois M. Shade Former Mayor of Glendora

New reports this past Sunday across the channels agreed Presidential Candidate, Donald Trump, had a very tough week. But not all his weeks have been so rough and tumble. He has an obvious focus and clarity in his book, Crippled America, How to Make America Great Again, a focus and clarity I agree with in almost all

One of the areas that particularly causes me distress in today's government organization is the power the higher authorities, federal and state governments, exercise over local governments, whether it be city councils or school boards. The mandates issued out of D.C. and Sacramento are taking a huge toll on the financial well-being of our cities and counties and worse, not delivering the promised success for our education system.

Let me give you some education numbers:

- Since 1965, the federal Department of Education, through 100 programs it established, has spent over $2 trillion on elementary and secondary education.
- Currently the U.S. spends $12,000 per year, per student for a total of $620 billion.
- That represents 4% of the GDP for the year 2011-2012 for K-12 education.
- Of that $640 billion, the feds spent $57 billion.

With 100 programs over the years and that kind of money being spent on your child's education, do you feel you are getting your money's worth?

We have finally come to a point in time, school choice, parents making decisions where and how their children should be educated, is in the education tool box for all parents to access and implement. And, those choices range from homeschooling, charter schools, technical & career schools, parochial and private schools - and the list goes on - for parents to choose the right education path for their

In Donald Trump's book, he

"Let schools compete ... Competition is why I'm very much in favor of school choice. I guarantee that if you forced schools to get better, or close, because parents didn't want to enroll their kids there, they would get better."

Additional comments include: ... our educational system ... was designed to produce wellrounded young people capable of prospering in the world ... to graduate with some basic values, self-discipline, and life skills".

(Source: Crippled America, by Donald Trump, p. 53-4 Nov 3,

In one news article I read this past week, Charter Schools in California were criticized by the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) for discrimination against undocumented students by requesting information like social security number, birth certificate, just the same information public schools in their district ask for and every school that I'm aware of asks for in California. Schools need to document by some formally recognized piece of paper who the students are they are enrolling. It is one way to make sure they are able to have the true identity of the student and family. Is that discrimination? Really? None, the article says, were turned away.

Aaron Smith of the Reason Foundation says public school parents are looking for alterna-

• 2003 to 2012, homeschooled students increased by 62% or 1.8 million students na-

- 190,000 students in California are home-schooled or 3% of the K-12 population.
- 61% of the families homeschooling their kids earn less than $75,000 annually.

Smith says, "Academic outcomes are difficult to gauge as privately educated students generally do not take state exams. In a study of more than 11,000 kids conducted by Brian D. Ray of the National Home Education Research Institute in 2008, homeschool students scored an average of 34 to 39 percentile points higher than the norm on standardized achievement tests." 2008 was a long time ago and it would be a better gage to have more current data but that is an indica-

None of this is meant to insinuate all of our public schools are bad and not doing their job educating our children. But there are parents out there that believe the "one-size Washington, D.C. education program fits all" these days doesn't work for their child. They want the flexibility to make their choice for their child.

We have what some voters are calling a very confusing decision to make in November. Two very prominent, but different candidates to choose from to lead this Country. Listen to the candidates, but also go online and look at the 2016 Party Platforms. Those Platforms are the basic core beliefs that the two major candidates believe in and will support for the next 4 years.

The choice will be yours in November. There is much, much more information out there to consider but we should all take a hard look at education and determine if we are going in the right direction. It is the future of the United States of America.

This Is Really Scary!

Stephen King writes scary novels, full of mayhem, mystery and murder. One never knows what monstrous ghoulish turn of events will leap from the next page. Unless you want a sleepless night, do not read anything King wrote after 6pm.

But I have come across a recent piece in Tikkun Magazine, the progressive voice of American Judaism, which I find far more frightening than anything King has ever written.

The article was by Michael Moore, the courageous filmmaker on the far left edge of the Hollywood world. His political wisdom is penetrating and his sword has punctured and deflated every form of conservative piety. Six months ago Moore announced that, in his opinion, Donald Trump would win the Republican nomination for President. We all knew better. Most Republicans who were and are the backbone of that Party were not going to let it happen, and the rest of us had a high regard for the conservatives of the nation who knew Trump would be creamed. So Michael Moore was just making another one of his over-thetop jokes. But guess what!

Moore, in this article, made another prediction. Donald Trump is going to win the Presidency, and the rest of us better get prepared for it! That's scarier than anything King has ever written! Moore details five reasons for making this outlandish prediction. Here they are.

1-Trump will center his campaign on flipping the four true blue states of the rust belt-Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and Wisconsin—seeking to convince the unemployed or underemployed former factory workers and their families, that Hillary promises only more of the same for them. Angry embittered workers have watched this formerly protective manufacturing heartland now strewn with dead smokestacks and littered with the carcasses of the nation's most productive factories. Flipping those states from blue to red will make a dramatic difference in the electoral map.

2-This election marks the last stand of America's angry males. And their bitterness will blot out all rationality. If males formerly ran things, they have watched that dominance slowly slip out of their hands. The nomination of a woman by the Democrats is the last straw.

3-Hillary's unpopularity, which has festered for over twenty-five years is unabated. Why she is despised, even by a sturdy collection of Democrats, is the subject of other columns. The fact remains that a majority of America's people do not trust

4-While a significant percentage of the Sanders' constituency will finally agree that if it is not Bernie, then it has to be Hillary, there are many others who have felt the Bern, will have fought hard, and believe they lost in an rigged election. They may stay home, opt for Trump, or even more likely vote for Jill Stein, the Green candidate or Gary Johnson, the Libertarian standard-bearer. Just yesterday I talked to three dedicated progressives who said they would not vote for Hillary under any circumstances.

5-The fifth reason that Michael Moore is predicting the election of Donald Trump in November, it what he calls "the Jesse Ventura Effect." You recall that Ventura was a professional wrestler who, against all odds and all predictions, was elected Governor of Minnesota. He was not elected because he had a grasp on the issues that faced that State. He was elected just because he could be. Everything had been thrown up in the air. People wanted change, but there was no agreement as to what that meant. Ventura was a practical joke, but the State was so unsettled that few saw the disaster coming.

Well, there's Michael Moore's current read on things. Is he right? Only if the American people forget who they are and dismiss the grandeur of this nation. And that means that we need to get over dismissing Hillary over single issue, or because we have heard for 25 years, without really looking at her record, that she should not be trusted. It could be that Michael Moore frightens us into action. Let's hope so.

Stormwater Costs Could Break The Bank -Yours and Your City's, Elect Cory Ellenson to State Assembly to Protect Our Interests

In 2012, guided by the Federal EPA and the State Water Board, the LA Regional Water Board issued an updated stormwater permit (called MS4), which mandates how cities within LA County manage their stormwater and dry weather runoff.

for over 33 contaminants; a steep increase from just 3 contaminants that the previous permit regulated. The resultant stormwater will be cleaner than bottled drinking water!

The permit also requires that 85% of stormwater be captured and kept within each city, despite the fact that, in the San Gabriel Valley, 95% of our stormwater is already captured and cleaned in regional basins for reuse by our communities.

We all support the concept of capturing and cleaning our water before it reaches the ocean but this plan requires rebuilding our water management infrastructure with total capital expenditures that are estimated to cost LA County over $20 billion! Glendora, with a general fund budget of $26 million, faces staggering costs of $233 million! And there are no Federal or State funds to assist!

Many politicians and agencies would like to pass the costs onto citizens by adding it to property tax assessments. For Glendora residents, this is estimated to be an average increase of $1,200 per property annually, and could be higher depending on the value of the property.

If we fail to comply with the permit, cities could face fines of $10,000 per day for each violation, along with lawsuits from environmental groups.

Can this mandate be stopped? The permit requires that all LA Cory Ellenson, candidate for County cities treat stormwater State Assembly - 48th District, and I are part of a group of elected officials from across the San Gabriel Valley who are working to advocate for changes. The cities of Duarte and Gardena have filed lawsuits against the State and regional water boards, which the City of Glendora and other cities have joined. We are also partnering with the San Gabriel Valley Council of Governments to lobby our State Senate and State Assembly representatives.

> Cory has become an expert on water issues in the area, and understands this issue intimately. Most importantly, Cory appreciates the serious threat that the cost of compliance with this permit presents to our ability to provide critical services to our residents. Services such as police, fire and library would be severely impacted.

Please join me in supporting Cory Ellenson for State Assembly. If elected, Cory will fight for the legislative relief we need to survive this impossible permit. For more information please visit www.CoryEllenson.com

Getting Ripped Off When You Take Your Car in for Repairs

Many of us feel we get ripped off when we take our car to a dealer to get our car repaired.

Well, check out my situation when I took my car in for repairs a rather new dealership in West

I am responsible for everything that goes into my car, gas, oil, all repairs and so on. My Crown Victoria is equipped with a print and fax machine in the glove box. However, it has not been used in over a year because whatever we may need can be done on the cell phone as long as it can show images. This will come up later.

I had an issue with the vehicle's air-conditioning. It worked, but not threw any of the vents. The "Blend Door" or the "Vent Actuator Door" was not operating. In most cases, this is a mechanical problem with a cheap part, maybe a vacuum hose or a clip that came off. However, you have to take out the glove box out to do the repair.

I took the car in on a Thursday morning. I talked with a service tech and a quick estimate for the repair was around $139.00. He says it would be less than 3 hours for the repair. He continues with telling me to bring it in early around 7 a.m. and they would work on it. The next day, Friday, I brought it in just after 7 a.m. as this will work well because a group of us get together in the morning in the area for coffee and donuts for about 3-4 hours. I will have one of the guys pick me up and bring me back.

As I get to the dealership service area, I am the third car, no problem. Their "Service Advisor" is Ron and he and I talked with him as I did with the other guy the day before who is also there. I explained what I wanted and also asked about a replacement for the remote entry device. I want the car fixed and the fax/printer not put back in after the repair since they have to remove it anyway from the glove box. I think 4 screws held this in and it is plugged in to the electronics for the computer. Ron takes my cell number and we are good to go.

I get picked up and head out to be with the guys for donuts and coffee. Not all that happy with paying $139.00 for what I expect to be a vacuum hose replacement which may take an hour of labor all together, but at least it will be

After eating 3 maple bars, a half dozen donut holes and a large coffee and large tea, it is about time to pick up the car. They had it about four hours. I get to the dealership and the first question is, "where is your restroom?" as those two huge cups of coffee and tea caught up with me. I can see my car in the service area where they parked the finished cars. I see Ron on the phone and he sees me, so he knows I am there. Ron is a nice guy in my opinion, but what happened next did not set well with me. He tells me that the "Estimate for the repairs will be $1265.00 plus tax." Excuse me??? Say what??? I asked, "What do you mean, estimate?" He tells me that the car needs an Air Conditioning manifold as it is leaking, the "orifice tube" is dirty, a $10.00 item, that is inside an air conditioning line. You can't see it with the naked eye, you have to take the AC line apart to get to it, and if you do this, you would NEVER put it back, you would replace it. It also needed a vacuum line under the dash, $15.00.

So I ask, "Did you fix anything?" and he said, "No." I asked, "Why not fix what I asked for?" He basically stated that he needed approval first before fixing anything. Really??? Why did I bring my car there the very next day after I got the estimate the day before for the repairs that I wanted? I asked why he didn't call me, he had my number? He said he had meetings and other things were going on. Well, I can't leave my car, I have things to do. Upset, I asked for the bill and I would pay the $139.00 and try to find some other day to bring the car back. When I get to the cashier, the bill is no longer $139.00, but $278.00, twice as much. This is twice as much for no repairs. I asked why this was and nobody could explain this to me. Isn't this wonderful??? I asked Ron how much for the remote replacement and he pointed out that it was $302.12. I then asked him how he knew the "orifice tube" was dirty. He said this was what the mechanic said. So to see the "dirty orifice tube" he would have to open the system and lose all the Freon from the system. I know for sure that this did not take place. After that, for some reason they couldn't find my car. It was right there in the open.

When I got the car, the fax/ printer was in the trunk. Now somebody got smart, the AC vent doors were now working. I assume they replaced that little vacuum line.

Later in the day, I inspected the AC line and manifold. I did notice some oil and grit at one of the valve stem fittings. Just for the record, I am certified with Mobile Air Conditioning Society (MACS), formally the International Mobile Air Conditioning Association (IMACA). I used to teach automobile AC and certified for AC recovery and installation. I have given a large number of seminars years ago. So, seeing the oil and grit, this is an indication of some kind of leak. I see that the valve cap has NOT been removed from this fitting. I clean everything off and notice tight. Inspecting the valve itself, there is clean AC oil there. I use the valve stem tool and I can give it an easy half turn... it was not tight. Freon was leaking from this area. Problem solved. I did not need a manifold hose replacement. Freon was leaking from

The next day, I went over to Ed Butts Ford. I requested an estimate for a remote replacement. It was $55.71 plus tax and they could do it right now and also reprogram it at the same time for the same price. DONE!!! So the question is, where did that $302.12 come from that the other Ford Dealership in West Covina was going to charge me?

Here is the fun part. The West Covina facility called me to see "How satisfied I was with my repairs and experience with them." Now, can you believe this???

I told her the story and she wanted to know if I wanted to talk with the manager. I asked, "What for, nothing will change." I went on to tell here that I would NOT be going back to that dealership and then followed up with this comment: "That's Just the Way

July Marks Second Consecutive Strong Jobs Gain

Nonfarm payrolls jumped by 255k in July, 75k more than expected. June was revised from 287k to 292k and May from 11k to 24k. The net revision was +18k.

The Bloomberg News headline, "U.S. Employment Seen Returning to Normal After Two Quirky Months," is exactly the wrong way to read these stronger than expected jobs figures. But it's nothing against Bloomberg. Their headline perfectly describes the way most mainstream market economists, including many of the ones who make up the Fed's Open Market Committee, view economic data. Weakness is an aberration, strength is reality.

In a way, this way of thinking was true in 2011 and '12, when strong months outnumbered weak ones, but it was dead wrong in 2014, '15, and the first half of '16, when weak months outnumbered strong ones. The only intellectually honest way to consistently view both periods is to recognize economic truth is bracketed somewhere between the weak and the strong data.

A STRONGER DOLLAR

The US trade balance is a seesaw of demand which pivots in part on currency movements. In the 18 months leading into this year, the dollar appreciated 24.8%. Diverging global monetary policy drove the spike as the Fed moved toward tightening while other central banks created further accommodation. After the British referendum the USD looks poised to continue to strengthen.

TREADING WATER

An important development in the second quarter, before focus shifted to the UK, was the rebound in U.S. imports. The increase reduced concerns about Q1 consumer weakness carrying through to Q2.

Net trade balances could still eat into GDP growth in the second quarter, but better consumption trends will be the big takeaway from the last three months. Stepping back, and looking at more than just the last several months of data, however, it would be more correct to view overall US trade patterns as a sign of stable, not strengthening, domestic demand. The trade gap is almost exactly where it was two years ago.

KEN HERMAN Economic Analyst & Former Glendora Mayor

TWO-SIDES TO EVERY

A stronger currency is both a blessing and a curse for the US economy. Take a look at the last two years, for example. On one hand, the strong dollar reduced US exports with a corresponding decline in business investment here. Other countries either bought less in total due to higher costs or switched their purchases to countries with stable or declining currencies. Either way, it resulted in lower demand for US exports. Or in other words, exports suffer a dollar curse. US exports have fallen since the end of 2014.

As for the blessing side of the equation, a strong dollar lowers the cost of imports. Year-overyear, US import prices have fallen since August 2014. While much of that decline can be attributed to plummeting energy prices, even ex-petroleum, import prices have been down yearover-year since December 2014.

Cheaper goods allow businesses and consumers to substitute imported goods for previously more expensive domestic ones. The same dollars spent can purchase more, which should translate into a rise in imports and increased spending. That's the theoretical benefit of a strong currency -- more consumption offsets falling exports and leads growth higher.

Bottom Line:

Wall Street continues to expect a dollar that is firmer than expected as the Fed keeps global investors guessing about what is driving its policy focus and the EU grapples with issues that include but extend well beyond the long farewell wave from Britain. But, currency movements are notoriously difficult to predict. Surprises are almost inevitable. Still, investors shouldn't ignore their very real consequences. Any change will affect relative growth rates, inflation and interest rates.

The way to look at the impact of any direction for the dollar:

1. Up: Recent appreciation continues, this time driven more by global economic weakness than diverging monetary policy. Exports will fall, not only because they will be more expensive but due to generally softer global demand. Unless domestic consumption surges to over compensate, imports will likely remain unchanged, leaving net exports weighing on growth.

2. Down: As Brexit ripples continue to subside, currencies retrace. Given most of the recent drop in international trade stems from the Chinese slowdown and weak commodity demand, US exports are likely to remain suppressed even if the dollar does fall, though they won't be quite Rising import prices, however, could stoke domestic inflation and steepen the yield curve as the Fed remains cautious.

3. Sideways: Global uncertainty prevents any currency from holding an extended run, with little traction until the next surprise international event sends currencies scurrying. Unfortunately, the key word in this scenario is uncertainty, the current condition that keeps savings elevated and business spending on the sidelines. Currency stability is rare these days, not least because many major central banks are actively working against it.

In this period of slow global growth and heighted uncertainty, many countries are actively (Japan and Europe) or passively (China) pursing weaker currencies. They are foregoing cheaper imports that might benefit their consumers in favor of a manufacturing-led boost to growth via exports. Further, with the ECB, BOJ, and Bank of England all ready to increase accommodation (lower interest rates), scenario 2 looks the least likely at this point in time. Ultimately, the Fed may find it can raise rates less than the FOMC thinks as dollar volatility weighs on US financial markets and dollar strength weighs on growth.

My husband and I are seniors and really want to move from our big family home to a smaller house or condo. The only thing that is holding us back is that we're under Prop. 13, which has kept our property taxes low. What can we do?

There are a couple of other Propositions already in effect that allow you to transfer your tax base, whether within L.A. County, or (selected) other counties. Proposition 60 limits you to purchasing within the same county as the house you are selling is located. Proposition 90 allows inter-county base-tax-value transfers in 10 California counties. The California State Board of Equalization has more details.

My daughter lives in the house that I inherited when my first husband died. I've remarried. Does my husband have any rights to the house I inherited?

California is a community property state, giving your spouse half of all your property. However, the one exception is property acquired by gift or bequest. In other words, as long as your current husband is not on title, he does not have any rights to the house you inherited.

I want to learn more about finances, but I hardly know where to start! Am I alone, or are other women financialknowledge starved?

You are not alone. According to the Women, Money and Power, Phase II study conducted by an independent survey organization for a major insurance com-

Phase I explored women's feelings about money and finances, whereas Phase II sought to address those feelings by exploring the unmet needs of women when it comes to financial planning and by identifying possible solutions. Let me know if you'd like more information about the Women, Money, and Power studies.

I sold my business and I'm taking an early retirement. Is there anywhere I can put the proceeds so that they are safe and very long-lasting?

There are a couple of different strategic options available so that your money lasts at least through your lifetime, and possibly longer. You could use one or the other, or a combination of both. These options involve life insurance and fixed, or fixed-indexed annuities. If your first reaction is, "No way," you owe it to yourself to take another look at these products which have evolved into incredible financial planning avenues with lifetime living benefits as well as the possibility of leaving a legacy.

The surrender fee period is ending on my annuity soon. I've heard that annuity contracts nowadays are a lot better than the one I've had. Can I get the money out of this annuity and put it into another? Will I have to pay all the taxes first? You might be able to do a 1035 exchange, which, when done properly, avoids creating a tax-

We're thinking about selling our home without a Realtor. Can you give us any advice?

It is possible, but be aware that those who seek out "For Sale by Owners" are typically looking for a big bargain. How are you going to know if the people looking at your home are actually financially qualified to purchase? Do you know the laws about disclosures? WHAT YOU "AUTO" KNOW By Gene Morill - Certified Automotive Specialists

Can a Car's Artificial Intelligence Have Ethics?

Self-driving vehicles are all us. There could be an animal the talk! It would be nice to just be a passenger and let the car make all the driving decisions while you have time to unwind, or catch up on work, or chat away on your cell phone. We are told that fewer accidents will occur as our car will be talking to the vehicles around them to keep us all safe. That makes us feel better. Still...fewer doesn't mean there won't be some accidents.

Humans are often in tricky situations behind the wheel. We have a few seconds to try to decide which action to take to either prevent an accident, or if that isn't possible, what action to take to cause the minimum of damage...to us and our passengers...our vehicle...and those sharing the highway with in the road, a pedestrian and a child on a bicycle to consider as well.

This is a very real issue and one that programmers of autonomous vehicles have to keep in mind. How can they program ethics into artificial intelligence? I was just reading an interesting article on this very subject and thought I would share some points that were made.

First of all, programmers would have to set "crash-optimization algorithms" based on human ethical intuitions. Of course, different people have different base ethics so most likely this will be decided by committee ...who will be on that committee? That remains to be seen. It could be the automakers themselves, or the government.

Once these "set algorithms" are programmed then the buyer of the vehicle needs to know what to expect. Has the buyer bought a car that only is concerned with the owner of the vehicles safety and best interest? Is it only concerned with keeping the vehicle itself from harm? Has any "moral" or "legal" ramifications been programmed in?

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a CONTINGENT CREDITOR OF THE DECEDENT, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

Cancer, One Man's Story

Gary, 61, never really had health problems. "Before this, I can't remember the last time I was sick twice in a year," he says.

So an illness caught him off guard in 2013. When doctors suggested he go for more tests, he knew his condition was more severe than he first guessed. But the test results found something he never expected: Gary had liver cancer.

The Condition

The number of new cases of liver cancer is on the rise in the United States. Every year, about 28,000 people are diagnosed with it and 23,000 people die from it, according to the CDC. More men than women get liver cancer and it kills approximately twice as many men as women.

The Problem

There are no recommended regular screening tests for liver cancer. "Most people don't realize they have it until it's much later on," says Gary. But people can still take steps to reduce their risk of developing liver cancer.

"I had hepatitis C, as a matter of fact," Gary says. "I never knew it until after I'd been out of the hospital. The doctor asked, 'How long have you had hepatitis C?' And I said, 'I didn't even know I

When left untreated, hepatitis, a viral infection of the liver, can lead to the most common type of liver cancer. According to the most recent available data, as many as 2.2 million people in the U.S. could be living with chronic hepatitis B infection, and as many as 3.5 million people could be living with chronic hepatitis C infection. Hepatitis C is especially common among people like Gary who were born between 1945 and 1965 (sometimes called "baby boomers")-people who are between the ages of 50 and 70.

What To Do

The U.S. Preventive Services Task Force recommends that people in this age range get a onetime test for hepatitis C. Your doctor can help you find ways to manage your risk and treat the hepatitis if the test is positive. People with hepatitis B or hepatitis C typically have no symptoms and can carry the disease for years without knowing.

A vaccine for hepatitis B is routinely given to newborns and may prevent hepatitis B infection, which can also lead to liver cancer. If you haven't been vaccinated, ask your health care provider about the hepatitis B vac-

Other risk factors that can contribute to a higher chance of getting liver cancer include heavy alcohol use, obesity, cigarette smoking, type 2 diabetes, and certain other diseases that affect the liver. You can help control some of these risk factors with healthy lifestyle habits.

Gary is currently receiving treatment to shrink the tumors in his liver. One tumor has been significantly reduced, and another has shrunk so much that scans can no longer detect it. But the cancer may never go away entirely. "One thing I can do is help other people in the process of treatment. Maybe they don't find the cure for liver cancer with me, but maybe I can help them find a cure. I also tell all my friends and familv about the risk factors for liver cancer."

Listen: Get Tested for Liver How To Preserve Your Privacy When Making Mobile Payments

Did you know that now you can use a smartphone, tablet or other mobile devices to pay for some purchases? Mobile payments can be convenient—no need to write a check or to pull out your wallet for cash or plastic. No need to type in your payment information to buy something online. But what about your privacy? According to Consumer Federation of America, that's a good question to ask whenever you consider using new technology. Because you usually carry your phone or other mobile device with you, it's on most of the time, and it may contain very sensitive personal information, it's especially important to keep it, and its contents, safe and secure, especially if you want to use it to make mobile payments or conduct other financial business.

How Do Mobile Payments Work?

• Near Field Communication (NFC) mobile wallet payment. NFC enables you to tap or wave your mobile device close to a "reader" next to a cash register or on a vending machine, turnstile, parking meter, etc. Your mobile device sends the account information that you are going to use for the payment through a radio signal with a short range of about four inches. The mobile wallet app stores your account number in a secure chip in the phone or in a secure file server linked to the mobile wallet app. Examples include Apple Pay and Google Android Pay.

• Mobile web payments (WAP). Use the web browser on your mobile device or a mobile app to make a purchase on the Internet and charge it to your credit, debit, prepaid or bank ac-

• QR code (quick response) scans. Your mobile device produces a QR code on the screen to be scanned at the register. The QR code provides the link to the payment information. Usually, vou download a mobile app for the merchant (such as Starbucks) or a mobile wallet (such as LevelUp) that allows you to create the QR code on your mobile

 Mobile text payments (SMS). Send a code by text message to the seller using your mobile device to approve the payment. The purchase is charged to your wireless service bill or a pre-paid account held by the mobile operator. Personal information, such as payment account number, should not be sent via

• Direct mobile billing. Provide your mobile phone number as your account number to the merchant. The purchase is charged to your wireless service bill. These are normally low-dollar digital payments for items such as ring-tones, screen savers or apps, with most mobile operators establishing a transaction and consolidated dollar limit.

Mobile payments often involve using software programs called "apps." Apps may require you to provide personal information in order to download them and, once installed, they can access information from your mobile device. In some cases, you may be asked for permission for the app to obtain specific information, such as your location or your address book.

Some mobile payment apps will only collect and share the information that is required to make the payment; others may collect more information about you. Apps may use your personal information for purposes unrelated to making a payment, such as to sell you in-app features or advertise to you on behalf of other companies. They might also share your personal information with other companies.

Who else could collect information from your use of a payment app? It could be the app store, an advertising network, a data broker that collects information about people from a variety of sources and packages it for sale, the manufacturer of your mobile device, the payment provider (such as your credit card issuer), a payment processor, your wireless carrier and broadband service provider, and the businesses that you are paying.

Not all mobile payment services involve using an app whichever payment service you are using, read its privacy policy. And if you're making a purchase from a merchant's website, you'll also want to look at its privacy policy. Website operators and advertising networks often collect information about people who visit websites.

Tips for Protecting Your Mobile Payment Privacy

• Read the privacy policies of the companies whose services you are using to make mobile payments and the companies that you are paying.

• If you don't like a company's privacy policy, take your business elsewhere.

• Don't voluntarily provide information that is not necessary to use a product or service or make a payment.

• Take advantage of the controls that you may be given over the collection and use of your personal information.

• Since mobile payments, like all electronic payments, leave a trail, if there are transactions that you would prefer to make anonymously, pay with cash.

For more about how to protect your privacy and security when you make mobile payments, go to www.consumerfed.org/ mobilepayments. These new educational materials were produced with a grant from the Digital Trust Foundation. (NAPSI)

Many Boomers Surprised By Debt In Retirement

tirement means more time to travel, play with grandkids and experience greater personal satisfaction in everyday life. But as Baby Boomers begin to retire, many will experience a different reality—one marked by debt. Fortunately, there are ways to avoid being among them.

The Problem

According to a new study commissioned by Bankers Life Center for a Secure Retirement, more than half of pre-retirees think they'll pay off their debts before retirement, but only a quarter of retirees actually are debt free.

The same study found that eight in 10 middle-income Boomers currently have some debt, and nearly 25 percent have more than 20 years remaining on their mortgage.

"We tend to prepare for costs that we can anticipate," said Scott Goldberg, president of Bankers Life. "Most do not foresee the amount of debt they will carry into retirement and other unex-

If you're like most people, repected expenses, such as longterm care and various health related costs. Our studies show that only about half of Boomers feel they have a strong understanding of financial matters to overcome these hurdles."

Golden Years Reality

Not long ago, many retirees relied on pensions and Social Security for income during their golden years. These income streams used to be enough to live on comfortably. Today, fewer companies are offering pensions and benefits from Social Security are getting leaner just as a greater number of Americans are retiring.

But as Boomers leave the workforce at what looks like lightning speed, they may not be prepared to continue paying off debt or other unexpected ex-

According to the study, middle-income Boomers are unsure of the best ways to maximize their income and find additional sources of income during retirement. Nearly 90 percent express some concerns about making their money last in retire-

"More than ever, it is crucial that Boomers take proactive steps in advance of retirement and recognize the options available while planning for a secure future," said Goldberg. "From annuities to long-term care insurance to investments, the options beyond Social Security and pensions are increasingly tangible for middle-income Boomers."

The Good News

Thanks to advances in medicine, retirees are living longer, more independent lives. Therefore, being financially prepared for long-term retirement is more important than ever.

More good news: It's never too late for Boomers to meet with a trusted financial advisor to prepare and take the correct precautions that can set them up for a more fulfilling experience in their golden years. (NAPSI) style and that their tastes are always evolving. With 38 percent of parents spending between $100 to $249 per child on backto-school clothing, according to statistics from online retailer zulily, parents and kids alike should feel confident in their purchases.

Tips to Beat Wardrobe Wars When Back-to-School Shopping for Kids It's no secret that kids have destination to discover great not their number one style icon.

"It's never a good feeling to buy your child new clothes, only to find a favorite color, pattern or style has changed," says Shawn Redman, senior buyer and kids' fashion expert for zulily.com. "This back-to-school season, our 'Kids' Trend Report' uncovered that now, more than ever, it's important to involve kids in the shopping process to lessen potential power struggles and inspire smiles on the first day of school."

Redman recommends planning ahead to avoid stress. Start by cleaning out your kids' closets so you can see what still fits and create an accurate checklist of needed items. Then, look for the best deals to help you stay within budget. Online retailers like zulily.com can be a go-to ping, including a variety of shoes, apparel, accessories and school supplies. Daily, the site features a new assortment of unique looks at great prices.

To help parents shop for kids, zulily is offering key survey findings from kids ages five to 12, in its inaugural "Kids' Trend Report."

• Girls go against gender norms while embracing the combination of comfort and style, with their top look being athletic (40 percent), followed by boho (33 percent). Boys, however, are looking to a more adult-influenced approach for fashion inspiration, preferring city chic (48 percent) and preppy (33 percent) for their back-to-school ward-

• The classic, yet cool, color of blue is the top choice among all kids (26 percent). However, for girls, pink (29 percent) and purple (25 percent) reign supreme. Boys still prefer blue (42 percent), with red (15 percent) and black (12 percent) coming in as second and third choices.

• Sorry Mom, girls say you are strong opinions when it comes to deals on back-to-school shop- While many moms use their own style as the main source of inspiration when shopping for their kids (38 percent), girls are more likely to turn to friends (41 percent) first for inspiration, then to Mom (26 percent), followed closely by television (22 percent). Boys continue to go with the flow and frequently turn to parents for style inspiration first (38 percent), followed closely by friends (34 percent), with television being the smallest source of their style inspiration (14 percent).

• Style inspiration isn't the only thing moms and daughters may not see eye-to-eye on, with 36 percent of moms admitting to disagreeing on clothing choices with their daughters. To beat the wardrobe wars, a majority of moms (58 percent) recommend giving their children choices and letting them ultimately pick their own outfits.

"The back-to-school season is a perfect opportunity to inspire kids to express their individuality and boost their confidence," says Redman. (StatePoint)

by Jeff Nichol, DVM

If you're like most dog owners, you've stumbled upon, or even into, a few urine "accidents" from time to time.

What Can Happen

Tom and Andrea Armstrong love their dog Clara, a delightful 8-year-old retriever who enjoys playing ball and snuggling. A few years ago, her family started finding wet spots in her bed. They were puzzled. Clara had been reliably house-trained, but now, when she got up, she would sometimes sniff her wet bed and sheepishly skulk away. She seemed to know she'd made a mistake. Her owners considered punishing her.

The Armstrongs did the right thing and took Clara to their veterinarian. A careful history revealed that this well-behaved dog leaked urine only when resting or sleeping, that she always passed a normal stream outside, and that she never strained. Suspecting an incontinence problem, her doctor explained the importance of ruling out other problems before prescribing treatment.

Why It Happens

It could be due to a number of reasons. Bladder stones and infections, kidney disease, diabetes, neurologic disorders and behavior problems are all possibili-

For a senior dog, it might be a behavior issue or age-related dementia or it may be entirely physical.

Also, nearly 20 percent of spayed female dogs leak while they sleep due to urethral sphincter hypotonus, often called spay incontinence. Some spayed dogs, most often middle-aged and older, don't produce quite enough of the female hormone estrogen to maintain control of the sphincter muscle in their bladders. After drifting off to sleep, they leak. Some of them lick themselves to clean up the mess, leaving their skin reddened. Nobody's happy.

What The Vet Can Do

Fortunately, nearly every affected dog who's treated does fine. Veterinarians often prescribe the only nonhormone medical option, chewable Proin tablets from PRN Pharmacal, because they taste great and work

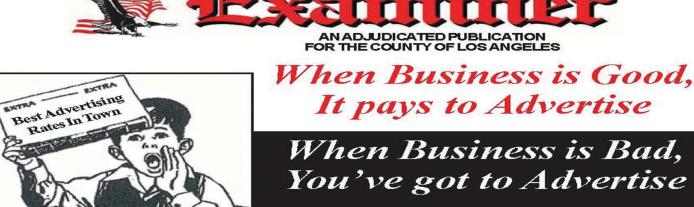

In some cases, due to pet irritability, restlessness or certain medical conditions, Proin may be inappropriate. For those dogs, hormone therapy may be more effective.

The good news for spayed female bed wetters is that they can stay indoors with their families. For example, Clara's leaking stopped in just a few days. She's back to being a full-on snuggler.

Local San Dimas Baton Twirler Places Top 10 In The Nation

SAN DIMAS - Ten year old San Dimas resident Ashlyn Moore recently placed Top 10 in the nation for her age division in Intermediate Pageant, at Baton Twirling's National Competition called America's Youth on Parade, held at the University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Indiana. After securing various titles at the California State Championships in November 2015, Ashlyn went on to win the Intermediate Pageant for Miss Majorette of California in May, which qualified her to compete at the National level at the University of Notre Dame. The National Baton Twirling Association's AYOP national event is hosted July 25 through July 30, 2016 in South Bend, Indiana, where baton twirlers from across the United States come to compete in various age divisions and skill level. Ashlyn Moore medaled in five different events, placing in the Top 10 in the nation for the 7-9 Intermediate division!!

Keeping the sport and tradition of baton twirling alive, she is a 4th generation baton twirler; her great grandma was a majorette, and her grandma, mom and aunt were all twirlers! Ashlyn is coached by the amazing Liane Aramaki and Ashlyn is also currently a twirler with the Rockettes of California Twirl Team. She hopes to continue to pursue additional baton twirling championship titles, and also someday be the Feature Twirler for Bonita or San Dimas High School.

Ashlyn has certainly represented her home town of San Dimas well, and has made her friends, family and fellow California twirlers abundantly

A special congratulations to Ashlyn Moore and we wish her the best of luck on her future baton twirling journey.

Local Korean War Veteran Passes On

GLENDORA - James "Jim" Moses, 85, passed away peacefully at the Veterans Hospital in Long Beach on August 5, 2016 after a long battle with cancer.

Jim was born on April 12, 1931, in New Castle, PA, to Albert and Julia Moses.

In 1945, he moved to Pasadena where he attended McKinley Junior High School. Later he lived in Azusa and Glendora before enlisting in the United States Army in 1948 where he served with distinction. He was assigned to the 1st Infantry Division, the "Big Red One," and deployed to occupation duty in Germany.

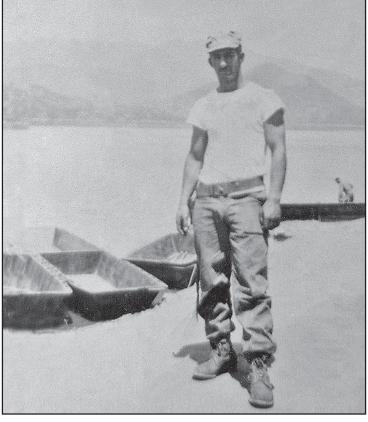

James Moses - Big Red One

When the Korean War broke out, he was reassigned to the 1437th Engineer Treadway Bridge Company in Korea. The 1437th held the mission to support the 19th Regiment, 6th ROK Division, and the 21st Regiment, 8th ROK Division, during the offensive across the Pukhan River north of the Hwachon Reservoir. The 1437th operated a ferry service at the Hwachon Reservoir for United Nations troops operating in the rugged, inaccessible mountains north of the manmade reservoir lake. Scheduled trips were made around the clock to provide a vital supply link over a 26 mile route. Ammunition, food, and replacements were ferried across the reservoir and up the Pukhan River to UN forces. On the return trip, engineer assault boats powered by outboard motors evacuated wounded.

In 1951 while attached to KMAG, the Korean Military Advisory Army Group attached to the 6th Republic of Korea Army, Jim was in charge of the Hwachon Reservoir north of the 38th Parallel. One of his duties was to take Korean General Lee on various trips up and down the reservoir.

On one occasion, a Major from the 2nd Calvary Division issued an urgent plea for a volunteer to evacuate wounded Korean officers and enlisted men trapped in a tributary about three miles above the reservoir; Jim volunteered. Alone he set out across the reservoir aboard a 9 foot dingy powered with a 22 horsepower Johnson outboard motor while towing another 9 foot dingy behind. Jim Moses located the six wounded soldiers and returned them safely to base headquarters, although one had died on the way back. He was scheduled to come back to the States but was asked to stay a few days longer for a full dress parade in his honor which he refused as he was anxious to return home. In February 1952, the Republic of Korea sent a Citation along with the Korean Medal of Honor to Washington D.C., to be awarded to Jim. The Citation read in part:

". . . for his aid in evacuation, education and training of our engineers. This good attitude you have taken toward us was essential toward the excellent cooperation between your people and ours and the foundation of friendly relations between the Americans and Ko-

The Korean Medal of Honor is the highest award that can be given an American by Korea. Jim was also awarded the Army Occupation Medals for his service in Germany and Japan and the Korean Service Medal with three bronze service stars.

Jim is survived by three sons, James Albert Moses of Ventura, John Eric Moses of Long Beach, and Gary Christian Moses of Clive, Iowa; grandchildren Kyle, Konner, Daniel, Robert and Jessica; and brothers, Eugene, Roger and Edward.

Grave side services will be held Thursday August 11 at 3pm at Oakdale Memorial Park in Glendora where he will be interred beside his loving wife Borghild who predeceased him in 2001.
