WALNUT - Blanca Maria Vides of San Dimas will stand out from her classmates this month and fulfill a lifelong dream when she graduates with an Associate of Science Degree in Fashion Design & Technology. At the age of 71, she will become the oldest graduate in Mt. San Antonio College's history.

Her road to fulfilling a childhood dream has been a long one. She and her five brothers were raised by farming parents in El Salvador. Her father worked in the fields and her mother took care of the house and the family, and that included sewing clothes.

"I used to watch my mother crochet, and when I

Although she was passionate about fashion, her parents didn't want her to have the hard life and long hours of a seamstress, which was the only occupation available to her in El Salvador with her skillset. Instead, Vides earned a degree in accounting and for the next many years worked as an accountant by day, but continued to make dresses at home.

In 1989, El Salvador was in the midst of a civil war when Vides lost her home in a bombing. At the age of 46, she moved to the United States. She came alone and spoke very little English.

She began working as a housekeeper and started taking English classes at Citrus College in Glendora. In 2005, she discovered Mt. SAC's fashion design and technology program, so she slowly began taking one or two courses each semester and continued her education after retiring as a housekeeper in 2007.

Vides says it will be a proud moment for her to walk across the stage on graduation day. And her dreams don't stop there.

"I want to start an online business and make my own clothing designs and crochet patterns, and sell them. I also want to publish a book with all of my crochet patterns," says Vides.

Vides hopes her journey will inspire others who are struggling with the idea of starting or continuing their education. "I love to come to school. I like to learn something new. If you want to learn something, the best thing to do is to stop thinking about it and just do it," she says.

"It's never too late."

ries of Citrus Valley Health Partners made sure everyone attending would have an enjoyable experience at this year's new venue. The Farm at Fairplex. It was a night of wine, craft beer and wonderful food, held outdoors under a star studded sky while listening and dancing to the music of the Sound Bytes.

At the entrance to this five acre working farm, guests were greeted with a keepsake wine glass for tasting and a ring for the highly popular wine toss. They then could wander through the garden sampling the wines and beers donated by our generous vendors: Azo Vino, Cost Plus World Market, Last Name Brewing, Third Street Wines, Rev Winery, Rev Brewery Azusa Grocery Outlet, San Antonio Winery, Innovation Brew Works, L.A. To all those who made this fundraiser possible, including the outstanding service and food The Farm provided, the merchants who gave so generously, the committee who spent many hours organizing and, of course, all who attended, we say thank you. The three hospital auxiliaries, Foothill Presbyterian, Intercommunity and Queen of the Valley will use the proceeds for scholarships and their hospitals' building fund.

Jana Swete, Pam Byars, Fran Brunsell, Mary Barham, along with Dlorah and Ron Gonzales enjoy the fun evening.

S.G.V. EXAMINER 3 Assembly Policy Committee Votes for Powdered Alcohol Ban

Huff Measure Continues to Receive Unanimous Support

SACRAMENTO - Legislation that would ban powdered alcohol, or "Palcohol," in California passed out of the Assembly Committee on Government Organization today with no opposition. SB 819, authored by Senator Bob Huff (R-San Dimas), would make California the 32nd state to ban or restrict the sale of this dangerous product.

Powdered alcohol is a freeze dried version of alcohol which comes in a small pouch and is the equivalent of a shot of alcohol. The crystallized formula becomes a cocktail once mixed with water. Although the product isn't sold in stores yet, labeling was approved by the U.S. Alcohol and Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau in 2014.

"Powdered alcohol is a new product that is coming to market throughout the nation," said Senator Huff during today's hearing. "The ease of using this substance presents an array of potential health problems in California as it can be snorted, added to energy drinks, slipped to unknowing recipients, or even added to beverages already containing alcohol in an attempt to create a dangerously potent concoction." Senator Huff's legislation has earned the support of numerous public safety organizations and government agencies, many of whom sent representatives to testify on behalf of SB 819 during the hearing. The list includes the Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors, Placer County Board of Supervisors, Los Angeles Drug and Alcohol Policy Alliance, Alcohol Justice and many others who testified in support of the bill.

According to a national advocacy group, Alcohol Justice, California is the largest alcohol market in the U.S. and suffers the most alcohol-related harm. A 2013 study from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control found that the societal costs for binge drinking are higher in California than in any other state: $32 billion for one year of excessive alcoholic consumption. Problems caused by binge drinking include lost work productivity, poor health, crime, automobile accidents, property damage and death.

West Covina Firefighters' to Review Contract Proposal, Looks Promising

By George Oaden

WEST COVINA - At the last West Covina City Council meeting, the West Covina Firefighters' Association picketed outside the council chambers before the meeting. Nearly 40 firefighters showed up and joined the meeting with one member talking about trying to get a satisfactory contract with the city. They have gone 2 years without a contract and they are not talking about a pay raise, but benefits that they feel that they have earned.

The association has attempted to negotiate a contract with the city through formal negotiations with the city manager, and mediation with a mediator with no success.

A representative from the association addressed the council at the beginning of the meeting during oral communications talking about the frustration that the firefighters are going through while working without a contract.

However, City Manager Chris Freeland responded at the end of the oral communications that he was delighted to report that they have in fact reached a settlement that should satisfy both sides and seems to be a "win, win" situation.

Freeland and the staff worked hard with the association to bring this chapter to a close and with everyone on all sides satisfied.

Senator Huff is pleased the issue has achieved bipartisan support and is working closely with Assemblymember Jacqui Irwin (D-Thousand Oaks) on a companion measure that has been introduced in the Assembly, AB 1554. Assemblymember Irwin is also a principal coauthor of SB 819.

"Permitting the sale of powdered alcohol in California sends the wrong message to youth and young adults about responsible drinking," said Senator Huff. "Although labeling for this product has already been approved on the federal level, it's now incumbent on each state to decide if this product should be sold in local neighborhood stores. We need to stop this product before it reaches the market."

Fire-Danger Level Elevated to Very High

ARCADIA - Angeles National Forest and San Gabriel Mountains National Monument (ANF/ SGMNM) Fire Officials have raised the Fire Danger Level from "High" to "Very High" effective Monday, June 13th. Drought conditions continue for the fifth year in a row adding to already dry vegetation.

The forest has taken this step to enhance public awareness that wildfire probability increases as temperatures rise and brush dries out. The live fuel moisture levels in shrubs and brush have decreased, grasses at lower elevations cured early and recent fire activity has increased around the forest.

Despite the change, there are no new campfire restrictions. Open wood and charcoal fires will still be permitted in approved "developed" campgrounds and picnic areas where a steel ring or stoves are provided. Propane or jelled gas stoves and grills are permitted in non-developed areas with a valid California Campfire Permit. Smoking allowed in enclosed vehicles or developed recreation sites only.

• Mandate that drones of a certain size, and equipped with GPS capability, feature automatic shut-off technology that would activate if approaching an airport. This technology already exists, and is critical to protecting commercial passenger flights.

"The DRONE Act will ensure that negligent-drone operators can be held financially responsible, whenever injuries, interference, or property damage occurs," said Assemblyman Gatto. "This is a practical measure that will increase public safety and encourage responsible use of drones in California, without and metal vehicles will be overhead in the years to come. Several fires across the state worsened when drone sightings grounded firefighting aircraft. A drone operator in West Hollywood fled the scene after flying a drone into power lines, causing a power outage and another fell from the sky in Pasadena, onto a mother pushing a baby carriage. And in March, a Lufthansa Airbus A380 reported a nearmiss incident when a drone flew passed the aircraft at 5,000 feet as it approached LAX.

The DRONE Act now heads to the Senate.

3 Burglars Arrested Burglarizing Pot House

By George Ogden

WEST COVINA - Police responded to the 1800 block of David Court about 1 p.m. on Wednesday, June 8, to a report of a burglary in progress. One of the burglars was reported to be armed with a handgun. When officers arrived, they found three subjects in the area and detained them. They were found to be the suspects and they were arrested for burglary.

The suspects broke windows to gain entry into the home. This caught the attention of the witnesses who called police.

During the investigation, the officers found that the home that suspects were breaking into had an indoor marijuana farm. There were 30 plants presently growing and it appeared that many more had already been harvested.

At this point, the home owner was also arrested for growing the pot.

No names were released on all the subjects as there is still an ongoing investigation.

What Do You Make Of It?

I want to tell you about something that recently happened to me, and ask what you might make of it. It has nothing to do with politics or anything else I usually write about. I would tend to call what happened a coincidence, but my more mystically oriented friends might see a deeper hidden meaning.

So here is the story. On my birthday Wendy decided that we might do something that would remind me of my childhood. So we would go to a kid's movie about a book I read as a youngster, followed by a hamburger and fries. That sounded like fun. So off we went, arriving at the movie theater just in time to see "The Jungle Book." But as we got out of the car there appeared a modestly-dressed young woman on the sidewalk. "Could you help me?" she asked. "My three children and I have nowhere to stay tonight, and we are in a car on the roof of the parking garage. I need just thirty-three dollars to get a room." I am not in the habit of giving out money to panhandlers. Even so, I am sensitive to homeless people, and with two homeless men helped initiate what is now a vital program for the homeless in our city. So I offered her another option and we walked away.

Charles H. Bayer

Wendy and I got our tickets and took our seats just as the film was about to start. (While I enioved the movie, I don't think I would ever take my grandchildren to see it. But that is another story.)

Following the movie, we made our way to an upscale nearby hamburger restaurant. It is a crowded noisy establishment with the tables almost on top of each other, and is populated by hordes of young adults, mostly from the nearby colleges. We ordered our drinks and a couple of very fancy burgers, you know, the 10 to 15 dollar variety. But it was my birthday. We took our time eating and listening to the chatter all around us.

When we finished our meal and asked for the check, the very pleasant server said to Wendy,

"Why your meal has already been paid for by a couple who were at another table, and are now gone."

"Who were they?" we asked. She had no idea and when we were seated we didn't recognize anyone we knew. "Did they leave you a good tip?" we asked. "They certainly did," replied the server.

So we left the restaurant befuddled by these two events. We had turned down a young woman, not knowing whether her story was true or a fraud-and we will never know. And we were treated to dinner by someone we may never know. I have had hundreds of people ask me for my spare change or a dollar, but never for $33. And I have never had a stranger buy my dinner without my knowing who it was, or why.

The next day Wendy took $33 to the chairman of our local homeless project. That didn't ease our quandary, but it was something we needed to do.

Well, there it is, a coincidence when two totally unrelated occurrences happen almost simultaneously. I don't know what to make of these events, and I am describing them this week hoping that a few of my readers will offer some clarity, or at least an opinion.

They Are Here, Terrorists Killing Americans Again

I have talked about this before, "it is going to happen here" and it did again. This time it is worse. At least 50 people killed and over 50 injured. A gunman using an assault-type rifle along with a handgun opened fire inside a crowded gay nightclub early Sunday, June 12, in Orlando, Fl.

The suspect in the Orlando attack was identified as Omar Mateen of Port St. Lucie. an American citizen born in New York. He was killed in a gun fight with SWAT officers. It was the deadliest mass shooting in American history. Mateen's father, Mir Seddique, told news media about his son seeing men kissing a couple of months ago

George Ogden That's just the way it is! found assault rifles, ammunition and items that could be used to create bombs in his car. Officers were responding to another call when they found him. Howell said he was in town for the Gay Pride parade. What he was planning is anyone's guess. Police suspect it is possible that he may have been planning a terrorist attack at the parade. They are not sure if there is a connection to the Orlando terrorist attack.

What is sad is the fact that if one person that was at that Orlando attack had a weapon of their own, there could have been that chance that the shooter could have been killed and many lives saved. He was also on the FBI's radar so he wasn't unknown to authorities.

This isn't over and I am sure there is more to come. If they don't like our way of life, then LEAVE.

Procedure, Paperwork? Not Necessary for Some Agendas

By Lois M. Shade Former Mayor of Glendora

Until reports in local newspapers this past weekend for health care for illegals, I had never heard of Senator Ricardo Lara (D-33rd Bell Gardens). Out of curiosity, I decided to backtrack a little bit on SB 10 and the senator to see who he is and what he's been up to in Sacramento.

Senator Lara authored SB 10, signed by Gov. Jerry Brown last Friday, to expand health coverage to all Californians, regardless of immigration status. The bill permits the state to apply for a federal 1332 waiver that would allow undocumented immigrants and their non-US born children to buy coverage through Covered California using their own money. The bill specifically prohibits any cost to the state or federal government.

ACA or Affordable Care Act, excludes illegal immigrants from buying health care on the state exchanges like Covered California, however they are not prevented from buying health insurance on their own through any insurance company or broker. To obtain a 1332 waiver, a state must provide benefits at least as comprehensive as the "essential health benefits" all plans in insurance markets cover and not increase the federal deficit.

Covered California, under the Affordable Care Act (Obamacare) is the place Californians can get brand-name health insurance and the only place to get federal premium assistance when you buy private insurance. The website promotes private insurance at a discount or health insurance through Medi-Cal for those that qualify. If illegals are allowed to buy health insurance on their own, and SB 10 prohibits cost to the state or federal governments, I question the reason they need to be part of Covered California.

California Immigrant Policy Center, October 2015, as part of their promotion for health care for immigrants, presented statistics including the 2015-16 State budget that provided $40 million to guarantee comprehensive, full scope Medi-Cal coverage to 170,000 undocumented or illegal children until they turn 19. Being proposed is $132 million to continue expansion of the program. At question, how much of that Medi-Cal increase is a result of Lara's fact-finding mission to visit the Central American unaccompanied minors in Ventura County and their continued stay there. As part of that fact-finding trip, Lara secured $3 million for non-profit organizations to provide legal representation to these children.

SB 10 had originally proposed a Statewide Director of immigrant Integration working out of the Governor's office. That position was incorporated in the last budget so Lara's bill was rewritten to become strictly a health care bill. Democrat Daniel Torres was appointed director, promoted out of the immigration branch of California Department of Social Services. Compensation is $127,992 a year.

Elected in 2012, Senator Lara has been very active promoting and providing for the illegal community in California. He takes credit for AB 60, allowing illegals to obtain driver's licenses with DMV reporting 605,000 licenses issued the first year -January 2015 to January 2016 or 50,000 a month during that time frame.

Lara also credits himself with passage of SB 210, the California DREAM Loan Program which helps undocumented students apply for loans to complete their higher education goals and awards up to $4,000 a year, or $20,000 total, for tuition, books, living and transportation expenses, and any other student expenses used to calculate a student's financial need for purposes of federal Title IV student aid programs.

SB 1159 authored by the senator allows the use of a Social Security Number or Taxpayer Identification Number to be used to apply for professional licenses circumventing any questions about the applicants legal or illegal status. Under Lara's law there are currently 40 professions listed on his website that allow this process when applying for a license ranging from Automotive Repair, Cosmetology, Acupuncture, and Contractor's License Boards. He does caution, on the website, those making application should review tax laws and perhaps consult with immigrant rights or a legal aid organization.

What It Takes to Be an Effective Citizen

By Lee H. Hamilton

It's so easy in a presidential election year to forget that our system is not about a single person. This year especially, when the dynamics of the presidential contest have dominated news coverage so thoroughly that even the Senate and House races have largely disappeared from view, the crucial role that citizens play - apart from serving as voters in the presidential drama — isn't even an afterthought.

healthier than they were in the 1980s.

Yes, we've got miles to go on many fronts, but on the whole, I'll take where we stand today over where we stood in the 1980s. Our system is working better for more people than it did then.

The people who helped make this happen understood two things: that progress was possible, and that it required their efforts. This might seem too obvious even to say, but those who were most effective had an impact because they had the skills to make a difference. I'm talking here about the fundamental ability we should all have as citizens to solve problems in a representative democracy that's filled with people who have different beliefs, perspectives, and experiences. This means knowing how to work together with all kinds of people, being able to find common ground, being forthright about aims and methods, forging connections to key officials and other players who can help advance a cause, building consensus, and communicating ideas effectively. I use the word "skills," but in the end, good citizenship is as much about temperament as it is about ability. Mutual respect, tolerance, empathy, civility, humility, honesty, resolve — these are the simple virtues that our nation depends on in its citizens, not because they're nice to see, but because in a vibrant and diverse democracy they're crucial for making progress. So is a willingness to step up to challenges. The people who make a difference in our system are the ones who not only identify a problem, but then plunge into fixing it.

who are exasperated by the obstacles they have to overcome in order to make a difference: fellow citizens who are ignorant of the system, politicians who are too obtuse or self-interested to see the light, incompetence in the bureaucracy, officials protecting turf.... But here's the thing: those obstacles will always be there. You just have to keep plugging away at overcoming them, whether by casting an informed ballot, sitting down and this "enraged" him. This may be a reason for the attack at the gay nightclub.

Mateen swore allegiance to Islamic State leader Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi in a 9-1-1 call prior to the shooting. His family is from Afghanistan.

Islamic State claimed responsibility on Sunday for the worst mass shooting in U.S. history. Islamic State's claim was carried by Amaq, the organization's news agency. "The armed attack that targeted a gay night club in the city of Orlando which left over 100 people dead or injured was carried out by an Islamic State fighter," said the Amaq statement. However, U.S. officials said they had seen no immediate evidence linking the militant group to the massacre in the Orlando nightclub.

So, where do these people come from?

Then we have the Santa Monica police arresting James Howell of Indiana this past Sunday morning after they "tripped across him" by accident and

Yet effective citizenship is the base on which our representative democracy rests. Our vitality as a country depends on the involvement of millions of people in their neighborhoods and communities, in interest groups and civic organizations, in groups agitating for change and groups defending the status quo.

So just what constitutes effective citizenship? I believe it's made up of several elements.

First, a confident belief that change is possible — that the country can indeed make progress over time thanks to the efforts both of ordinary people and of political leaders. In his recent speech at Howard University, President Obama noted that by almost every measure, the country has moved forward over the last three decades. The poverty rate is down, as are the rates for crime and for teenage pregnancy. More Americans are getting college degrees, more women are working and earning more money, many cities are far with — or protesting against political leaders, or finding the myriad ways you can improve the quality of life for your neighbors and fellow Americans.

You may already have picked up on the final quality that makes for effective citizenship, and it's a tough one. For the most part, we're not going to solve our challenges in a single generation. So we have to educate our children and those who come after us in the same skill sets I've been talking about.

That's because, as I said at the start, our representative democracy is not all about the presidency. We -you, me, and our fellow citizens — are responsible for the future of our neighborhoods and our nation. Unless we all shoulder the obligation to learn the skills we need to shepherd it into the future, and then teach those skills to others, our country and our system will struggle.

A Weak Employment Report Financial - Ask Julia

The May employment report was weak, but there were a flurry of unusual factors that may have made it weaker than it should have been; the Verizon strike, weird weather and ongoing changes in the seasonal hiring pattern of retail employees are some of the obvious reasons.

Here's how the slowdown in hiring fits with other key economic concepts and Wall Street's thinking about the Fed.

>According to the Atlanta Fed, economic growth is tracking 2.5% in Q2 and 1.6% in the first half. There is still a great deal of second quarter data we don't know, however. That 2.5% number is an uninformed guess at this point.

>The Fed is eager to raise rates this summer, but officials who have talked about tightening have made clear they don't care if they hike in June or July, or even September for some members.

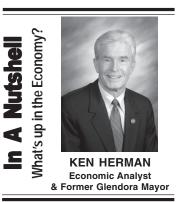

>Wall Street thinks the slowdown in hiring since February reflects slower growth in the first quarter and weaker corporate earnings in the past six quarters. Both reflect a correction in the energy producing economy which is drawing to a close, weakness in the global economy and recent strength in the dollar.

>There is reason for optimism in a recovery, but it is not yet a sure thing.

>For the FOMC, waiting for additional information on June 15 is the most reasonable course.

FALSE OPTIMISMAS THE EMPLOYMENT RATE FALLS

Nearly half of unemployed Americans have quit looking for work, and the numbers are even worse for the long-term jobless that paints a grim picture of the labor market. Some 59 percent of those who have been out of work for two years or more say they have stopped looking. Overall, 43 percent of the jobless said they have given up.

The unemployment rate fell to 4.7 percent in May, but the drop came primarily because of a sharp decline in the labor force participation rate. The number of people of all ages whom the government considers "not in the labor force" swelled by 664,000 to a record 94.7 million Americans, according to Labor Department data.

Job creation, after averaging more than 200,000 for much of the recovery, has slowed considerably this year. May saw just 38,000 new jobs, part of a trend in which payrolls have grown an average of 116,000 over the past three months and less than 150,000 for all of 2016.

YELLEN SPEAKS, MAR-KETS YAWN

In a speech at the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia last Monday, Janet Yellen struck a conciliatory and balanced tone as she laid out the case that the US economy is strengthening, yet considerable risks remain to the outlook. After citing several indicators that show a steadily improving labor market over the past year, Chair Yellen said this past Friday's jobs report was 'disappointing' and deserves monitoring. And while acknowledging a relatively weak Q1, she said a significant step-up in consumer spending should boost Q2 GDP. She was not so quick to dismiss slower-than-expected inflation, however, but said she was confident that after the price effects of oil and the dollar wore off inflation would return to the Fed's 2% objective.

Most important take-away: In the short term, her quote that "we will need to watch labor market developments carefully" implies that a summer rate hike may be off the table without robust economic data between now and the July meeting. Longer term, Yellen said that she believes "we are now close to eliminating the slack that has weighed on the labor market since the recession," which is new coming from her. Labor market slack has been a consistent reason she has cited to keep rates low; the elimination of slack will be cause to raise rates if recent weak data proves transitory.

Bottom Line: June is off the table. July hike only if economic data surprises to the upside over the next two months. The economic projections that accompany the June FOMC meeting will likely contain the most important information with regard to Fed thinking for the next month. If the board views the current slowdown in hiring as a blip on the radar, it will be reflected in an unadjusted forecast, where they still forecast two hikes before year end. Any adjustment down in either inflation projections or the forecast will show the FOMC is taking the recent sneeze as a sign of a potential cold to come.

On balance, the May employment report was a wake-up call which justifies putting rate hikes on hold until after the June meeting. In July, the Fed will have a considerably better idea of spending and employment in the second quarter. Plus, the UK vote on exiting the EU (Brexit) will be behind us and we'll have a better idea of how China is weathering its summer cash squeeze.

Regarding "terrorist" attacks and your finances:

At this time in America, the majority of us observe, but cannot even image the intensity of the horror and destruction in the lives of those who are involved in a personal way by terrorist attacks. Some recognize that our elected leaders, the FBI, and other government entities are failing to lead and protect us. Furthermore, they are taking deliberate action to eliminate our ability to protect ourselves. What's this got to do with finances? These people did not plan to be victims any more than we plan on a car accident, a home-invasion robbery, an earthquake, or a wildfire. How many of those individuals had their finances in order? Did they have life insurance? Did they have designated beneficiaries of their bank and investment accounts? Did they have a trust? Do the injured have medical insurance, and the savings to pay the high deductibles and co-payments? How prepared are you?

I have $50,000 in a CD that's about to mature. Although I don't anticipate needing any of this money for quite a while, if I put it into a 5-year CD (to get the highest returns), I can't touch it without a penalty. Is there somewhere to invest this money that's safe, will earn a little better returns, and I could get to some of it, just in case a need arises?

Yes, you have a couple of choices. One product line offers a start-up bonus, a guarantee that you cannot lose your principal, automatic lock-in of gains annually, gives you access to up to 10% of your money annually, and (usually for a small fee) sends you payments for your lifetime, with any remaining money in your accumulation account going to your heirs. Or, you might be interested in a product that offers no bonus, but potentially higher returns, with all the same guarantees. (Disclaimer: Guarantees are based on the strength of the insurance co.)

Several financial analysts have tried to get me to invest my money with them. I feel like they talk down to me and act like they are there to be my hero and take control for me. They don't want to take the time to explain so that I can make educated decisions about my own financial planning. It seems like you and Suzy Orman are the only female financial professionals in the public eye. I cannot afford her; how much do you charge?

More and more women are showing an interest in their own financial future, wanting to learn, plan, and feel confident when it comes to money. Some financial professionals find that our clients are happiest when every penny of their investment dollars goes into their investment. Rather than charging for financial consultations, we choose to let the various highly-rated companies pay us as a 'thank you' for bringing an investor to them. SACRAMENTO-Local governments will receive $1.412 bil- provements, personal property, lion in tax revenue in the upcoming fiscal year because of the plies to properties owned or used California State Board of Equalization's (BOE) assessment of privately owned public utilities and railroads. The values for these properties for Fiscal Year 2016-17 were set at $102.7 billion by the BOE at its May 24, 2016, meeting in Sacramento by unanimous vote. Total values are $2.6 billion more than the $100.1 billion adopted by the Board last year, and will generate approximately $36 million more in taxes for local governments than in the current fiscal year. Values were set for 400 companies with property in California. They include telephone (long distance, local, and wireless), gas and electric companies, railroads, and intercounty pipelines. "Local governments desperately need this revenue," said Board Member Jerome E. Horton. "I am pleased to be in a position to provide and protect it for our schools, public safety, road repairs, and other badly needed services throughout the State of California." ## in the Future?

There is a lot of noise out there about the cars of the future. As a child, I often dreamed of flying around in a car like George Jetson's. We are still waiting for that to be the normal mode of transport. What do we have?

• Gasoline Engine: This old standby is popular because even though we often have reason to complain about gasoline prices, the cost to buy an electric or battery operated vehicle is much higher than the cost to buy a gasoline powered car. Gas pumps are everywhere as well so you don't have to map your route based on charging stations. The gasoline engine is still the most convenient, economical form of transport.

• Electric/Battery Cars: We hear a lot about this "clean" driving. It is great for the environment but the high cost makes it a tough sell. Out of the 17 million new cars sold in 2015, only 115,000 were nongasoline...and those were mostly battery or plug-ins.

• Autonomous Cars: These sophisticated alternatives to the gasoline engine are all the talk right now. If the manufacturers can move past the software glitches these cars could be very attractive to drivers...if the price is right and they can learn to trust a vehicle without a steering wheel. A great deal of money is being allocated towards these vehicles to third party software experts. Tests are ongoing at this time...on our roads!

· Shared Rides: In metropolitan areas this is catching on. Many consumers have decided to give up the hassle of car ownership and thanks to Uber and Lyft and Zipcar, commuters aren't having to shell out the big dollars to take a taxi. It is a growing industry but it will be a while before it is available nationwide and these companies are having some hassles along the way.

The race to find the most efficient and affordable vehicle has been going on for a very long time. Steam, crank and other resources have at one time or another been created and tested. The first electric vehicles were being tinkered with in the 1830's and the first gasoline in the 1870's. We will just have to keep working on finding the best mode of transportation for us and our environment!
