MONROVIA - More than 25 Cub Scouts from Monrovia Cub Scout Pack 66 (Tiger, Wolf, Bear and WeBelos Dens) were educated in first aid, CPR, bleeding, emergency recognition and prevention, caring for injuries, choking response and what to do in emergency situations along with splinting on October 17th, while in the process of earning Emergency Preparedness and First Responder badges for WeBelos Scorpion and Husky Dens. The Scouts were wonderful during the training. They seemed to learn a lot of skills and information on top of what they already knew, each Cub Scout had fun practicing "Hands Only" CPR on Rescue Annie (CPR mannequin). After the training MFD gave a wonderful tour to our Cubs of the station.

Information such as this is vital to a Scout's training. These are lessons they will carry with them always and will benefit them throughout their lives. Pack 66 Cub Scouts receive training throughout the year through varied experiences, and it's "all due to the commitment of the volunteer parents who work tirelessly to provide unique experiences for the Scouts, and committed partners within the community who support the Scout's mission to empower youth, such as Monrovia Fire and Rescue, Monrovia PD, Monrovia City Council and Mayor Tom Adams who have given our Cubs so much in time and experience.

Organizers Prepare To Celebrate Military

Skydiver injured during last year's event expected to return

BALDWIN PARK - As communities prepare to honor their military on November 11, officials from this city are putting final touches on celebrating their military as part of a special Veterans Day celebration.

Baldwin Park will commemorate its 25th Annual Veterans Day ceremony on Friday, November 11, at Morgan Park, 4100 Baldwin Park Blvd. Similar celebrations are popular nationwide, as officials from respective cities honor those who have served in the armed forces. Baldwin Park's Veterans Day celebration, which will feature Mayor Manuel Lozano as Master of Ceremonies, begins at 1 p.m. in the park's Cesar E. Chavez Amphitheater.

Program Supervisor Yuriko

Ruizesparza said Baldwin Park's celebration is unique because it is one of only a few entities to host an aerial show as part of its program. Last year, a 67-year-old skydiver was injured when a large American flag he was carrying got tangled in a tree and forced him to crash into the ground. That veteran is expected to make a full recovery and will return for the Baldwin Park event as part of the aerial jumpers' ground crew, organizers said.

This year's Golden Stars Skydiving Team showcase will feature primary parachute jumper Jay Fragoso, who is slated to perform his 2,771st career jump on November 11. Fragoso, himself a U.S. Army Veteran, will cascade into Morgan Park as he concludes his career as a demonstration jumper in Baldwin Park. This will mark his 23rd year performing at city's event.

Ruizesparza described the Veterans Day celebrations as a "momentous occasion [that] recognizes all of the brave men and women who have served in our military."

A national holiday since 1938, Veterans Day marks the anniversary of World War I's end. The national holiday is often marked with commemorations or special ceremonies aimed to honor United States veterans from all military branches, as well as victims of all wars.

On tap for next month's ceremony are a number of military rituals, including the Presentation of Colors, a 21-gun salute and the Golden Stars skydivers' demonstration at the conclusion of the event. Most importantly, organizers noted, local military heroes and a number of veteran organizations will be honored by local and state officials.

Organizers said several local veterans and veteran organizations are slated to recognized here on November 11. Additional nominations for Veterans Day recognitions may still be made by completing and submitting a simple form to the city.

Officials added that, while the event highlights our local military heroes, it also honors those military heroes who never returned home. A special POW-MIA remembrance table will be set up so loved ones may leave a memento of military personnel who were left missing in action.

The Veterans Day ceremony is memorable for military veterans, but it also serves as a celebration for honorees' family members and friends.

"Families are really appreciative because they're so proud of their family member," added Ruizesparza. "It's about highlighting these special individuals in our community, and basically giving them thanks for protecting our community and protecting us and putting their life at risk for

"It's a proud feeling that they're from Baldwin Park."

To include additional Baldwin Park veterans in the local Veterans Day ceremony, or for more information about the November 11 event, contact Ruizesparza at (626) 813-5245, Ext. 268, or eher at yruizesparza@baldwinpark.com as soon

VA Brings Mental Health Support Closer To Home For Rural Veterans

When Jesse* moved back to North Carolina after serving in the Vietnam War, he grew out his hair and pretended to be a war protester.

"I didn't want to say I was a Marine," he said.

He struggled with depression and feelings of shame. Later, nightmares got worse and other signs of post-traumatic stress disorder affected his marriage.

One in five Americans face mental health challenges, according to the National Alliance on Mental Illness. Because of stigma, many people—especially veterans—who need mental health support remain hesitant to talk openly about it. Only about half of those who are affected receive treatment.

"I felt like an outsider," Jesse said. "People couldn't understand me, and I couldn't open up to them. I kept everybody at arm's length."

Only years later did Jesse seek help for the mental health issues that resulted from his military service.

Although the majority of America's 22 million veterans do not have a mental health issue, the number of veterans receiving mental health treatment from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) was 1.6 million in 2015. Many of those veterans live in small communities, far from mental health specialists.

To serve the growing need, VA is expanding access to mental health services, especially in rural areas where fewer clinicians practice. VA increased resources and staffing, allocating more than $24 million from VA's Office of Rural Health toward innovative mental health programs for rural areas this year. VA leaders say these programs will provide increased access for veterans like Jesse.

"Long travel times, harsh weather, stigma associated with seeking services and provider shortages all make it more difficult for rural veterans to get mental health support," Gina Capra, director of the VA Office of Rural Health, said. "VA is coming at these barriers from all sides to support rural veterans in accessing the services they earned and deserve."

The targeted funding will grow telehealth programs that bring mental health care closer to home for rural veterans. Telehealth uses secure phone and video technology to link a provider with a veteran, who might be hundreds of miles away at a small local clinic or even in his or her own home. It allows for the same quality of care, without the burden sometimes associated with

The National Telemental Health Center and VA's Telemental Health Hubs make therapy more accessible using telehealth to connect with medical specialists who are trained and experienced in supporting veterans with their unique mental health needs.

In addition to telehealth, VA also supports rural community programs that raise awareness of veterans' mental health needs and how to refer veterans and their families to the VA for services and support.

Chaplain Keith Ethridge leads the VA Rural Clergy Training Program, which educates local religious leaders in rural communities on how to recognize signs and symptoms of mental health issues among veteran parishioners and their

"The clergy is a trusted source for counsel and often the first-line contact in small, rural communities. The confidentiality it provides is important to veterans, especially when discussing mental health issues,"

Ethridge said. Veterans can also engage directly with resources online. VetsPrevail.org combines social media and expert mental health support for veterans. Make the Connection—VA's national mental health awareness campaign—features personal stories of recovery from veterans. Veterans and their loved ones

MakeTheConnection.net to locate resources and hear from hundreds of other veterans who experienced similar challenges.

"The MakeTheConnection.net website features hundreds of other inspiring stories of veteran and family member resilience in dealing with and overcoming mental health and other life challenges," Dr. Wendy Tenhula, VA's deputy chief consultant for specialty mental health, said.

It is All About the Supreme Court | Finally--- Relief!

By Lois M. Shade Former Mayor of Glendora

First question to ask yourself when you vote for President this time around - Who do you want to select the Supreme Court Justice to replace Antonin Scalia? And, given the age of several others, perhaps replacements for some of them also. The Supreme Court, the final authority when it comes to interpreting the U.S. Constitution, our law of the land that makes the United States of America the great country that it is today, will be reflected by the appointment of the next President.

We've been through all the ridiculousness of 11 or 12, maybe more, (I forgot to count) women who after how many years, all of sudden remembered they've been offended in one form or another by Presidential candidate, Donald Trump. And, a first lady, horror-stricken by these women and their unsubstantiated pronouncements but can't remember Hillary Clinton, the candidate she's supporting, had a husband who lied about his affair with a 22-year old in the White House and was impeached.

Anyone besides me believe that all that all those women against Trump was bunk and was deliberately set up to distract from the real issues? We have an establishment in Washington, D.C. of which Hillary Clinton is a major player who has done nothing about the uncontrolled violence that has swept this nation targeting our police officers, and with random shootings occurring on a regular basis. Just turn the TV on early morning to listen to and view the list of vic-

We got into the immigration issue on occasion, but no real plan from Hillary only campaign ads mocking the wall Donald Trump proposes to secure that border and this country from the flow of illegals, some of which are law offenders, and drugs. President Ronald Reagan believed, "A nation without borders is not a nation," and both Donald Trump and I agree. And, the rumor I'm hearing and correct me if I'm wrong, Tom Steyor, the lead on many of the campaign ads being run now is planning on running for governor next election when Brown leaves. Watch the ads and he's pretty much established his platform if he does run.

We didn't talk about the middle-east crisis, the economy, job growth, Obamacare and the 13% to 20% purported increase in costs for medical insurance. Bill Clinton did make some derogatory remarks about the health care programs functionality, but that went away quickly. But that does raise another question in the back of the minds of some --- Is a vote for Hillary Clinton a vote for Bill Clinton's 3rd term as President?

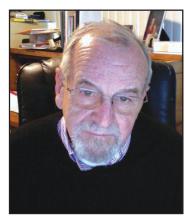

Voters will certainly have some hard decisions to make this time around. Seventeen ballot initiatives, a host of candidates for other offices and the big one ... Donald Trump or Hillary Clinton for President.

Remember when you step into that ballot box or go stand in lines for early voting, your vote will have a huge, huge impact this time around. You will be casting the vote for a President, not only to run this country, but who will appoint the next Supreme Court Justice and perhaps more than one, who will define how we interpret the law of this land ... the Constitution of the United States of America.

It happened during the middle ages---mine, not Europe's. I had developed a very distressed gallbladder. I realize my discomfort level was nowhere near the agony of childbirth, but for me the hours of the level ten pain were bad enough. There was nothing I could take that would relieve the discomfort, no posture I could assume, no way out of the agony. I just had to wait it out, and then, five or six hours after the onslaught had begun, the pain would ease and I would again become a full human being. While I cannot now relive the level of discomfort I experienced, I can remember how marvelous it felt it when finally the spasms that had immobilized me faded. "Oh" what blessed relief!

These days not an hour goes by when I do not hear from friends, colleagues or even complete strangers how painful these last months have been. Political campaigns usually have been exciting tension-filled times, but this one has been different. It was more than the sheer nastiness of the charges and counter-charges, but an overriding sense that something had poisoned the American dream.

Donald Trump had introduced a virus into the American psyche. Never have we had to witness such a display of bitterness and invective. Not only had he fouled his own political nest, but he had also poisoned the dreams of millions of disillusioned citizens who believe that Hillary is so deeply flawed she cannot be trusted, but who decided to vote for her anyhow. I never fell for that line and do not believe it even now. But that suspicion has drained the nectar out of the fruit of electoral politics and left us with a dry bitter pulp.

This campaign has gone on far too long. There ought to have been a way to responsibly limit the months of invective we have lived through. The pain has been terrible, but now we realize that in less than a week blessed relief will be on the way.

Even though the crisis will soon pass, the seed planted in the body politic by the emergence of the tea party remains in the background. This seed has been fertilized and watered by the right wing of the Republican Party through the idiocy of Donald Trump, not realizing that neither he nor the Party could survive the poisonous results. America has been left with the Republicans in shambles, a cloud over the Presidency and the nation's future uncertain.

For now we will try to focus on how Hillary puts her administration together as America plans for the celebration that accompanies the inauguration of a president. At this writing, while the Senate may be friendly, the House may still be controlled by enough angry antagonists that the nation may have a difficult time as a new leadership seeks to move us ahead.

But the pain is easing off, even if the debilities it produced remain. ISIS thrives in the wake of a series of Middle East wars we never should have fought, the economy staggers along, racism has again reared its ugly head, the devastating results of climate change grow more ominous every year, a major political party has been disassembled, and I grow older without becoming wiser.

Are Our Cities Being Victimized by Legalized Extortion?

By George Ogden

A number of California Cities, including a number in the San Gabriel Valley are being sued alleging the city's election method violates the California Voting Rights Act by diluting Latino Really? Let's take West Covina for example. They are being sued by a number of attorneys who have conspired together to go after cities. They Lawyers identified in the scheme are: Laura Ho (SBN 173179) Morris Baller (SBN 48928), Counsel GOLDSTEIN BORGEN DARDARIAN & HO. Kevin L Shenkman (SBN 223315) Mary R. Hughes (SBN 222622) SHENKMAN & HUGHES. R. Rex Parris (SBN 96567) Jonathan Douglass (SBN 289300) REX PARRIS LAW FIRM. Milton Grimes (SBN 59437) LAW OFFICES OF MILTON C. GRIMES. Robert Rubin (SUN 85084) LAW OF-FICE of ROBERT RUBIN. (The SBN is the State Bar Number assigned to attorneys.) They will represent three West Covina citizens: Armando Sanchez, Alfred Williams; and Juan Reinoso.

The lawsuit filed can cost cities millions and will cost the City of West Covina possibly millions as well. It doesn't matter if the city wins or loses; the plaintiffs get paid by West Covina even after they win their case in court.

One of the attorneys, Robert Rubin helped write the law, which appeared to use language that allows for this type of action to be filed and get paid by the cities win or lose. They simply send out a letter of demand and the city automatically seems to be liable. The lawsuit challenges the city's at-large election system dilutes the Hispanic vote. They want the cities to do districting, example, cutting the city into 4 or 5 districts with one council representative from each district on the council. This would take away the voting rights of the citizens to choose all their councilmembers and just vote on one. In my opinion, this is taxation without representation. The other four councilmembers get to spend our tax money and we have no say so in the matter.

This appears that this is clearly extortion by these plaintiffs and attorneys. The people already voted "not to do districting" by a 2-1 vote. With what appears to be a loophole in the law, it allows these attorneys and these plaintiffs to sue, knowing that they will get rich no matter if they win or lose. They work for a settlement knowing the cities are handcuffed and it would cost them more if they fought the lawsuit. What is horribly sad, the judges have supported these attorneys and given big settlements. I wonder why... oh yeah, most of these judges are attorneys themselves. This clearly seems like legalized blackmail and extortion of the cities and to get the people's tax money.

At a recent city council meeting, staff presented 35 cities and 9 school districts that had to pay out over $12 million collectively. Some cities paid millions. It appears some cities paid huge amounts even when they basically won the case or settled.

People at the council meeting called for a criminal investigation and it appears that they are exempt and immune from criminal prosecution for what clearly seems like criminal conspiracy and criminal extortion. Some may move to have the DA's office or the Attorney General's office take a look at this issue. The process also seems like a criminal federal issue as there may be a civil rights violation concerning the right to vote and that being removed.

What is confusing, about 57% of the people are Hispanic and they voted "not" to do districting. The Hispanic community voted not to do this. The lawyers claim that only 9% of the people voted on this and is not representative of the people. Well who in the hell's fault is this? They choose NOT to vote, that is their choice. But for those who did vote, this means their vote means absolutely nothing. It doesn't count. This is our government in action. How do you like it?

People gave their lives to have the freedom to vote and this is being taken away by people like

There were harsh words tossed out at the Williams, Reinoso and Sanchez as well at their attorneys. At one point, one person can't wait until they all die and hopes he is around when this happens.

Alfred William a community activist and Juan Reinoso who is president of Urban Graffiti who didn't win the contract with the city, so, many think this is one way he can get even with city and citizens for not contracting with These lawsuits seem to be a copy and they paste new city names into the paperwork to sue. The language all seems the same.

A lot of residents are extremely angered at the plaintiffs and the attorneys for legally taking money from the city with this scheme. It will cost the city a number of police officers and firefighters because of this ac-

Personally, I see people so pissed off that I fear for the safety of the plaintiffs, their families as well as those attorneys. There are enough "whack jobs" out there that they may want to take care of business their own way. They chose to lead themselves and families into this situation and I can't help but feel that this is on them if something

"That's Just the Way It Is!"

Who Needs a College Education? You Do.

As California and the nation continue to recover from what has been called the worst recession since the Great Depression, there is good news on the employment front. Businesses are hiring, unemployment rates are going down and the job market is improving for everyone - right?

Not necessarily. You might be surprised to know that of the 11 million plus jobs created since the Great Recession, more than eight million went to those with at least a bachelor's degree, according to a 2016 report published by Georgetown University. In addition, another three million new jobs went to individuals who had associate degrees or at least some college.

Today, an associate degree or better is required for nearly twothirds of all jobs in the country. Numerous studies show the economy needs college educated workers to grow. Jobs, especially high-paying jobs, are going to those with college credentials. The U.S. Department of Labor's most recent data show a direct correlation between educational attainment, salary levels and employment versus unemployment.

Acquiring enough education to land a "good job" - which is defined in the Georgetown report as one that pays $53,000 or more - does not necessarily mean earning a bachelor's or associate degree. Middle-skill jobs, those that require more than a high school diploma but less than a four-year degree, currently make up the largest segment of jobs in the U.S. economy.

What are the trends driving change in the workplace of the 21st Century? Several of the fastest-growing jobs in the state didn't exist 10 years ago. Opportunities for jobs such as mobile applications developer, social media manager or data science analyst are growing rapidly. They also pay well. Projections for California in the next 10 years reflect thousands of job openings in occupations like health informatics and home health care; mobile development and user interface design; and data mining and virtualization. Baby boomers are beginning to retire in record numbers from middleskill jobs, which also adds to the demand for workers with a college education.

Initiatives to address the need for college-educated workers have increasingly focused on community colleges. Community colleges are uniquely positioned to provide postsecondary education or training requirements, whether it is by providing skill awards, vocational certificates, or associate degrees - or by transferring students to fouryear colleges and universities to complete a bachelor's degree.

This past year, Citrus College ranked number one out of all community colleges in California for the number of students who completed their career technical education (CTE) goals. One reason is the college's wide variety of outstanding CTE programs, which includes 17 associate degrees, 31 certificates and 17 skill awards. This is good news for those in our community who are contemplating career options that lead to financial security and personal satisfaction.

Demand for workers who are trained for middle-skill jobs will remain strong for the foreseeable future. Historically, our state has been a global leader in entrepreneurial innovation, and California's jobs of the future will offer great opportunities for those who are trained and ready. Make sure you have the skills you need for the career of your dreams.

Will Our Political Circus Impact This Market?

The market volatility on Wall Street appears to be affected by the sparing of the two disliked candidates. The S&P 500 fell 1%recently and -1.63% for the first half of October, probably due in part to this dismal political scene. The S&P is up only 1.2% in the past 15 months, as investors may be distracted by this political circus. The Presidential debates have been an outlandish mix of Entertainment Tonight and Ultimate Fighting. Like most of America, we are simultaneously in shock and maybe even entertained by this Presidential election cycle.

We're seeing that when Donald Trump seems backed into a corner he will come out fighting and will not hold back. Like a good boxer, Trump seems to lure the media into beating him up; and then, when he has been on the ropes, he counter-punches viciously. Trump seems to be running against a biased news media - as well as the Washington establishment, including many in his own party!

Like much of America, Wall Street does not think that the Presidential election can get over soon enough, so we can finally move on. But there may be ongoing disruptions after the election. The Electoral College process favors Hillary Clinton, but she needs a big winning margin to minimize ongoing corruption allegations. Trump might benefit from a strong turnout from his passionate anti-establishment base. Many on Wall Street fear that Hillary Clinton will win the Electoral College by just a few votes, causing recounts in one or two states. Many would not be surprised if Trump tries to contest those states and declare that the process is "rigged," causing the political circus to continue well after Election Day.

This political circus may fade into the background if Hillary or Donald emerge as a clear winner. But if a recount is required, any prolonged vote count will promote even more uncertainty.

Like the political world, the stock market sometimes lives in a fantasy world. The analyst community is almost always too optimistic before a Presidential election, so expect wave after wave of analyst earnings estimate cuts in the New Year. In the meantime, third-quarter earnings for the S&P 500 are expected to decline by -0.7%, which would be the sixth quarter in a row of negative earnings. However, when energy and financials are excluded, the earnings environment is positive and gradually improving, thanks in large part to more favorable year-over-year comparisons from the negative growth rates in late 2015.

EMPLOYMENT GROWTH IS THE HEART OF FED INCONSISTENCY

All year, Federal Open Market Committee participants have insisted US economic data supports a rate hike. According to the FOMC: GDP growth is fine; inflation - while too low now - will soon rise to 2% because job growth is excessive. In other words, forget about whether the Fed can raise rates. The Fed must raise rates as long as job growth exceeds potential.

But what is potential job growth? According to the Fed, it is much lower than the prevailing rate, which raises a question: If the US really is close to full employment, how can the FOMC continue to drag its feet on tightening?

THE FOMC'S JOBS SPEED LIMIT

Stop for a moment and consider how far apart the financial market concept of "strong" and "weak" employment growth is compared to the Fed's thinking on the subject. Start with San Francisco's John Williams, who has spent a considerable number of words on the subject in recent years. The last time, two weeks ago in fact, he explained the Fed has stated it must justify raising rates because "the current pace of job gains is well above what we need, which I put to be somewhere around 80,000 a month."

If Williams is right, Wall Street must recalibrate. If the Fed is targeting payroll growth of only 80k a month, it's time to stop thinking of 150k as disappointing and under 100k as alarming. And yet, the Fed behaves as if payroll increases of less than 100k are very weak. The FOMC has backed off from raising rates on multiple occasions in prior years when job growth slowed to a pace Williams says is still too

Thankfully, both population growth and labor force participation have improved beyond the Chicago Fed assumptions - mostly because they used annual data, which hides the recent trend, but also because they used a simple polynomial trend which completely misses the participation rise late in every single business cycle. That's a huge mistake, because the only time there's any reason to worry about the pace of job growth is late in the cycle when the economy is near full employment. A higher participation rate allows for faster job growth.

Bottom Line: Start Making

FOMC members are fooling no one but themselves. If their longer-run forecasts were still in the mists of the future, it wouldn't matter. But now the FOMC is actually forecasting a tightening process they say will lift the fed funds rate to 3% in the next two years! That 3% forecast is shredding their credibili-

And the FOMC's position on employment growth is an even more immediate credibility challenge. Does the Fed really intend to target job growth of less than 100k per month? If it does, why are rate hikes ruled out when employment growth slows to less than 150k? If it doesn't, why do FOMC participants including Chair Yellen keep citing a jobs speed limit of 80-100k?

The Fed's credibility is important, not just because a credible central bank can jawbone the markets (an essential tool given the increasingly limited power of rate cuts and QE) but also because a credible Fed may be better insulated against political Chair Yellen seems to understand the importance of credibility, but she claims any divergence between what FOMC members say and what they do can be explained by the "data dependence" clause in every FOMC statement and pronouncement. The inconsistency between what they say about job growth and what they do about it suggests data dependency is not the issue, however. Rather, it suggests the Fed doubts what it says about the data as much as the rest of us. Or, has Fed commentary, limited actions as well as inaction been driven by politics supporting establishment control?

We have a family-run business. What do you suggest as the most practical and cost-effective way for us to divide up our family business?

You might want to talk to a qualified legal or tax advisor about a Family Limited Partnership. This is an agreement between family members who are actively involved in a trade or business. The family's objectives could be set up in the partnership to divide rights to income, appreciation, and control. You could set up transferring the limited partnership interests in increments over time, resulting in a gradual, systematic transfer of ownership. These transfers to your children can be excluded from your estate, resulting in estate tax savings later. Using the method of incrementally transferring interests in your family business could be set up to take maximum advantage of around $13,000 annual gift tax exclusion. I highly recommend that you also look into cross-insuring (via life insurance policies) each family member.

I'm a top-producing Realtor. How do I start a retirement

You probably have a couple of options, but it depends on what is most suitable for you with your individual circumstances and qualifications. There are retirement plans that understand the fact that independent contractors have variable income. These plans allow intermittent investing and/or payments. If you also need life insurance, there are policies which have living benefits which can be used for any reason, including retirement income.

I own a restaurant and have a wonderful chef who I don't want to lose. Is there a cost-effective financial benefit I could offer him?

You could set up an Executive Bonus plan by using a fixed-indexed universal life insurance policy. The premiums could be a tax deduction for your company, and the policy could not only offer a death benefit, but also offer benefits during the lifetime of the insured.

My checking, savings, CDs, an IRA, and an annuity at my bank are FDIC insured, right?

No. Too often folks trust their bank, and banker - period. Your money could be safe, but you cannot be sure without fully understanding where your money is truly invested, the strength of those sub-companies, and whether or not your money is protected either due to FDIC insurance or other guarantees. If your checking account, savings account, and CDs are within the established limits, they are FDIC insured. Chances are high that your IRA and annuity are not FDIC insured. Often obscure, a standard bank disclaimer statement typically reads: Investment products offered through ABC Bank Investment Services, annuities offered through ABC Bank and its subsidiaries, and insurance products offered through ABC Bank Insurance Services are not FDIC insured, are not bank guaranteed, may lose value, are not deposits, are not insured by any federal government agency, are not a condition to any banking service or activity. Your IRA is usually invested in the stock market, which means it could lose value. Regarding your annuity, I would advise you to find out what insurance company it's with, and do some due-diligence on that company's strength. While you're at it, review your beneficiaries. And, remember, if you have a safety deposit box, the contents are neither FDIC insured, nor bank insured, and can be difficult

The Basics Of A Healthy Car

Cars are built better than ever these days and give us miles of service. Keeping them healthy is important and extends their life.

- Oil is their lifeblood. Dirty oil makes it harder for your engine to turn over and causes premature engine wear.
- Belts and hoses are made of very durable material with relatively long lives but they do deteriorate over time. We recommend an eight to ten-year replacement cycle.
- Leaks are not normal except for condensation from your air conditioner. 11 different fluids keep your car running; brake fluid, antifreeze, engine oil, power steering fluid, air conditioner refrigerant, shock absorber fluid, battery electrolyte, windshield washer solvent, rear axle or CV boot lubricant and fuel. If any of these leak, they need to be fixed right away.

• Tires need to be kept properly inflated to save gas and tire wear and rotated every six months.

• Coolant, when neglected can corrode and leave sediment throughout your cooling system causing clogging that results in damaging hot spots that can harm your engine. Flushing every two years is recommended.

• The battery needs to have the cables securely attached and free of corrosion in order to get power to the starter and accessories so the alternator receives a charge.

Keeping your car healthy means getting it serviced regularly. Remember, we are a full-service preventive maintenance and auto repair center. We work on all makes and models, import and domestic!

the 300 tickets to this year's Designer Bag Bingo event, planned for Saturday, November 5, have been sold according to the chairs of the Kiwaniannes sponsored event, Pam Richards and Janna

Noted Former Player To Coach Duarte Basketball

DUARTE - Basketball has taken Jelani Gardner all over the world and now he's ready to share a few of the lessons he's learned with the boys basketball team at Duarte High School.

It's a perfect match for both Gardner and the Falcons as he brings a lifetime love affair with basketball to a campus that has struggled to field a successful team in that sport in recent years.

"We are very fortunate to be bringing on a coach who has had a lifetime of success in the sport and who believes in the power of positive coaching," said James Heggins, Dean of Athletics at Duarte. "He gives our basketball players an outstanding role model with a great work ethic."

Gardner's basketball highlights film began in high school at St. John Bosco in Bellflower, and included being named the 1994 CIF and California State High School Player of the Year, honors on the USA Today and McDonald's All American teams, as well as successful playing time at the University of California and Pepperdine.

Basketball has also taken him to Israel, Germany, Australia, France and Russia, over a 12-year international playing career before he started his coaching career in 2012-23 at La Salle High

School in Pasadena. He has since coached with the JAG club teams, as well last year at Bristol University in Orange County.

"I'm so grateful to the people at Duarte," said Gardner. "I'm fortunate to be coming to a school where the athletic director (Heggins) and the principal (Mark Sims) both have a history of success in sports and know what it takes to compete. This is a community that appreciates what sports can do for its young people."

Gardner succeeds Earl Sanchez, who resigned after leading the Falcons to a 4-22 record in his one season. Duarte has had just one winning record in the last 10 years (13-12 in 2005-06) and the boys basketball team has struggled to keep up with the girls program, which went to the CIF Finals last year.

"I'm smiling when you mention that (the record)," said Gardner. "I believe anything is possible, and my faith is strong. I believe we have what it takes to turn the Duarte Falcons into a winning program. I've gotten winning vibes and feel very positive about the things I have seen in this community. Duarte is willing to embrace me and I'm excited about starting with a blank canvas. The players and I have a chance to paint a bright picture from scratch."

If nothing else, Gardner is a positive man. While still in college, he needed a kidney transplant (from his mother) and that short-circuited his plans to advance to the National Basketball Association, Instead, he opted to play internationally, and 12 years later, believes it was the best possible experience for him.

"You can come out of college with some knowledge about Europe or the rest of the world, but that's nothing compared to what you will gain from living and competing there," he said. "I've lived in Siberia in Russia, in a town near Tel Aviv in Israel, in Hamburg in Germany and in Townsville, Australia. I've played in France and my wife is from France and my kids were born there."

But Gardner sees those experiences as chapters in the book leading up to the latest plot development, which has him perfecting his skills as a coach.

"Our goal as a group is to focus on accountability and to play for each other, for our parents, for the school and for the community," he said. "These young men will learn they are playing for the name on the front of their shirt, not the name on the back. Basketball teaches a lot of life's lessons. It's not a perfect game. You learn discipline, punctuality, selflessness, sportsmanship; and you learn that the winning team is usually the one that makes the fewest mistakes."

Gardner said he thinks often of something his father, Tommy, has reminded him about his new role: "It's about teaching, not coaching."

After a lifetime learning lessons from basketball, and seeing the world, Jelani Gardner is ready to teach those lessons to the Duarte Falcons. Check the Duarte High School website at dhsfalcons.org for game sched-

Technician Shares Five Tips To Get Your Ride Holiday-Ready

This year, AAA predicts nearly 42 million Americans will travel more than 50 miles by car to visit family during the Thanksgiving holiday, and many will make similar journeys in December.

When you're juggling road trips, holiday shopping and other seasonal activities, the last thing you want to worry about is your car.

John Latner, an ASE-certified master technician and technical training manager for ACDelco, shares five tips to ensure your car is ready for your holiday travel.

Batteries: The increasing number of electrical systems in today's vehicles can tax your battery even in perfect weather conditions. Do a quick visual inspection to make sure your battery is securely mounted and the connections are clean, tight and corrosion-free. If your battery is more than three years old, it's a good idea to have it

Brakes: Properly functioning brakes are one of the most important safety systems on your vehicle, and stop-and-go traffic can put a lot of wear and tear on your calipers, pads and rotors. Latner recommends inspection by an ASE-certified technician at your dealer or independently owned facility at least yearly.

Coolant/Antifreeze/Wiper Blade Fluids: This is important all year, but especially so before particularly warm or cold seasonal driving conditions. Keep your washer fluid reservoir filled with the variety recommended in your owner's manual.

Check the coolant level in your coolant reservoir (never open your radiator cap if your engine was recently running), and add a 50/50 mixture of the antifreeze recommended in your owner's manual and distilled water if it needs to be topped off. If you notice consistent coolant loss, have your system tested for leaks by a technician.

Oil: Following the oil and filter change schedule for your vehicle can help you avoid costly engine issues. Most modern vehicles have oil life monitoring systems that "tell" you when a change is needed; for older vehicles, the typical factory-recommended oil change interval is 3,000 to 5,000 miles. Manually check your oil level per the instructions in your owner's manual and watch for leaks under the vehicle that could signal a more serious problem.

Windshield Wipers: Latner recommends customers replace their wiper blades every six months or sooner if they notice increased streaking or damage to the blades. This is particularly important if you travel in snow, sleet or ice.

For additional car care tips, finding a local service center near you or to browse maintenance products for your vehicle, visit www.ACDelco.com. (NAPSI)

ORDINANCE 2009

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDORA, CALIFORNIA, AMENDING THE GLENDORA COMMERCIAL SPECIFIC PLAN (GLENDORA MUNICIPAL CODE CHAPTER 21.08) FOR THE GLENDORA MARKETPLACE LIMITING THE MAXIMUM NUMBER OF RETAIL USES IN BUILDINGS LESS THAN 35,000 S.F. TO TWO (2) (pln16-0056).

THE CITY COUNCIL City of Glendora, California

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDORA DOES HEREBY ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

WHEREAS, at the Glendora Municipal Election held on March 7, 2000, majority of the voters approved "Measure D", an initiative adopting the Glendora Commercial Specific Plan (Glendora Municipal Code Chapter 21.08) to allow construction of 475,000 square feet on +/- 50 acres for the development of an "integrated retail-shopping complex";

WHEREAS, certain development standards included in Measure D limited the number and allowable square footage of drive-through uses within the development to 10.000 square feet:

WHEREAS, at the Glendora Municipal Election held on March 3, 2009 a majority of the voters approved "Measure C", an initiative to amend the Glendora Commercial Specific Plan (Glendora Municipal Code Chapter 21.08) to allow additional retail uses in Planning Area B and to increase the allowable building area in the Glendora Commercial Specific Plan from 475,000 square feet to 544,000 square feet;

WHEREAS, on October 11, 2011, the City Council of the City of Glendora approved an amendment to the Glendora Commercial Specific Plan (Glendora Municipal Code Chapter 21.08) increasing the number and size of drive-through uses;

WHEREAS, the Planning Commission of the City of Glendora held a public hearing and voted to recommend approval of the Zoning Code text amendment on September 6, 2016 after due notice was given as required by law, at which time oral and documentary evidence was introduced along with the written recommendation of the Planning Director; and

WHEREAS, a public hearing was held by the City Council on October 11, 2016, after due notice was given as required by law, at which time oral and documentary evidence was introduced along with the written recommendation of the Planning Commission and Planning Director of the City of Glendora.

The Advantages Of Offering Health Benefits To Small-Business Employees

Despite media hoopla about the Affordable Care Act's (ACA's) regulatory and compliance burdens, the advantages of offering employer-sponsored health benefits to America's 60 million-plus small-business workers and their families have never been stronger or more im-

After salary, health care benefits remain one of the most powerful tools for attracting and retaining employees. A 2016 Harris Poll survey commissioned by jobs and recruiting site Glassdoor hammers home this point. It found that workers rank health insurance—including medical, dental, vision and so forth—as the number one wanted benefit. Others, such as vacation time, retirement plans or even bonus programs, typically rate much lower.

For the nation's approximately 27 million small businesses, however, providing employersponsored health plans is often easier said than done. It typically comes down to a key question: Does the advantage of offering health benefits outweigh the costs?

In today's highly competitive job market, many experts continue to say yes. "Going without benefits may boost your bottom line in the short run, [but] the penny-wise philosophy could strangle your business' chances for long-term prosperity," says Entrepreneur magazine.

Beyond recruitment and retention, small business-sponsored plans provide a number of other advantages. They typically offer workers more choice and options to affordably mix and match benefits packages. Another is the ability to use pretax dollars to help offset plan costs.

Good health care benefits are among the best ways to attract and retain good workers.

Other pluses include access to options such as Flexible Spending Accounts, or FSAs, that enable employees to save money to pay for certain out-of-pocket health care costs. FSAs are only available through companies and—in many instances—are subsidized with employer contributions. Chiropractic, acupuncture and other so-called ancillary services, which are hard to get through individual policies, are also more readily available in small-group plans.

So how do small businesses deliver these benefits yet manage the costs, all while navigating a complex industry immersed in an era of health care reform? And how do employees take best advantage of offered benefits?

"Start with a good broker or benefit adviser," recommends Ron Goldstein, president and CEO of CHOICE Administrators, the nation's leader in developing and administering employeechoice health benefit programs employers, CaliforniaChoice, the country's first multicarrier private exchange specifically for small business.

"They are experts who will help employers navigate their options and ACA requirements and they'll provide employees with hands-on help to design and select plans that work best for their needs."

Goldstein added that teaming with a professional is more important than ever for small employers to help traverse the vast—and often confusing—variety and array of group benefit plans. They also help routinely serve as the de facto human resources, personnel and/or payroll departments as many smaller firms have fewer staff and resources to research, manage and administer plans.

Offering health benefits continues to be one of the strongest incentives for attracting and retaining the best workers. Cost pressures and compliance requirements must be addressed, but the smartest small businesses will recognize that choices and options are available to provide their workers with the benefits they want most.

Majority Of U.S. Adults Say The Convenience Of Public Wi-Fi Outweighs The Risk Of Cyberthreats At the end of 2013, SAP Software Solutions reported that there were more mobile devices on Earth than people. That's a staggering statistic, especially when you take into account the large number of cyberattacks that happen every day. The world is more connected than ever and people are constantly using smartphones and other interconnected devices to find their news, use social media or stay in touch. There are numerous benefits of interconnectedness, but with it also comes cyberthreats people should be aware of.

In 2004, the U.S. Department of Homeland Security designated October as National Cybersecurity Awareness Month to raise awareness of cybersecurity issues. FBI findings suggest that millions of cyberattacks happen each day. Utah alone reported 20 million attempts per day last year. Connection to public Wi-Fi networks could be partially to blame. Many of the features that make public Wi-Fi so appealing, like free and easy internet access without using data, are also attractive to hackers looking to steal personal information.

A recent survey of 2,235 U.S. adults conducted by the University of Phoenix suggests that the majority of people use public networks despite the risks. A quarter of adults say they almost always use unsecure networks when away from home and more than half (52 percent) say the convenience of using public Wi-Fi outweighs the risk.

"People need to understand that everything you put online can be exposed when the network you're using isn't secure," says Dan Konzen, University of Phoenix College of Information Systems & Technology campus chair. "Bank credentials, passwords and other personal information can be stolen when you use networks that are open to anyone."

The same survey suggests that people are unaware of the dangers of public Wi-Fi or simply don't care. Sixty-one percent of adults use unsecure networks every day, but 60 percent say they don't trust public Wi-Fi to keep

"What we post and do online is like a tattoo. It never goes away," Konzen says. "We can't always use secure networks, especially when we're away from home, so people should be smart about the types of information they're sharing when on public networks."

If you have to use public networks, Konzen suggests using virtual private networks (VPNs), web proxies, and anonymous browsers, like Tor; confirm a network is safe before joining and make sure to limit the amount of personal information shared online. Using strong passwords, keeping software up to date, and using wireless hot spots, if available, are other ways to stay secure, he says.

University of Phoenix College of Information Systems & Technology prepares cyberprofessionals to combat increasing cybercrimes. The University offers associate, bachelor's and master's degrees that teach the risk management and information assurance skills vital to an organization's success.

Delegation Of Chinese Educators Visits Haynes Family of Programs in La Verne

Delegation Of Chinese Educators At Haynes

LA VERNE - Fifteen administrators and special education teachers of the Nanjing Municipal Education Bureau in Nanjing City, China, visited with their educational counterparts at the Haynes Family of Programs in La Verne recently to tour the campus and learn how the local facility works with special education students. The group selected Haynes for a visit after researching special education schools and centers in the Southern California area, and said Haynes "stands out because of your long history, your expertise, your targeted and diversified programs (and) how you work closely with families and community." Haynes Education Center Director Amy DeLoera said questions from the group primarily focused on specialized education for autism, how the school provides individualized attention, the schools program and goals and how teachers are credentialed. Speaking through an interpreter, Linguo Yang, Deputy Director of the Nanjing Municipal Education Bureau, said he was impressed by the school's teaching quality. "I think the education in this school is more individualized and is much more effective and more professional" than his own program. "We need to learn from you in many, many ways," he added. "We have to make progress." Pictured, from left, are Haynes President and CEO Dan Maydeck, Haynes Director of Mental Health Tisha Langley, school directors Amy Deloera and CC Schumm and members of the delegation from China.

The Haynes Family of Programs provides specialized treatment and educational services to children with special needs relating to emotional development, autism, Asperger's Disorder, learning disabilities, neglect and abandonment. The group home facility has grown from its initial 10 residents to six cottages, each housing 12 children. Mental health treatment services are provided to every resident. The Haynes Education Center, a nonpublic school founded in 1989 as a companion to the group home facility, initially provided schooling to the children of what was formerly LeRoy Boys Home. It has grown to serve not only the children who live on campus but the community as a whole, accepting children (boys and girls) from 14 school districts throughout Southern California.

Credentialed teachers working in a highly structured environment address curriculum as well as learning disabilities including autism, emotional challenges and developmental disabilities. The entire facility last year served more than 1,200 clients (800 youth and more than 400 family members or caregivers).

GLENDORA - The Mesa Glen Care Center had their annual Candlelight Dinner for Halloween on October 26th. Relatives and friends visited with residents, who were treated to a special dinner, served by the staff of Mesa Glen Care Center. The music of Frank Sinatra and others of that genre, was provided by Tony Millot, who is their favorite Disc Jockey. Tony is a singing DJ.

Mesa Glen Care Center is a 96

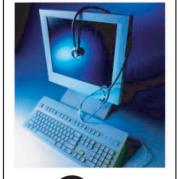

bed skilled nursing facility. They provide individualized attention to residents who require a short term stay to recuperate from traumatizing or acute medical conditions and also those who are in need of a long term or an unknown length of stay.

The facilities favorite activities occur on Mother's Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas Eve. On these holidays the resident's families join their loved ones for a wonderful luncheon prepared by the dietary staff. They also have a great 4th of July party. Once a month they have a party celebrating a special theme or occasion. This includes 50's sock hop with Elvis or a casino night. They also enjoy celebrating the resident's birthdays with tea parties and chocolate parties.
