Students Bring Flowers, Pennies to Celebrate Margaret Heath Day

Heath Elementary students continue tradition honoring the longtime Baldwin Park Unified teacher and administrator

BALDWIN PARK - Margaret Heath Elementary students honored their school's namesake by bringing bouquets of flowers and bags of pennies to campus on Oct. 7, celebrating Margaret Heath Day with a special ceremony.

Heath students presented the pennies, donations from their families and neighbors, to fund a scholarship named in Heath's honor. Margaret Heath was a longtime educator, administrator and volunteer for Baldwin Park Unified School District who suggested the scholarship in 1945, on her 85th birthday.

The Heath Scholarship is granted every year to Heath alumni to help pay for their college education.

"This is a special day in our history," Heath Principal Maria Alonso said. "In their small way, our students are contributing to a college-going culture, exhibiting social behavior that brings together our community and will provide great benefits for them throughout their school life."

Two $500 scholarships were awarded to 2016 Baldwin Park High School grads Alexis

After the presentation of the scholarships, Heath students donated dozens of bags of pennies, which were wrapped in the school colors. The money will fund next year's scholarships.

Heath teachers distributed flags and led the students in singing "God Bless America." Students then recited the Heath Husky creed and gave shoutouts to Cal State LA and Cal Poly Pomona.

"This is a wonderful way to embrace our history," BPUSD Superintendent Froilan N. Mendoza said. "We are very thankful for our community and our kids. They learn the rewards of doing good work and establish goals for their fu-

New ROEM $27 Million Transit-Oriented, Sustainable Apartments Celebrate Grand Opening in Baldwin Park

BALDWIN PARK – On portation near the place they call Thursday, October 13, 2016, the City of Baldwin Park and ROEM Corporation celebrated the grand opening of Metro Village. Located at the northeast corner of Ramona Boulevard and Maine Avenue, Metro Village is a new construction, mixed-use, affordable multifamily apartment community on a 1.01-acre site. Metro Village offers one, two, and three-bedroom apartments affordable to families making 60 percent or less of the Los Angeles County Area Median Income and 5,500 square feet of commerce retail space. The grand opening celebration was held at Metro Village, which is located at 4428 East Ramona Blvd., Baldwin Park, CA 91706.

"The Metro Village represents the beginning of a new era in the history of Baldwin Park," said Mayor Lozano, City of Baldwin Park. "It, along with the Metrolink Station, will serve as the catalyst that will remake our downtown area into the vibrant and dynamic centerpiece to our City that we all envisioned it could be. The positive impacts of this project are already being felt, including the enticement of new businesses and developers seeking to establish other projects in this area. Metro Village will continue to propel this transformation and soon will serve as an example of what can be accomplished through focused long-term planning and collaboration."

This $27 million, 70-unit, four-story community intertwines contemporary architecture with a solid foundation that further enhances the downtown scene. In addition, the new public plaza at the transit-oriented Metro Village links Baldwin Park's historic City Hall to retail and transit activities along Ramona Boulevard. With its close proximity to the Cruz Baca Transit Center station, Metro Village residents can choose between riding the transit with the transit passes provided to each unit at Metro Village or bike to the station or downtown retail. Resident amenities include a community room with an entertainment and lounge area, kitchenette, computer room, fitness room, laundry room, secure bike storage area, private patio space with a play area, and barbeque area.

"As Los Angeles County continues growing its transit system, it's critical that cities plan for new housing to be located near those transit stations," said ROEM Executive Vice President Alex Sanchez. "Many transit riders want easy access to public transhome. With Metro Village, the City of Baldwin Park has ensured they can."

Continuing its focus on its commitment to build green, ROEM integrated sustainable building methods and materials in the development of Metro Village. These include energy conservation features such as water and energy-efficient appliances and fixtures. To save water, Metro Village has also used only drought-tolerant plants, used no turf, and installed low-flow drip sprinklers and water-saving fixtures. High-efficiency lighting and Energy Star appliances ensure less energy is used propertywide. In addition, a solar PV system converts energy from the sun to fulfill residents' energy needs thereby reducing the property's dependence on energy. To increase the air quality, Metro Village applied low VOC paints and adhesives on the walls. With this focus on sustainability, Metro Village is pursuing USGBC LEED-H Gold certification.

"The solutions to providing high-quality affordable housing are as diverse as the communities they serve and Metro Village is an excellent example," said

Mixed-use 70-unit residential community for low-income families opens in Los Angeles County

Withee Malcolm Principal Dirk Thelen. "The contemporary architecture coherently addresses the mix of uses—residential, retail, a public plaza and connections to transit—and the urban context to support a welcoming, environmentally-friendly neighborhood and to serve as animportant catalyst for revitalization."

Metro Village is receiving 9 percent Low-Income Housing Tax Credits and is made possible through the investment and lending support of AEGON and Citi Community Capital. ROEM and Pacific Housing, Inc. have partnered with Citi Community Capital, AEGON USA Realty Advisors, LLC, and the City of Baldwin Park for financial support on this project. This project also utilizes the U.S. HUD

HOME Program funds and a loan from the City of Baldwin Park. The architect is Withee Malcolm Architects, LLP and the general contractor, ROEM Builders, Inc.

"This mixed-use development will provide much needed affordable housing for families that would otherwise struggle with finding quality housing at affordable rental rates in Baldwin Park," said Jay Abeywardena, Director at Citi Community Capital. "Citi is committed to investing in quality affordable housing like Metro Village and we will continue this effort to benefit those communities that desperately need the investment."

Guest speakers included: Congresswoman Grace Napolitano, 32nd Congressional District of California; State Senator Ed Hernandez, 22nd Senate District of California; Assemblymember Roger Hernández, 48th District of California; Supervisor Hilda Solis, County Board of Supervisors, County of Los Angeles; Mayor Manuel Lozano, City of Baldwin Park; Mayor Pro-Tem Monica Garcia, City of Baldwin Park, California; Council Member Cruz Baca, City of Baldwin Park, California; Council Member Ricardo Pacheco, City of Baldwin Park, California; Council Member Susan Rubio, City of Baldwin Park, California; Jay Abeywardena, Director, Citi Community Capital; Gary Howe, Director, AEGON USA Realty Advisors, LLC; Robert Emami, CEO & President, ROEM Development Corporation; and Alex Sanchez, Executive Vice President, ROEM Development Corporation.

LOS ANGELES COUNTY

—The Board of Supervisors unanimously approved a motion by Supervisor Michael D. Antonovich to expand upon existing opportunities for emancipated foster youth to engage in nursing studies and participate in a scholarship program initiated by Antonovich in 1991.

"Our emancipated foster youth deserve an opportunity to access resources that will help them achieve their academic goals and prosper in productive nursing careers serving the community,'

said Antonovich.

Modeled after the United States Military Academy program, student nurses who benefited from the Antonovich Nursing Scholarship would serve a required number of years after graduation in a County facility. Currently, the scholarship program provides scholarships of up to $4,000 to individuals who are enrolled or accepted as undergraduate nursing students in accredited schools. In the last three years, 55 applicants applied for the scholarship. Of those applicants, over 30 received the scholarship, and 50% of these graduates went on to serve in local health department facilities as

The motion directs the Department of Health Services to collaborate with the Department of Children and Family Services and report back in one week on opportunities for transitional aged foster youth to engage in nursing studies and participate in the scholarship program.

Seven Arrested in Glendora Burglaries

police were busy on Friday, Oct. 14 when they arrested seven burglary suspects for two "unrelated" home burglaries that happened 30 minutes apart.

Police dispatch received a call just before 11 a.m. about a residential alarm going off in the 500 block of East Sierra Madre Avenue. A pedestrian saw a car leaving that area.

When officers arrived, they found the house ransacked.

Officers saw a car about a block away that matched the witness' description and pulled the car over.

There were four suspects in the car, three men and one woman and were confirmed as the suspects in the break-in. They were all arrested on suspicion of burglary.

A half an hour later, there was a second incident where there was an attempted burglary in the 1400 block of East Leadora Avenue.

A man in a hooded GLENDORA - Glendora sweatshirt was seen entering a backyard and the resident called police.

> The suspect saw the resident ran back to the street. The resident saw a car leaving and described the vehicle to police.

> An officer stopped the car. There were three men in the car and one was identified as the suspect seen running from the backyard. The three were arrested on suspicion of attempted burglary.

> The identities of all the suspects have not been revealed because of the continued investigations.

Police have not determined yet if the suspects committed other burglaries in Glendora and other surrounding cities in the area. There has been an increase in gangs coming to the area committing burglaries. With the help of citizens, there have been many arrests and the police appreciate citizens who become involved.

Arcadia's Bond Rating Raised To Highest Possible AAA Rating

ARCADIA - The City of Arcadia has secured the coveted AAA bond rating from Standard & Poor's (S&P) with the outlook for the City as "stable." The rating increase from AA+ to the highest rating of AAA is a reflection of Arcadia's strong economy, budgetary performance and flexibility, and liquidity, but namely strong management, and solid financial practices and responsibility by City leaders.

"Our bond rating increase to an AAA rating, the highest rating possible, is evidence of our exceptional budgetary planning and solid financial management that has always set Arcadia apart from other organizations," said Mayor Tom Beck. "We are looking to the future and making sure we have the resources available for what may come up unexpectedly, but at the same time, we thoughtfully consider how we spend those resources on a daily basis to make Arcadia the best community in which to live and do business."

"Similar to an individual's credit score, a bond rating measures the City's ability to repay its debt. To receive AAA rating from S&P, typically given to the likes of U.S. Treasury Bonds, reflects a view that Arcadia has a very strong economy, improved property wealth, and strong management with good financial policies and practices," said Administrative Services Director Hue

Bond ratings are a method of evaluating credit risk and the City's ability to meet its financial obligations. The higher rating would allow Arcadia to borrow at lower interest rates which could potential save the City money in future borrowing costs. In the past, the City has issued bonds to finance the Police Department Headquarters in 2001 and the Santa Anita Bridge project in 2012. The bonds are repaid through property taxes.

Overwhelmed By The Number Of Ballot Initiatives? The Glendora Public Library Can Help!

GLENDORA - Did you know that there are a total of seventeen ballot initiatives that Californians will be voting on during the upcoming election on November 8? With so much attention focused on the candidates for President, and relatively little discussion regarding the ballot initiatives, many voters are no doubt feeling overwhelmed.

To help the public make informed decisions at the ballot box in November, the Glendora Library and the League of Women Voters of East San Gabriel Valley will be hosting an information session on Monday, October 24, beginning at 6:30 p.m., in the Library's Friends Room. will be presenting the pros and Glendora, CA 91741.

Citrus College Continues to Master the Art of Student Success

By Dr. Patricia A. Rasmussen, Clerk/Secretary, Citrus Community College District Board of Trustees

It is estimated that Leonardo Da Vinci spent anywhere from four to 14 years painting the Mona Lisa. While this 500year-old portrait has become one of history's most famous works of art, at one point it was simply a blank canvas. A skilled craftsman, creativity and the proper tools were needed to produce the masterpiece.

In many ways, the process of cultivating student success is similar to that of creating a work of art. Citrus College uses innovative programs and services, state-of-the-art resources and talented faculty and staff to assist students in reaching their educational and professional goals. At Citrus, recent developments in these areas will ensure that the institution continues to fulfill its commitment to being a "College of Completion" in the years ahead.

For example, we recently welcomed 22 new faculty and over 20 staff members to the college. In higher education, faculty and staff are the skilled craftsmen who create the masterpiece that is academic achievement.

Evidence of creativity at Citrus College can be seen in the wide variety of academic programs and student services. Some of the college's most forward-thinking initiatives can be found in the STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering & Math) program.

In December, Citrus College STEM will launch Rocket Math, a workshop series for seventh grade GATE (Gifted and Talented Education) students from Glendora Unified School District. Participants will work with Citrus College students to design, build and launch rockets. Another important expected outcome from the workshops is enhanced math, communication and technical writing skills for the GATE students.

Recent graduates of Glendora High School also benefit from a creative new initiative developed by the Citrus College School Relations and Outreach Office. Now in its second year, I Will Complete College provides incoming freshmen with great incentives including priority registration in entry-level English and math classes, scholarships, special workshops, and personalized guidance designed to increase college persistence and completion rates.

The college's newly constructed Visual Arts Building will benefit Glendora residents as well. Funded by Measure G, a general obligation bond measure approved by voters in 2004, the $19.2 million Visual Arts Building is a three-story, 36,938 square foot complex which features studios and labs equipped for drawing, painting, printmaking, digital design, photography, mixed media and more. An aesthetically pleasing structure, it is also a highly effective learning environment sure to enhance the stellar Visual Arts programs. I look forward to inviting you to future gallery and exhibition openings.

As Glendora's representative on the Citrus Community College District Board of Trustees, I am proud to report that our community college is ever-changing and always evolving. In the years to come, Citrus College will continue to cultivate the creativity and develop the resources that are necessary to ensure that Glendora's students are prepared for future success.

West Covina Icon Restaurant, Silver Dragon, Robbed

By George Ogden

WEST COVINA - A man who was wearing a 'Jason' mask robbed the West Covina restaurant, the Silver Dragon at the Plaza West Covina shopping mall, 1129 West Covina

Parkway, Thursday afternoon. He entered the restaurant armed with a handgun and demanded money from the employees. They complied with the fact that there was a threat to their lives. They handed over between $100 and $200.

According to the report, the gunman wore a white plastic Halloween mask similar to that of "Jason" in the "Friday the 13th" horror movie series.

He was in his late-30s to early-40s, heavy set, about 6 feet tall, with a tattoo on the right side of his neck.

He was last seen heading east through the Plaza parking structure. Most likely, police will be checking surveillance recordings in the area as the suspect removed his mask after the robbery as he went through the parking lot.

Anyone with information can reach the West Covina Police Department at 626-939-8500, or the department's 24-hour tip hotline at 626-939-8688.

First Lady Talks ... Says Nothing On Real Issues

By Lois M. Shade Former Mayor of Glendora

Michelle Obama's speech in New Hampshire started off with everything I think all of us believe in: Women should be treated with dignity and respect and they should ignore anyone who demeans or devalues them. Our leaders should meet basic standards of human decency, she said. We have a candidate for President, she said, who ... has said things about women shocking and demeaning ... and of course she was talking about Donald Trump and the hacked personal locker room conversation he had 11 years ago with a male NBC reporter. Michelle also, hand to chest, said she felt it so personally and thought our nation's leaders should meet basic standards of decency.

Michelle Obama went on to say the hacked conversation has shaken her to the core ... she can't forget it ... it can't be ignored ... but apparently she is ignoring and has forgotten the Bill Clinton affair with 22 year old intern Monica Lewinsky in the White House of all places. In the White House! President Bill Clinton lied before Congress about the affair with Monica. Bill Clinton who was impeached, who was defended by his wife, Hillary Clinton, now candidate for President. Michelle Obama has forgotten that and it doesn't shake her to her core or feel it so personally?

Michelle Obama can't stop thinking about the hack ... can't move on, can't give a normal campaign speech, she said. Wouldn't it be nice if she and Hillary could move on and we could talk about the economy, jobs, education, national defense beginning with a new immigration policy that protects this country while opening America up with welcoming arms to those who want to come and assimilate not destroy innocent citizens with bombs and drugs. So sorry, Michelle, you aren't able to move on and talk about the important issues that affect this country down to its core! But it seems to me that has been the current administration policy from President Obama and Secretary of State Hillary Clinton for the last 8 years ... just not able to resolve issues that really affect America to her core.

Let's make America great again and address the real issues capita than anyone else. facing this country rather than listening to a bunch of questionable, unsubstantiated charges that appear to be campaign slander against Trump. I would remind Michelle, Bill Clinton's unthinkable violation was well-known and well documented. And, not mentioned in her speech.

From Donald Trump's book, Crippled America: Make American Great Again:

We need to secure our borders, just as Ronald Reagan said, "A nation that cannot control its borders, is not a nation." Trump believes not only a wall with a door to allow legal ingress and egress but re-activate President Eisenhower's joint effort with INS and the Mexican Government to quickly and humanely deport those who have come here illegally to areas in Mexico where there are jobs; penalties for those who overstay their visas; and, cut off grants to sanctuary cities -- "We are either a nation of laws or we're not,"

"American citizenship is an extraordinary gift," Trump writes. We need to think about what Trump is proposing and not the version the media or the Clintons give us in TV ads.

About Foreign Policy Trump says, "Look at the state of the world right now. It's a terrible mess, and ... the so-called insiders within Washington ... are the people who got us into this trouble." That includes Hillary Clinton and I haven't heard any 'fixits' coming from her at any of these debates.

Trump says, "Operate from strength. That means we have to maintain the strongest military in the world ... We have to demonstrate a willingness to use our economic strength to reward those countries that work with use and punish those ... that don't." Dealing with Russia and China, Trump admits, is going to be the biggest challenge, but good foreign policy using Teddy Roosevelt's, "Speak softly and carry a big stick" will work.

Education decisions are best made by local districts. Trump believes education dictates from the Federal Government need to stop. He says reports indicate the American education system is failing and we are ranked 26th in the world and spending more per

Health care to be affordable needs competition and not a 1,100 page bill nobody read called Obama-Care. President Obama said you could keep your doctor and plan and for some that proved to be untrue. Creating jobs takes real leadership, getting government properly sized and getting the Feds out of all the areas where they don't belong. Trump believes the free market works with a strong adherence to the Constitution; maintain social programs that inspire and reward achievement, but are constantly accountable for their spending and outcomes. Trump's concerns: 46.5 million people living in poverty; middle class Americans who are struggling to keep their homes (or lost them); people who can't afford education for their children; and, the fact we are losing the American dream. Trump wants to review and revise our tax codes. I'm with him.

Michelle Obama says this is not politics as usual ... this is disgraceful and intolerable. I agree. The women the democrats dug up to try to reinforce the nastiness of a hacked personal conversation 11 years ago is outrageous and in my opinion an effort to cover up one President Bill Clinton's White House intolerable, inexcusable act with a 22year old intern.

Perhaps Hillary's campaign slogan should be Political Might - More Important than Political Right. And, no I do not want four more years of Bill Clinton in the White House!

Racism, Truth, and Politics in 2016

by Jane M. Orient, M.D.

In my abnormal human psychology class a half century ago, we studied Sigmund Freud's neurotic defense mechanisms. While Freud has been discredited in many ways, his idea of projection seems obviously valid to me—not so much as a sign of a psychiatric illness, but as a political tactic: Accuse your opponent of what you yourself are doing. Maybe that's a subset of "the best defense is a good offense."

Half of Trump's supporters the ones in Hillary Clinton's irredeemable "basket of deplorables"—are presumed guilty of the unforgivable sin of racism. If whites are unaware of racist feelings, they are still there, buried deep in the subconscious, to be exposed by corrective psychoanalysis or reeducation.

But many psychologists or psychiatrists these days prefer to look at behavior. We might ask: what is the most egregious thing a racist could do? How about denying or "banishing" her own biracial child—or stepchild?

Danney Williams, a black man, makes one plea to Hillary Clinton in an interview with Alex Jones on InfoWars: Don't keep him from getting the proof of what he has been claiming for many years--that Bill Clinton is his father.

His mother has always told him so. Bill Clinton, she said, was her only white client. Other evidence is a strong facial resemblance, and the testimony of preachers, his Aunt Lucille, and others. Williams's mother and family also received envelopes of cash and Christmas gifts, delivered by Arkansas state troopers when Clinton was governor until, it is believed, Hillary put a stop to it.

But who will believe the testimony of a poor black woman, who sold her body to earn money to feed her children, and even served time in jail? Or of other lower-class black folks? Who will trust the childhood memories of a biracial man, who spent a lot of time in foster care? In contrast, women's reports of being touched "inappropriately" decades ago, surfacing for the first time just prior to the election, are given credence and endless media coverage. Is that because the women are white, or because they are attacking a Republican?

Apparently, nobody has asked Hillary about Danney. Perhaps she would give her standard answer: "I don't recall."

Williams is asking Bill Clinton for a blood sample for forensic paternity testing. It is claimed that "DNA testing" has already disproved the relationship. However, the test used to show that the semen on Monica Lewinsky's dress was probably Bill Clinton's is reportedly not accurate for ruling out paternity.

Williams takes his five children to the Clinton Library. He believes that their grandfather is a great man, a former President of the United States, and that they are entitled to know their heritage. He is willing to take the risk that the truth he says he is seeking may not be what he hopes, and he'll have to seek elsewhere for his roots.

It is ironic that William Jefferson Clinton's namesake, Thomas Jefferson, stands accused of the same thing: fathering children by a black woman. Based on controversial DNA findings (the DNA came from a descendant of Thomas Jefferson's uncle), some conclude that Jefferson might have fathered at least one child by Sally Hemings, his slave. If so, should his offspring be proud? Jefferson's reputation as a great man is under sustained attack because of the alleged affair.

Is the question about Clinton's paternity politically motivated? The timing of Alex Jones's interview probably is. But Danney Williams has been asking for recognition for decades, and has had a Facebook page for two years and nobody much cared.

If Bill Clinton knows he is not Danney's father, he could destroy the credibility of the "alt-right" media by giving a blood sample. If he is Danney's father, the right thing to do is to acknowledge his fine son and five precious black grandchildren. Was he not said to be the country's "first black Pres-

When it Rains, Do You Know the Law? Apparently Not.

By George Ogden

On Monday, the San Gabriel Valley had something strange happening in the morning. There was some kind of substance falling from the sky. People asked, "What is it?" This substance did strange things... it made our cars look dirty just after we washed it the day before. It made our hair and clothes wet if we stood outside. The streets were wet. There were car crashes because of this stuff. People on the freeway were backed up and late for work because of this. Wait a minute... I think I know. It is something they call

George Ogden That's just the way it is!

"rain"... I remember when I was a kid and used to try and catch the rain in my mouth. I found that if I stood under a tree where there were larger droplets of water coming from the leaves and I could catch it in my mouth easier. This was fun until a bird pooped in my mouth. I guess that was a bad idea back then.

So today, we have laws when it rains and it seems that many people don't follow the law and most likely they have forgotten. Let's see if I can save you some money and from getting a traffic ticket. You will thank me for this. People are NOT doing this... The law is clear, when it rains; you DRIVE WITH YOUR LIGHTS ON.

"That's Just the Way It Is!"

Mark Twain once commented on the calm confidence of a Christian with four aces. That may describe the smug feeling that has come over Californians as we approach the election on November 8. The chances that Donald Trump will take our solid dark blue state are about as great as our seeing the empire state building flying over Pasadena. Even more comforting is that we've got 55 electoral votes, which is in excess of those shared by Montana. North and South Dakota, Idaho, Wyoming, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and a couple of other red

Realizing that our state is in the bag for Hillary, a number of my friends have decided that the best use of their ballot is to support a third party candidate. If it had appeared that the election in California was going to be close, they would have probably voted for Hillary. I cannot argue with their reasoning, except to say that what they are contemplating does not help Hillary in the overall popular vote count.

What concerns me is not how we get the vote out in this state, but what we safe Californians need to do about the rest of the country, particularly the swing states. My guess is that all of us have relatives, friends or other contacts in Pennsylvania, Florida, North Carolina, Ohio, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, New Hampshire, Nevada, and elsewhere. If you haven't been in contact with them about the election and where you stand, now is the time. I have an advantage because not only do these weekly columns go out all over the nation, but there is also a serious number of our readers who re-send them to their mailing lists.

Charles H. Bayer

My main concern about the election is not which candidate is best for America or who has the character and temperament to present the United States before the world, or who would best safeguard the peace, but the enthusiasm of the electors. Almost all of the passion seems now to rest with the Trump supporters. They are locked in. They will go to the polls with a vigor that will take others with them. If it's raining, or some other interest has come up, many Hillary voters may not make it at all. I am reminded of the oft-quoted lines of

William Butler Yates in his poem,

"The Second Coming": The best lack all conviction, while the

Are full of passionate intensi-

This is particularly true of the vast number who will vote for Hillary only because Trump is so bad! If your level of passion is less than is your vigorous support for your favorites sports team, you won't do very much about being sure you get to the polls and getting everyone you know to vote as well.

In this great democratic nation the percentage of citizens who vote is lower than almost in any other country. We are fortunate to get 50% of our people to the polls, so we are always governed by a minority. In Australia, voting is just as much a requirement as paying taxes, or driving with the proper license. You can go to the polls and submit a "donkey ballot" (a blank ballot) but if you don't vote at all, you will be forced to pay a fine. If we could get the moral equivalent of that legal requirement in place, our elections would be much more the will of the people.

So stop and take a look at your list of contacts-by phone, in person, e-mail, face book, twitter or other avenues of the social media. Time is short. Many people will be voting ahead of November 8th.

AB 1570 Unintended Consequences - Small Book Dealers

Thank you for the article on AB 1570 written by Assemblywoman Ling-Ling Chang on the crackdown on fake signatures. The major problem with this legislation, due to become law January 2017, is that small book dealers such as myself will be forced to endure more state regulations and 7 years worth of paperwork if I want to sell an autographed book for over $5.00 to any person within the State of California

I have been selling used books for over 35 years--15 years on Ebay. I sell roughly 50-75 autographed books per month. I do not have masses of inventory like some dealers that I know, but I have enough books to make an acceptable full-time income

This new law has unintended consequences as I will have to have a Certificate of Authentication FOR EACH autographed book that I sell, where and when I bought the book, the person's address where I bought the book, and how I know that it is a genuine autograph

This law will not only affect me, but other places that sell signed items such as flea markets, comic book dealers (and their trade shows), antique dealers who sell sculptures and art, and small auction houses

I do admit that I do not sell sports collectibles, but I sell signed movie scripts and high school yearbooks--the later may be signed by a major or minor movie star

I REALLY want to sell autographed books within the State of California after January 2017, yet I may be forced to add in my description and/or Check Out instructions that I cannot sell this item within the State of California because of a new law. The State of California will also lose--as I collect a California sales tax for each book that I sell

Hopefully the new legislators will amend this law--the State of California NEEDS us dealers who are legitimate and who are taxpayers!

Big Jobs Friday

September job growth was strong enough to justify a rate hike, but the logic of rate hikes is to slow the economy enough to prevent job growth from exceeding labor force growth. Since that clearly is not happening, that reason to hike does not Nonfarm payrolls rose 156k in September, 16k less than the consensus estimate. August payrolls were revised 16k higher and July payrolls were revised 23k lower, for a net revision of -7k. The three-month average payroll rise was 191k. Private payrolls rose 167k, only slightly below the 170k estimate, indicating the headline miss was mostly due to a pullback in government jobs. There's little reason to worry about that, however, as government hiring was unusually strong over the summer.

The labor force rose 444k, and averaged 342k in the past three months. When the labor force grows faster than employment, it means there were more people looking than found jobs. As a result, the unemployment rate rose to 5.0%, the same as last October. In other words, the unemployment rate has been stable for a full year. Labor force participation rose to 62.9%, still low, but the highest since February.

A considerable contingent within the FOMC is conditioned to react to wage increases and they may bang the rate hike drum in response to the acceleration in year-on-year average earnings growth. But average hourly earnings growth in the vicinity of 2.5% nominal, or 1% net of inflation, is no threat. In fact, it's a good thing, and even faster wage growth would be better still. After all, inflation has stalled at 1.5% and the income gap, which just recently was the widest since the 1930s, is only just beginning

Martin Feldstein wants the Fed to raise rates in December. Writing in a recent WSJ article, he argues that a bubble is forming in the stock market and the Fed needs to act before it gets worse. He's almost certainly right hat's up in the Economy?

& Former Glendora Mayor

about stocks, but he's wrong about hiking rates.

The stock-market bubble is the result of companies borrowing at all-time-low rates to buy back their own shares. Corporations recently have been by far the biggest buyers of stocks. To meaningfully discourage buybacks, rates need to rise at least a hundred and maybe a hundred fifty basis points. Households cannot stand a rate hike that big. Indeed, household borrowing choked on the 25bp hike last December. US households account for twothirds of US GDP, and in the past year, they account for more than 90% of GDP growth. A rate hike big enough to stop corporate buybacks would quickly throw the US economy into recession.

Regulatory reform since the financial crisis was aimed at three things (primarily). 1.) Fix a corrupt mortgage industry. 2.) Make banks safer. And 3.) Protect consumers from themselves.

As a result, the spread between the fed funds rate and the marginal rate at which households can borrow is wider than it was pre-crisis. Probably several hundred basis points wider. Wall Street thinks this is the single most important reason natural rates, including long-term natural rates are so low. A much, much lower fed funds rate is required to achieve the same marginal rate for households. But not for corporations. As long as a company can access the bond market, regulation has not affected its borrowing costs.

Feldstein is right that the Fed should do something to prevent a stock market bubble from further inflating. Rate hikes are not the answer, however, because the economy cannot stand higher rates. Instead, the Financial Stability Oversight Council should use regulations to increase corporate borrowing costs. They could encourage Congress to tax bond issues, they could use their influence with the credit rating agencies to encourage them to rate over-leveraged industrials with the same scrutiny they currently apply to financial institutions. But raising the fed funds rate enough to choke off the corporate underwriting machine will crush household borrowing and result in a significant recession.

Wage inflation is the only way the poor and middle class can close the income gap with the rich. Wage inflation only comes when this economy is at or near full employment, late in the business cycle. We are finally there. The recovery phase of this expansion was unusually long because the Great Recession was unusually destructive, but wages are finally rising faster than other forms of income. The gap closed a bit last year, but most Americans are still feeling less well off than they did in 1999.

Even if you don't care about the poor, closing the income gap is a good idea, because people are fed up with being left behind. If they cannot get relief economically, they will get it politically, through taxes and redistribution. They are already lashing out at the establishment who put them in this predicament. Anti-globalization sentiment can be observed on the front page of a recent WSJ article, the Sanders and Trump phenomena, anti-Fed protests. These are all warning signs of what will be a lot worse if the Fed throws the economy into recession prematurely. So, yes, address the stock market bubble, but not by throwing the economy into recession with rate increases households cannot toler-

Your Money - Ask Julia

Our company is no longer going to match any 401k contributions. Am I allowed to just stop contributing to my 401k? Will I have to pay taxes on it now? Do I have choices?

Contributing to a 401k is optional. When you take money out of your 401k during your retirement years, you will be required to pay taxes. You will be required to start taking money out when you reach 70 1/2 years of age. You do have choices. Instead of contributing to your 401k, you could pay your taxes as you earn the money. Then, take some of that money and invest it into an IRA (Individual Retirement Account). (Check with your CPA about the tax deduction in your specific case.) Although you will still be required to take income payments when you reach 70 ½ years of age, you will only have to pay taxes on the earnings your investment dollars have accumulated over the years. Or, you could invest into a Roth IRA, never be required to take income payments, and pay no further taxes on earnings. Another choice would be to invest in a fixed-indexed universal life insurance policy which could provide not only life insurance benefits, but also living benefits like retirement income. I'm a teacher, in my late 30's, and a single mom of a 6 year old. I want to save for my child's college education, and I need to save more for retirement. I have $200 a month I can use, but I'm concerned about the two summer months I don't work. What can I do?

Assuming you're in good enough health, I'd recommend a life insurance policy that can build cash value. This policy could provide life insurance coverage for both you and your child, while accumulating college savings for your child, and savings for your retirement income.

We can calculate how much extra you'd need to pay each month for 10 months per year in order to skip paying during the two months you don't work.

I went to my bank and told them I want to move the funds from my old 401k to a CD. They said I can't. Is this true? It's my money! I just want it to be safe so it's there when I need it.

The money in your 401k is considered "qualified" - funds went into that account before you paid taxes on it, and grew tax-deferred. When you take money from a qualified account, you must pay taxes on every penny (plus a 10% penalty if you are younger than 59 ½). A CD is non-qualified since you already paid taxes on the money before you put it into that CD, and you pay taxes every year on the growth. You do have other options that would allow you to move those funds, not have to pay taxes (and penalties) now, with guarantees that your money would be safe from losses. (Guarantees are based on the strength of the company.)

We've been talking about selling our home and buying a larger home, but now we're thinking about waiting until after the holidays. What do you

Housing inventory (the number of homes for sale) is very limited. If your home is in good condition and you price it right, you could receive multiple offers and it could sell very quickly. Serious buyers are looking to make their move now so that they can be in their new home for the holidays. Having your house on the market when it's filled with delicious smells and decorated for the holidays is a big plus! I pay $1,700 a month rent, plus utilities. Would I be better off buying a house?

With first-time buyer incentives and low mortgage rates, renters can more easily buy now. If your credit is 720 or more, you might qualify for a loan wherein you put 1-percent downpayment, and the lender adds 2percent, so your total down payment is 3-percent.

If Only.

I hear customers' day in and day out that express a wish that they knew more about cars so they would know exactly what to do if this or that occurred. They sigh and say, "If only I had just some knowledge...." I tell them they actually know a lot more than they give themselves credit for! It is true! You are more aware of your car's little quirks. You know when something isn't quite right more so than anyone else.

I get calls all the time saying that their car is making a kathump noise or a pinging noise or it is knocking or sputtering, whining or screeching. And you thought you didn't have knowledge? Of course you do. You just need to know what these noises mean...so even though I've said it before...here is a refresher a brake problem. The screech is actually the sound of metal scraping.

Screeching usually signifies

Thudding or a low metallic thumping noise can be a loose pulley or exhaust pipe or even a worn crank shaft bearing.

A knocking noise signifies loose bolts in the torque converter or a bad connecting rod or even a worn crankshaft main bearing.

Pinging noises seem to very common and your car either needs a tune-up or the fuel octane may be too low for your car's engine.

Tapping or clicking can be many things such as a bent or loose fan blade, loose hubcap, bad wheel bearing or low level of engine oil.

Clunking can be mean your transmission fluid is low or your car has a bad universal joint or rear differential.

Squealing is usually the result of under-inflated tires, poor wheel alignment, a loose power steering fan or air conditioner compressor belt.

Squeaking noises can be caused by worn suspension bushings, bad drum-brake linings, or a chassis in need of lubrication.

I hope you find this translation helpful. Regular vehicle checkups prevent these noises from happening and keep your vehicle healthy. Now, if your vehicle is doing any of these things listed above, call us today! We will make it all better in no time!

Ten Songs That Shook The World

A Musical Presentation by Ross Altman, PhD

PASADENA - The Allendale Branch Library will present a musical performance by Los Angeles-based folk singer Ross Altman, entitled "Ten Songs That Shook the World," on Saturday, October 29, at 2:00 p.m., at 1130 S. Marengo Ave., Pasadena. Light refreshments will be served.

Can a song change the world? The students in Tiananmen Square thought so, when they held up a sign saying "We Shall Overcome" in their protest for democracy in June of 1989; and the shipyard workers in Gda?sk, Poland thought so, when they named their movement Solidarity for an American labor anthem, Solidarity Forever. More to the point, the U.S. State Department thought so, when they revoked Paul Robeson's passport; and the House Un-American Activities Committee thought so, when they tried to silence Pete Seeger by citing him for contempt of Congress. Ross Altman thinks so too, and will present a lively tribute to the ten greatest protest songs of the 20th century - including labor, civil rights, and antiwar songs - all of which shook the world and proved that the pen is mightier than the sword. Join Ross for a program that celebrates the kind of song Woody Guthrie had in mind when he wrote on his guitar, "This Machine Kills Fascists."

Ross Altman has an MA in Speech from UC Santa Barbara and a Ph.D. in English from SUNY Binghamton. He left the classroom for the stage only to turn the stage into a classroom. President of the Santa Monica Traditional Folk Music Club, Altman writes for www.folkworks.org. A member of Local 47 (AFM), he sings for libraries, unions, churches, schools, and political groups, as well at folk clubs and folk festivals.

West Covina Police Lt. Jerry Pearman | Antonovich's Pets Of The Week: Retires after 28 Years of Service

By George Ogden & WCPD

WEST COVINA - On Thursday, October 13, the West Covina Police Department said good bye and good luck to a long time member of the West Covina Police Department. Lieutenant Jerry Pearman officially retired after 28 years of dedicated service to the citizens of West Covina. He oversaw operations as Watch Commander over the Daywatch Crew 3 Team. Thursday, the end of his shift at 1830 hours (6:30 PM) he will be 10-7 (out of service) for the last time.

Pearman was well liked by all. He was one of those fun guys that would great you with a smile, including some bad guys. Over the years, he changed many lives, many for the good. He worked all over the map within the station. There are untold number of kids that have gone straight and had a successful adult life thanks to Pearman and other officers like him.

A special thanks goes out to Jerry and everyone wishes him the best in his retirement.

Lieutenant (Jerry) Edie Jerry Pearman retired from West Covina Police Department after 28 years of service.

Galen Beery and Wife Killed by DUI Driver in New Mexico

By George Ogden

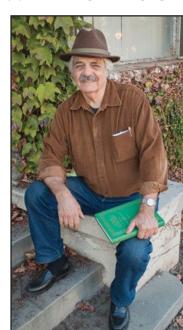

LA VERNE - It is sad to report that Galen Beery, longtime president of the La Verne Historical Society, and his wife, Doris Beery, were killed Tuesday night, October 11 in a vehicle collision, not far from Grants, New Mexico.

The accident occurred around 7 p.m. on Interstate 40. The couple was travelling west when their Toyota was hit by an eastbound Infiniti that went out of control and rolled into their lane of travel. The Beerys were pronounced dead at the scene. The driver of the Infiniti, Aaron Hazard, 35, who is a California resident and from Rancho Cucamonga was hospitalized with injuries. He was taken to University of New Mexico Hospital in Albuquerque in stable condition.

Police suspect Hazard was under the influence of drugs at the time of the collision and are continuing their investigation and he will be charged accordingly

The Beerys have been involved with the La Verne Historical Society/Save Our La Verne Environment as their president for many years, in fact, several decades. This will put a huge void in the organizations according to many.

Mt. SAC Celebrates 70th Anniversary

WALNUT - Mt. San Antonio College will celebrate 70 years of service to the community with its Community Carnival and Open House on Saturday, Nov. 5, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., in parking lot F off of Temple Avenue. This event is free and open to the public.

Free carnival rides, free music and performances, and a program and service exposition are just part of the festivities. Participants can learn about the many programs, services, and resources Mt. SAC offers the community. Food, drinks and carnival games will be available at an additional cost.

Mt. SAC first opened it doors as East Los Angeles County Junior College on Sept. 16, 1946 as 682 students registered for the first day of classes on what alternately was the site of an army hospital, a naval hospital, and a home for wayward boys. Its first graduating class in 1947 numbered 73 students. Since then more than a million students have attended Mt. SAC, and last June, the Class of 2016 filed over 2,700 degree petitions.

For more information on the Community Carnival and Open House, see the college website at www.mtsac.edu/70.
