Baldwin Park Middle School Prepares Next Generation of STEM Professionals

School transforms 1950s classrooms into modern tech labs

STEM students from Baldwin Park Unified's Holland Middle School adjust wires on their robotic car during a grand-opening celebration of two STEM labs on May 5. Partnered with Project Lead The Way, the District created new labs to accommodate courses in engineering design and modeling, and automation and robotics.

BALDWIN PARK - Students shared their work on robotic vehicles, computer coding and models using 3D printers with families and district officials during a May 5 grandopening celebration of two STEM labs at Baldwin Park Unified's Holland Middle School.

Over the last seven months, two 1950s classrooms have been reconfigured into collaboration-friendly labs that provide technology-rich learning for students pursing specialized courses in science, technology, engineering and math fields. The workspaces feature six 3D printers and 27 VEX robotics "In school, you normally learn the very basics of math and science, but you don't go too far into one area," Holland sixth-grader Leilany Gamboa said. "In STEM, we are taught to succeed through trial and error. I am the wire technician in my group for automation and robotics. I never thought I would enjoy it, but now I know so much more and it's really fun."

and modeling, as well as automation and robotics designed by Project Lead The Way (PLTW), the nation's leader in STEM curriculum. Next year, Holland will add PLTW courses in Flight and Space, App Design and Medical De-

At the grand opening, more than 40 parents, district officials and Superintendent Froilan N. Mendoza were given student-guided tours of a STEM lab. Students tinkered with two- and four-wheeled vehicles to show the pieces involved in programming machine automation. This included creating a model with robotic kit pieces, wiring the car and coding it to run via remote

"The job of the district is to make sure students have the tools in hand necessary to success," Mendoza said. "With our partnership with Project Lead The Way, we are setting up our students to thrive in a technology-based environment."

Eighteen-year educator Tom Lau, who started teaching the PLTW courses about 18 Holland offers one-semester months ago, said the program ment for teaching.

"If I had these classes in junior high school, it would have changed my career path," Lau said. "Students have the required skill set, but they aren't given the opportunity to apply those skills to a career field. This is the first time students are exposed to courses in engineering, and through their lessons they are being prepared for jobs that will need to be filled in the next 10 years."

Kimberly Jones, PLTW director of school engagement for the west region, described how the nonprofit organization works to inspire, engage and empower the future generation of engineers, mathematicians and scientists.

Holland Principal Mike Rust said a long-term goal is to ensure that every Holland student enters high school with experience in at least one STEM

Baldwin Park Unified's high schools offer advanced PLTW instruction in multiple STEM fields, creating a comprehensive pathway to higher education. PLTW focuses on student exposure to fields where there is a need for more qualified professionals by introducing industry leading technology to teach group collaboration and communication, critical-think-

Arcadia Unified Doubles Taxpayers Savings to $80 Million

ARCADIA - It was only a couple of months ago that the Arcadia Unified School District announced a bond refinance plan that would result in an estimated $40 million in savings to Arcadia taxpayers. With the refinancing process complete, that figure has more than doubled to over $80 million. In its presentation of the bond refinance results at the May 9 Board of Education meeting, Arcadia Unified's Business Services revealed that it has secured Arcadia taxpayers over $80 million in tax savings.

The increased savings come by way of several favorable factors, but at the forefront is Arcadia Unified's adherence to fiscally responsible practices as reflected by the District's credit rating. The District began the bond refinance process by having two industry-leading credit rating agencies, S&P Global Ratings and Moody's Investors Service, review its credit rating. Each agency rated Arcadia Unified higher than anticipated, AA and Aa1, respectively, citing reasons for the increased rating as Arcadia Unified's conservative management of funds and responsible financial practices along with the District's extremely strong financial condition and high reserve levels. Out of all of the school districts in California that issued bonds last year, less than 16% received as high a credit rating as Arcadia Unified from either agency. As a result of this exceptional rating, the District received very competitive bids for the bonds, with Bank of America Merrill Lynch, who submitted the lowest bid, selected as the winning underwriter. Another key component to the savings is that the bonds were refinanced as current interest bonds, eliminating all of the previous, more expensive capital appreciation bonds. "Our district would be hardpressed to operate at the remarkable level we do without Arcadia taxpayer support," said Arcadia Unified Superintendent Dr. David Vannasdall. "I am incredibly proud of the work our team does in ensuring our district's sound financial status and for exemplifying best practices in management of our taxpayers' money. These savings are exclusively for the taxpayers and come at no cost to the district. I can't be happier with these results."

"It's fantastic to see that just weeks after our voters passed Measure A, securing $77 million for our schools over the next 18 years, we can offer our generous community $80 million in tax savings," expressed Arcadia Unified Board of Education Member Kay Kinsler.

The majority of the refinanced bonds originated from Arcadia Unified's Measure I, Facilities Bond. Approved by voters in November 2006, Measure I, or the Arcadia Neighborhood Schools, Health, Safety, and Repair Measure, authorized $218 million of general obligation bonds to be spent solely for the improvement and modernization of Arcadia Unified School District schools and facilities. Fiscal management of the bonds has been overseen by Arcadia Unified's Business Services, headed by Assistant Superintendent Christina Aragon.

Gabrielino High School Earns State Exemplary Program Award for Art Education

GABRIEL Gabrielino High School has received a 2017 Exemplary Program Award for its outstanding visual and performing arts program, a distinction reserved for 23 of the 275 California Gold Ribbon schools honored in

The recognition shines a light on Gabrielino's 24 visual and performing arts courses – including speech and debate, visual arts and theater – and their ability to evoke creativity, collaboration, critical thinking and communication.

"We are proud to provide an engaging variety of educational opportunities and incentives to our students, like art gallery visits, meet and greets with professional artists, and classes for uncommon interests like stop motion animation," said Kat Ross, Gabrielino's visual and performing arts department chairwoman. "Our dedication to a unique and well-rounded arts education is part of what sets Gabrielino apart."

Only schools that have been awarded the Gold Ribbon distinction can be considered for the Exemplary Program Award, which Gabrielino received this year for increasing English learner graduation rates and improving college eligibility for Hispanic students.

The award measures a program's excellence through several benchmarks, such as whether students can gain industry or academic certifications, whether the program provides adequate equipment and facilities and whether it proves accountability through internal and external program reviews.

"I'm thrilled for Gabrielino to receive such a distinguished award because the work of art educators often goes unseen," Gabrielino Principal Sharron Heinrich said. "This state recognition validates the hard work of our visual and performing arts teachers."

In addition to arts education, Exemplary Program Awards were also granted for schools with outstanding career and technical education and physical activity and nutrition edu-

"San Gabriel Unified is dedicated to providing the best academic and artistic programs for promoting student growth, and this award acknowledges our ongoing efforts," SGUSD Superintendent Dr. John Pappalardo said. "Congratulations to Gabrielino High School for the visual and performing arts program's phenomenal success."

Osteoporosis May Raise Risk Of Needing Long-Term Care

Osteoporosis, which causes thin and weakened bones, is a major health threat for older people. In fact, 54 million Americans have osteoporosis or low bone mass today. Studies show that half of the female population and 25 percent of the male population older than age 50 will suffer a fracture due to this disease in their lifetime, often without symptoms until a fracture occurs. Women are at a higher risk due, in large part, to the drop in estrogen production after menopause. By age 75, the risk is the same for both men and women.

Causes Of The Disease And How To Fight It

Without proper prevention and treatment, a person suffering from osteoporosis faces the possibility of a dramatically altered lifestyle. The human body produces anywhere from 85 to 90 percent of its bone mass by the time a person is 18 to 20 years old. At that point, new bone generation is outpaced by bone loss. Hormone levels, calcium and mineral retention, exercise and other factors all play a role in determining the likelihood that osteoporosis may become a reality for you or your loved ones.

Assessing Your Risk For Osteoporosis

If you are 50 years old or older, it may be a good idea to speak with your health care professional about your chances of getting this disease. Your doctor may want to evaluate your risk factors by asking about your diet, height and weight, lifestyle, family

Your risk for broken bones due to osteoporosis rises with age, but planning ahead for long-term care can help you protect your independence.

bone health history and use of certain medications. A fracture is the most common symptom of osteoporosis. Should a fracture occur, there's a significant possibility that physical independence and overall mobility could be limited. In these cases, the need for long-term care is often a sudden reality.

Where To Get Help

Fortunately, the Federal Long Term Care Insurance Program (FLTCIP) offers comprehensive long-term care insurance coverage for care services in a variety of settings and your choice of caregiver. Care may be provided at home by informal caregivers such as friends, family members and other private caregivers, as well as formal care by licensed caregivers. Informal caregivers cannot have lived in your home at the time you became eligble for benefits, but they can live in your home after you become eligible.

In addition, the FLTCIP's care coordination services offer you and your qualified relatives information about longterm care resources, such as nearby care providers and relevant community programs, as well as valuable support to your family as you manage the conditions of osteoporosis.

Many members of the federal family are eligible to apply for FLTCIP coverage, including federal and U.S. Postal Service employees and annuitants, active and retired members of the uniformed services and qualified relatives. Certain medical conditions, or combinations of conditions, will prevent some people from being approved for coverage. You need to apply to find out if you qualify for coverage under the FLTCIP. To find out if you or a loved one is eligible to apply, visit www.LTCFEDS.com/eligibility. For personalized assistance, call (800) LTC-FEDS [(800) 582-3337]/TTY (800) 843-3557 to speak with a program consultant.
