Construction Authority Signs Contract and Marks the Start of Major Construction for the $2.1 Billion Foothill Gold Line Light Rail Project from Glendora to Montclair

POMONA – The Foothill Gold Line Construction Authority (Construction Authority) held a press conference on the steps of Pomona City Hall to sign the Alignment Design-Build Contract for the 12.3-mile, six-station Foothill Gold Line light rail project from Glendora to Montclair. The contract with the Joint Venture team of Kiewit-Parsons includes an $805.6 million base scope for the first nine miles of the project from Glendora to Pomona, with a twoyear contract option to complete the full project to Montclair for a total contract amount of $1,186.9 million if additional funds are secured by October 2021. The extension will add new stations to the Metro Gold Line system in the cities of Glendora, San Dimas, La Verne, Pomona, Claremont and Montclair, and may be built in phases if the additional funding is not secured in time to initiate the contract option. The Glendora to Pomona segment is anticipated to be completed in 2025, and the entire project to Montclair by 2028 if the contract option is initiated.

"Today, as we sign the contract that kicks off major construction for the next Gold Line segment, we are one step closer to improving mobility and the quality

"Getting to today's contract signing would not have been possible without the partnership and collaboration with LA Metro's board and executive team; and the support of elected officials at all levels, including the San Gabriel Valley Council of Governments and the State of California that provided hundreds of millions of dollars of funding that helped make today possible."

The contract signing with Kiewit-Parsons concludes a twoyear procurement process and officially marks the beginning of major construction for the $2.1 billion light rail project. Kiewit-Parsons, the same design-build team responsible for successfully building the two earlier segments of the Foothill Gold Line between Union Station and Azusa, was ranked the top team in all technical categories by the evaluation committees, as well as provided the lowest overall bid price. They were deemed the best

"Kiewit is excited to have been chosen to build this important rail transportation project in the region," said Terry Robinson, Senior Vice President, Kiewit Infrastructure West Co. "Our long, successful history with the Foothill Gold Line Construction Authority since the late 1990s will only help the Kiewit-Parsons team as we closely collaborate throughout the life of the contract. Upper San Gabriel Valley MWD Wins 2019 WaterSense® Partner of the Year Award

LAS VEGAS, NV -The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) recognized the Upper San Gabriel Valley Municipal Water District (Upper District) with a 2019 WaterSense Partner of the Year Award for its heroic efforts to defeat water waste and promote WaterSense in 2018. Upper District received one of 25 WaterSense awards today at the WaterSmart Innovations Conference in Las Vegas.

Since 2006, Upper District and more than 2,000 other WaterSense partners have helped consumers save more than 3.4 trillion gallons of water. That's enough water to supply all American households for four months! In addition to water savings, WaterSense labeled products and homes have helped reduce the amount of energy needed to heat, pump, and treat water by 462.5 billion kilowatt hours-which is enough to power more than 44.4 million homes for a yearand save $84.2 billion in water and energy bills.

"Our partners have made water-saving products, homes, and programs accessible across the nation and have educated millions on the importance of water conservation," said Veronica Blette, Chief, WaterSense Branch. "These WaterSense award winners are leading the fight against water waste to save our most precious resource."

We believe that being a WaterSense partner has truly enhanced our efforts to outreach to the communities we serve," said Ed Chavez, Board President for Upper District. "Water conservation remains an essential and cost-effective method for the overall sustainability of the San Gabriel Valley water supply. We have made conservation a critical component of our overall mission and actively engage the public about water use efficiency."

WaterSense, a partnership program sponsored by EPA, seeks to protect the future of our nation's water supply by offering consumers and businesses simple ways to use less water with water-efficient products, homes, and services. For more information about WaterSense, www.epa.gov/watersense.

Representatives from nearly 40 colleges and universities answered questions about program offerings, admission and financial aid information for students and their families. Breakout sessions staggered throughout the three-hour event covered such topics as selecting the right school, and NCAA eligibility and scholarships.

America's Christian Credit Union Staff Participate in Generosity Initiative

ACCU staff Nikole, Jade, and Richard with Citrus Foundation staff Ada Luna and Clarence Cernal

GLENDORA - America's Christian Credit Union (ACCU), a faith-based financial institution headquartered in Southern California, recently concluded a four-month generosity initiative. In keeping with its key corporate priorities of building stronger families and communities, the credit union's employees increased efforts to help people in need throughout the months of June through September. The generosity initiative kicked off with a clothing drive to benefit foster youth who are aging out and need business attire for job interviews. The outfits donated were collected by staff members of David & Margaret Youth and Family Services, a nonprofit based in La Verne, CA.

"Most of the foster youth come to us in ripped-up jeans and t-shirts," said program manager Marissa Scholefield. "They don't even know what work-appropriate attire is. We notice an immediate change in the confidence they feel when they receive these clothes."After helping foster youth dress for success, ACCU staff responded to a request from The Shower of Hope for muchneeded toiletries and other personal items. The nonprofit operates a mobile shower structure for homeless persons. "These amazing donations will be very welcomed by the folks we serve!" said Anne Ramirez, who stopped by ACCU's Glendora headquarters to collect the items donated. The summer-long gener-

Ruby, a loan servicing manager who participates in the American Red Cross blood drive every year, summed it up for her coworkers when she said, "It's the least I can do to help save lives."

ACCU employees are extremely generous with their time, often giving up precious weekend hours for volunteer service. Four staff members—Jessica, Priscilla, Rachel, and Sylvia—spent several hours at Foothill Community Church, Azusa, one Saturday in September, helping prepare, serve, and clean up after a lunch for people in need. Jessica, a branch services representative, noted how the guests engaged in lively conversations at their tables. "It was beautiful to see the community that has been formed as a result of this weekly event," she said. ACCU's summer of generosity concluded with two drives honoring veterans. Employees donated gowns, shoes, and other accessories to Armor of Light's annual gown giveaway, which outfits ladies attending the Marine Corps Birthday Ball. Additionally, food items and gift cards were collected for members of the Veterans Success Center at Citrus College."I love being able to lend a hand to these Veterans," says ACCU's community engagement coordinator, Nikole. "They have fought so hard for our country, it is wonderful to be able to provide a such a small donation and know that it can go a long

ACCU's HR director Richard Mathews was proud to see credit union staff participating in the generosity initiative with such enthusiasm. "Working at ACCU is much more than a job and a paycheck," said Mathews. "We are a mission-minded community partner, privileged to be able to live out the credit union's mission by helping a wide array of deserving ministries and nonprofits, month in and month out."

There's No Place Like Home In Los Angeles County

Board Approves $126,868,000 to Fund 1,541 Units of Affordable Housing

LOS ANGELES COUNTY-On Tuesday, the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors (Board) approved funding for a total of 18 affordable multifamily rental housing developments (projects) selected through the No Place Like Home (NPLH) Program Notice of Funding Availability (NOFA) Round 2019-1. The 18 projects will receive a total of $126,868,000 in NPLH funds. On April 30, 2019, the Los Angeles County Development Authority (LACDA), in partnership with the Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health (LACDMH), issued its first NPLH NOFA in the amount of $207 million. While an initial amount of $207 million was made available, over $500 million in project funding was requested by 68 projects. After the completion of technical review, the LACDA recommended a total of 58 projects to the LACDA's Board of Commissioners, which will provide over 3,600 units of supportive housing.

Of the 58 projects recommended, the Board approved the first 18 projects. The 18 projects will create a total of 1,541 housing units, consisting of 581 NPLH units set aside for households who are homeless, chronically homeless, or at-risk of chronic homelessness with a mental illness or emotionally disturbed child or adolescent; 398 units for homeless households; 187 units for general lowincome families and seniors; 140 units for homeless veterans; 131 units for chronically homeless households; 30 units for transition age youth; 22 units for homeless seniors; 17 units for frequent users of the Department of Health Services or LACDMH services; 12 units for non-NPLH mentally ill homeless households; and 23 units for onsite managers.

The total NPLH Program funding allocation to Los Angeles County will be approximately $700 million, with the total allocation based on the results of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development Pointin-Time homeless count. The LACDA will continue to release subsequent NPLH Program NO-FAs that target the creation of housing opportunities for NPLH-eligible projects.

Barger Lauds Responsible County Budget Prioritizing Child Services, Public Safety And Mental Health Care

LOS ANGELES COUNTY -Supervisor Kathryn Barger announced that the Board of Supervisors approved a $36.1 billion final budget that places a strong emphasis on critical issues affecting county residents.

"In addition to a $600 million Rainy Day fund, which will be held in reserves for the next economic downturn, our County CEO has presented a balanced and fiscally-responsible budget that provides needed services to our residents and prioritizes child welfare, public safety and homeless services.

Public safety is a top priority and funding for Sheriff's Department recruitment will enable more deputies to be on patrol in our communities. To improve protection of children in our care, particularly in the Antelope Valley, we are implementing Continuous Quality Improvement Teams and adding vital resources to improve services in the Palmdale and Lancaster offices of the Department of Children Services. This investment will improve child safety in the Antelope Valley and countywide.

Additionally, we allocated $7.6 million to provide transportation for foster youth who want to remain at their school. I am pleased that we are adding $12.5 million for mental health care resources where we need it the most – to develop and enhance services in our schools. We allocated $72 million in Measure H funding to enhance services to the homeless population, including housing for our Transition Age Youth."

The Washington Democrat establishment has spent more time the last three years taking pot shots at President Trump with the goal of impeaching him than anything else that I can see they've done. Constant criticism over his meetings with Russia, Korea and China in his attempts to establish some form of communication and cooperation with these worrisome adversaries. Talk and tariffs have always proven to be more effective and cheaper than bullets and bombs.

In the latest round of explosive efforts to thwart the Trump Administration and the President himself. Democrat Leadership. led by Rep. Adam Schiff, Chair of House Intelligence Committee, continue to hammer Trump with charges, this time through a "whistleblower" and are now turning to impeachment hearings.

The Washington Post Fact-Checker, Glenn Kessler, documented comments by Rep. Adam Schiff on the "whistleblower" issue. The documentation is a full investigation of all documents and comments by Schiff and came to the conclusion Schiff was either dodging questions or not answering truthfully. A Schiff staffer offered an explanation for Schiff that I interpret to be -Schiff answered questions badly and should have been clearer in his comments and should have communicated the "whistleblower" was waiting instructions on how to file the complaints.

Fact-Checker Kessler has said Rep. Adam Schiff has made misleading and false statements. Therefore, he has earned the Washington Post's "Four Pinocchios", an award given to politicians who, after vigorous review of piles of papers and reports by Post fact-checkers, have failed to communicate accurately and Shade's Perspective Lois M. Shade Former Mayor of Glendora honestly.

The "whistleblower" complaint charges President Trump tried to pressure Ukrainian President Zelenskiy to investigate Presidential Candidate, Joe Biden and Biden's son, to "dig up dirt" for the upcoming 2020 election. Rep. Adam Schiff, Chair, House intelligence committee, has said he thinks the "whistleblower" has given the Democrats the roadmap to impeachment of President Trump. Reports in the Sacramento Bee, Associated Press, 9-24-19... "Pelosi told colleagues ... they need to 'strike while the iron is hot,' according to a senior Democratic aide unauthorized to discuss the private meeting. The aide was granted anonymity."

Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-SC) Chair, Senate Judiciary Committee, appeared on Fox News and said, "The "whistleblower complaint is hearsay ... ["whistleblower] was not on the phone call ... heard about the phone call from somebody else ... the fact that Nancy Pelosi would argue for impeachment before she read the transcript [of the phone call]

tells me she has lost control."

Graham went on to say, "I've read the phone call transcript. The President of the United States congratulated the Ukrainian President on his win." Graham explained the conversation between the two presidents was an explanation of withholding aid -"You know, Germany and other people ought to pay more. That's one of the reasons we're withholding aid," Graham reported Trump telling Ukrainian President Zelenskiy.

Graham went on reporting on the phone call transcript. He said Trump asked about a request by Joe Biden to have a prosecutor fired because Biden's son was sitting on a board of a company being investigated by that prosecutor. In fact, Graham told Fox News Biden threatened to cut-off aid to the Ukraine. Biden's son was receiving $50,000 a month for that board position. (To listen to Fox News with Sen. Graham go to CA 48th Republican Committee Facebook).

Additional reports by Patrick Howley a journalist for Breitbart News Network in Washington, D.C., The Washington Free Beacon and The Daily Caller have surfaced indicating Speaker Nancy Pelosi's son, Paul Pelosi, Jr. was involved with a gas industry company that did business in the Ukraine with Nancy a featured speaker at one of the company's promo videos. Viscoil Holdings, the employer previously based in Escondido, is currently suspended by the California Secretary of State.

Sacramento Bee, Associated Press, has said, "The new [impeachment] drive was led by a group of moderate Democratic lawmakers from political swing districts, many of them with national security backgrounds and serving in Congress for the first time. The freshmen, who largely represent districts previously held by Republicans where Trump is popular, risk their own reelections but say they could no longer stand idle."

Pelosi has not wanted to move forward with the impeachment proceedings but as Sen. Graham said, it appears she's lost control of the House Democrats.

Needed right now is a clear definition, for us average citizens, of illegal activities versus conflict of interest activities. I would propose a close look at Rep. Adam Schiff and his activities ... as close a look at him as he is giving President Trump.

NOTE: As I write this, a new "whistleblower" has surfaced. Looks like the Republicans punched a few holes in the first "whistleblower".

Trump Pushes Back At Endless | My Turn: Obama Missing? Not As Far As I Can See.

As I coast through the social media and read the comments from people, I get especially amused by some of the frequent and similar rhetoric that people inadvertently share. One popular remark when a post is presented showing the couple known as Barack and Michelle Obama, is about how they are a wonderful couple. OKAY that's fine. You are entitled to your opinion. But what usually follows is the part I chuckle about. The folks adoring the Obamas will often say "How much they are missed."

Missed? Who said they were

They make it sound so final, so tragic, almost. But let's face it, the Obamas had two full fouryear terms in the White House. Their time there was not cut short by tragedy like John F. Kennedy or Abraham Lincoln. While many Republicans expressed disappointment, no one was obsessing about it day and night, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. There were no continuous and sustained efforts to get rid of him. No attempted denial of the two Supreme Court Justices that Obama got to nominate with approval, in spite of a third person that was not approved. No hatred from the mainstream media, attempting to disrupt what he did. No majority boycott of the opposing party at his inauguration. No avoidance of talk shows, magazines, entertainment venues. No school academic curriculums designed to hate him. There was a lack of any number of symbols of outrage in a mainstream manner.

And yet people talk and react as though they have been somehow "slighted" because he had to leave office, even though it was at the end of the prescribed length of service.

Even the whole "birther" issue was limited in its scope, especially compared to the issues of the Electoral College, the Russian Collusion and other attempted grasps of the Obama supporters desiring the removal of the following President. And by the way, the Birther issue was begun, not by the Right, but by the Hillary Clinton campaign of 2008, and her advisor, Sid Blumenthal. Here is what we, on the other side, don't miss. We don't miss the apologizes for America, the name calling about us clinging to our guns and our God, our police accused of acting stupidly, our vets ignored by the VA in their time of need, along with the higher taxes, lower employment expectations, factories closed, jobs departed, and uncertainty evident. We don't miss threats of gun confiscation that still exists even as the opposing side denies it. We don't miss religious freedom questioned even to the extent of him giving speeches at religious schools and having the "Deity" covered up so as "not to offend." We don't miss the speech to the UN about America over-reaching and being a bully, all while Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu defended his country in a speech to the UN sounding more like a man who should be our President. But our President, the President that they "miss so much" didn't sound like Netan-

This is where Doctors, assistants and staff went to Africa and helped correct deformities on people who were in need of plastic surgery. Since this is a project that the Rotary supports in a big way, the name Rotaplast comes from blending Rotary and Plastic surgery together.

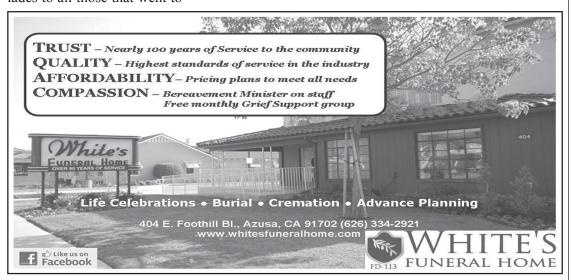

His presentation was very informative and he gave accolades to all those that went to

TIME JOCKEY" - Mission History

By Joe Castillo

Historical Notes.... The Mission San Gabriel has been here since 1771 when the Spanish sought to establish a chain of Missions and Presidios in Alta California, and then later to establish settlements in which to spread their Spanish influence and Catholic religion. The original plan was to establish only 5 Missions from San Diego to Carmel, with Mission San Antonio, San Gabriel and San Luis Obispo in between. But the plan changed as the early Missions were very successful and California was a lot larger area than the Missionaries expected. Eventually 21 Missions were established along the costal route, each with the intent of having a travel distance of only one day. The first Mission San Gabriel mass was celebrated on September 8, 1771 with an altar made of makeshift boxes used to carry supplies from Mexico.

Father Angel Fernandez de la Somera and Father Pedro Benito Cambon led the expedition which traveled 26 days from San Diego, north on the Rio de los Temblores (River of Earthquakes) to where the San Gabriel and Rio Hondo rivers met. The site was fully inhabited with indigenous people, and the land was so fertile that anything would grow. Building began on some initial church structures using adobe bricks and plans were being formulated to build an entire complex of church buildings. The Mission Vieja or "Old Mission" was built of walls of saplings, with mud used to fill the cracks, roofs were made of large bulrushes. Progress was slow as the San Gabriel River kept growing in size and the Rio Hondo River kept changing course. The erratic flow of the river caused the river to wipe out whatever progress the priests had made.

By 1776, a new site was being sought and the mission moved its operations five miles to the northwest to a location which was just as fertile but had no wild rivers running through its crops and building structure locations. The priests and the indigenous natives worked well together with food grown at the Mission shared with those who worked at the Missions. Housing was readily available as needed and eventually materials and machinery were used to make items never seen before. Other Fran-

el along the El Camino Real to bring additional supplies to the Mission and as trade became more greater along the route, so too did the prosperity of the Mission San Gabriel.

The only problem with life at the Mission was the behavior of the Spanish soldiers who were assigned to protect Spanish interests along the El Camino Real and at the various Missions established along the route. The soldiers went virtually unchecked and the assigned Mission priests were helpless and unable to act on any of the misdeeds and abuses performed by the soldiers. Even though misdeeds were reported to the Governor, little or no action was taken. This caused a great deal of strain on the relationship the priests had with the local indigenous people, a relationship which needed to be strong as it was required to ensure the Indian labor necessary to build Mission buildings would remain in a friendly and cooperative state.....

America's Wealth

This bull market has made millions of Americans richer, if they had just stayed invested in good stocks and not bought into the fear the media threw in their faces every day. The Fed just released its quarterly report on America's net household wealth. Please note that the word "net" means assets after all debt is subtracted - all credit card debt, mortgage debt, college debt, and bank loans. Net U.S. household wealth rose to a record $113.5 trillion in mid-2019, up 88% from 10-1/4 years earlier, at the start of the bull market in March 2009. Today's wealth is up 59% from the previous peak before the 2008 crash, in 2007.

Real estate crashed in 2006 and stocks in 2008. Americans who got back into both assets grew far richer.

Average Americans who owned their own home, invested in 401(k) plans at work, and invested in stocks via mutual funds rode the market higher. Don't let the doomsday crowd tell you otherwise. Most Americans own stocks and our own homes, and more of us than ever own (or participate in owning) a small busimarket capitalism. Manufactured Asian growth rates or the unrealistic utopian cradle-to-grave social promises in Europe cannot be sustained. America, problems and all, is where our money can multiply.

Let's move the historical needle back 150 years ago to 1869. Europe was far richer than America then. Argentina vied with the U.S. as the richest nation (per capita) in the Western hemisphere. What made America the richest nation in the world 50 years later, catapulting above the aristocracies of the world in short order?

In May 1869, the U.S. Transcontinental Railroad was completed, with lines from east and west meeting in Utah. Later that year, in November, the Suez Canal was completed in Egypt. Between the two, the world was commercially linked, horizontally. No more dangerous and timeconsuming sailing around the Capes under Africa or South America. Railroads linked the mines of the American west to the markets of the American east. From 1870 to 1900, U.S. iron and steel production multiplied 10-fold, the production of oil grew by more than 20-fold. Cotton and wheat production doubled. The U.S. population also doubled in 30 years, as the whole world seemed to want to come here, with jobs that seemed to be lacking everywhere else on earth.

The secret of America's ascent to economic primacy was neither the cleverness of its inventors (England's were as smart) nor the richness of its resources (Russia's were richer). Rather, the secret of America's success was its vast domestic market, the largest single market in the

The results were little short of miraculous. Between 1869 and the end of the nineteenth century, the American economy grew as no economy has ever done before and very few did after. From a laggard in the race to industrialize, trailing Britain, Germany and France, the United States became the leader of the pack with a manufacturing output that by 1900 surpassed the three European powers combined.

There were inequities, of course, but we should always ask: Compared to what alternatives, at that time? Likewise, today, when we see America's problems, we must always ask: Compared to what alternatives?

Your Money - Ask Julia

You've mentioned that life insurance is an important part of an estate plan. How?

Nowadays, there are three basic ways that life insurance is important in your estate plan. First of all, there's a type of life insurance that can accumulate money that is accessible while you are alive - funds to use for anything you want. Second, life insurance helps your heirs. Life insurance normally pays quickly, and most often these funds are income tax free. This money helps to pay funeral expenses, taxes, administrative costs, debts, or keep business operating while the estate is being settled. If the survivors have lost the income of a paycheck or Social Security check, life insurance can help to fund an income stream. And, finally, life insurance can increase the family's wealth after the death of a loved one. Fixed-indexed annuities also pay quickly, but can also be set up to pay out over a longer timeframe, thus limiting the heirs from wasting their windfall in a short period of time.

What are my options for getting my money out of my annuity that is about to mature?

It depends on your annuity policy contract. With some annuities, you can take a lump sum upon maturity. With others, you leave the money alone during the growth period, and then you're required to take it out over a period of years. Some annuity policy contracts allow limited access to your money, usually starting at the beginning of the second year. Annuity contracts are commonly supportive of the government requirements for

What is a buy-sell agree-

It is a way to transfer business assets to a partner or to family. These agreements are usually set up to take effect under specific circumstances such as death, retirement, or total disability. Life insurance or annuities are typically used to offset the potentially cost-prohibitive endeavor of buying out a partner or family member. There are two types: the cross-purchase agreement in which business partners set up a contract to purchase the business from each other, and the entitypurchase agreement in which the business agrees to purchase the partner's or family's share.

How can we be more financially prepared for disasters?

Putting aside, for a moment, the emotions and basic physical needs of food, water, shelter, medical care, and personal protection, it is also important to think about being more financially prepared in case of a disaster. In the case of loss of life, there are always survivors who wish their loved one had more life insurance. In the case of 'natural' disasters (hurricanes, tornados, earthquakes, fires, etc.), homeowners or renter's insurance helps. It can also be helpful to have an easily accessible stash of cash. (ATMs use electricity and can run out of money.) It's also good to stockpile supplies (e.g. toilet paper, coffee, first aid items) to trade for items someone else has available. Keep in mind that if this nation's economy, or even the global economy was to crash, we're all going to be in the same survival situation.

The Hazards Of Running On Fumes

Are you one of those people that wait until a warning beeps or the low fuel light illuminates? Do you feel confident you can go several more miles before actually running out of gas? Do you make a game of "I think I can, I think I can" meaning I think I can get to a gas station on just fumes alone? If so, read on!

I've known a few people in my time who enjoy the challenge of pulling up to the gas station on fumes. Sure...they have lost a few times and had to hoof it to the nearest station, buy a gas can and walk back to where their trusty vehicle finally stopped. Some even brag after this experience that now they actually know for sure how many miles they can drive after the fuel warning lights up! I'm happy those people enjoy such games and challenges, but playing that game can have costly, not to mention damaging results for your vehicle.

Most vehicles have an electric fuel pump located inside the fuel tank and are actually submerged in the fuel. The fuel pump is an electric motor that spins at a high rate of speed. Spinning mechanical parts create heat and need lubrication, which is why the pump is at the bottom of the fuel tank completely covered with

The fuel pump is always spinning as long as the engine is running, which makes it more important not to run low on gas. When your fuel gauge reads below \(\frac{1}{4} \) of a tank, the fuel pump is starting to be exposed to air inside the tank, instead of the cool

If you put your hands together and rub them back and forth as fast as you can, you will create heat, when you stop, it will take a few minutes for them to cool down. However, if you put them under water they cool down immediately. Maybe not a great analogy, but I think you get the Overheating fuel pumps is the number one cause of failure. The cost of replacing a fuel pump on most cars is roughly $600 to $1000 and some cost even more.

The best thing you can do for your vehicle is fill it up when it gets to a quarter tank. It will save you money in the long run and keep your car running well. Sure...it doesn't have the same challenge as driving on fumes, but when it comes to your vehicle, it is always wise to consider damage control...both to your car and your wallet!

Fact or Fiction | Sports Injuries

By Gregory Gomez, MD

Back-to-school season is in full swing, which comes with the kick-off of fall sports like football, soccer and volleyball. With these activities, however, comes the risk of injury. In fact, according to Safe Kids Worldwide, 90 percent of student athletes report some sort of injury during their athletic career.

From sprains and tears to more serious injuries like concussions. let's separate fact from fiction for everything you need to know about sports-related injuries.

Fiction: I'll know right away if I have a concussion.

Reality: This isn't always the case. Sometimes concussions can be tougher to diagnose since the damage occurs inside your brain at a cellular level. Many people think getting a concussion always comes with a loss of consciousness, but there are other symptoms that can point to this type of injury. They can include a headache, nausea, dizziness or confusion. Sometimes symptoms don't appear until days later after the initial injury. Seek medical attention right away if you start to experience any of the above symptoms. Football is not the only sport subject to concussion injuries; soccer along with other impact type sports are susceptible to concussions. As an athlete, it's important to pay attention to cues and take inventory of how your body is feeling long after the game is over.

Fact: Strains and sprains are some of the most common types of sports injuries.

Reality: While concussions tend to get the limelight in today's sports community, the more common sports injuries actually include minor ailments such as ankle sprains, groin pulls, hamstring strains and shin splints, which is pain caused by overuse along the shinbone or tibia, the large front bone in the lower leg. Sprains are injuries to ligaments, the bands connecting bones in a joint. Strains are pulled muscles, and both happen from overstretch or overuse.

Fiction: *Injuries are inevita*ble, and there's nothing you can do to prevent them. Reality: Did you know that more than half of sports-related injuries can be prevented? At least once a year, schedule a visit with a sports medicine specialist for a full orthopedic checkup; he or she will be able to provide personalized recommendations for prevention methods based on your medical history.

When you're on the field or getting ready for your daily run, always remember to stretch before and after your chosen activity. This helps loosen the joints

And finally, make sure you're wearing proper protective equipment, whether that's a fitted helmet to make your next touchdown or a sturdy pair of knee pads to dive and hit the ball over the net.

Reality: We know it can be frustrating for an athlete to get an injury and be stuck on the sidelines. While you'll need to give your body rest initially, there are ways to recover safely and ease back into physical activity, even with serious injuries like concussions. Light activity is encouraged as your body begins to heal. Consult your physician for a recovery schedule and have routine follow ups to assess your progress along the way.

The Glendora to Montclair project is named as one of Metro's 28 priority projects to be completed before the 2028 Olympic Games in Los Angeles and is the fourth rail project currently in major construction in the county. It will provide connections to important regional destinations like the LA County Fairplex, two dozen more colleges and universities, historic downtowns, museums, regional parks and open space areas, and much more. In addition, the extension will provide a direct link between the Metro and Metrolink systems, allowing riders from each system to easily transfer; creating endless possibilities for connections throughout the region.

It is estimated that during construction alone, the Foothill Gold Line from Glendora to Montclair will create as many as 16,000 jobs and up to $2.6 billion in economic output for the region, as well as up to $1 billion in labor income and potentially $40 million in tax revenue (according to an economic study by Beacon Economics). Once completed, the line is estimated to add more than 18,300 riders to the Metro system every day.
